Funds Unavailable For School Busing

Washington (UPI) — None of $62 million being made available by the government this year to aid school districts in desegregating may be used for pupil busing, the administration said Friday.

The Office of Education announced the award of the first $22.5 million of the funds, which will go to 41 school districts in 11 states.

"There is not one penny for pupil transportation," Herman R Goldberg said of the award made Friday. Goldberg is an associate commissioner of education He said there also would be no money for busing in the remaining $39.5 million of grants.

The Office of Education had said earlier that busing "will be given a very low funding priority," and the first distribution of money followed White House policy that no funds would be used for transportation of any kind.

President Nixon set off a national debate on busing with a statement Aug. 3 that the administration's policy would be to restrict school busing "to the minimum required by law."

Nixon said, "I am against busing as that term is commonly used in school desegregation cases. I have consistently opposed the busing of our nation's school children to achieve a racial balance, and I am opposed to the busing of children simply for the sake of busing." The largest award Friday went to the Jackson. Miss., school district which gets $2,016,500. It had the highest rating of 89 applying districts under a scale devised by the office of education.

Various local school districts also were allocated funds in Alabama, Arkansas, California, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

The grants will be used for staff human relations training of school workers ranging from janitors to teachers; new ways of teaching, programs to help students of different races learn to get along with each other, programs to reduce community tension and employment of teacher and staff aides, Goldberg said.

Goldberg said in an interview

"If we gave even limited amounts for transportation, you would see limited ability to fulfill the promise of federal dollars for instruction purposes.

"We applied strict and unemotional techniques of the management field and combined them with the human relations aspects of school desegregation to determine who got the money."

Lincoln Firemen Vote To Accept 5% Pay Hike

Lincoln fire fighters have voted to accept the 5 per cent across-the-board wage increase offered by the city, Robert Plantz, president of the Lincoln Fire Fighters Association said Friday.

The vote, Plantz said, was not unanimous.

"Viewing the economic situation and other contributing factors, we decided to go along with the 5 per cent," he said, adding that the union will probably negotiate for a more favorable settlement for the next fiscal year.

Plantz said the approach taken by the union this year "was given a lot of thought and looked at to be the most sensible approach to take this year."

He said the union has always had a good relationship with City Hall.

An item of concern to the fire fighters is a survey of similar size cities in the Midwest which indicates Lincoln firemen were among the lowest paid of those surveyed.

Plantz said he hoped the contract would be signed by next week He said some nonbudgetary items involving work rules still needed to be worked out.

C46 Transport Crashes

Seoul (UPI) — A South Korean Air Force C46 transport flane crashed Friday killing two crewmen and injuring 29 special forces soldiers who were on parachute jump training. The defense ministry said the crash occurred on take off from Kwangju Air Base, 170 miles south of Seoul.

Control Feared . . .

State Pesticide Law Urged

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

Unless Nebraska adopts some laws regulating the use of pesticides, the federal Environmental Protection Agency may do it for the state, according to Bill Gilmore, a state Agriculture Dept. attorney.

"The thought of federal control scares the devil out of me," Gilmore told the Legislative interim study committee on pesticides.

The federal Environmental Pesticides Control Act currently before the Congress provides that EPA will control pesticides in states which have inadequate or no programs regulating pesticides. Nebraska along with Missouri, Ohio and Indiana does not regulate or license pesticides

Gilmore suggested the committee recommend to the Legislature a bill which would eliminate the need for the EPA to step in.

Passage Possible

"The ideal way to control pesticides is by licensing dealers," Gillmore told the committee.

Both Aeronautics Director Nicholas Smeloff and Gilmore agreed that the pesticides regulatory job should belong to the Dept. of Agriculture. The Aeronautics Dept., they suggested, should restrict itself to licensing pilots and aircraft.

"We would experience a loss of effective control if we split the responsibility between the two departments," Smeloff said. "Besides we don't have the personnel to handle it."

Trend Encouraging

Other testimony at the hearing came from Bob Rosell, an NU extension entomologist, and Phil Agee, chief of wildlife services for the Game Commission. Both said they were encouraged by the shift in agricultural use from chlorinated hydrocarbons (e.g., DDT) which do not decompose rapidly to use of organic phosphates which are short-lived.

"The chlorinated hydrocarbons now amount to less than 5% of the total used in the state, and there is virtually no DDT," Rosell said.

However, Agee said the Game Commission will continue to monitor toxins in the ecosystem.

According to Agee, the organic phosphates have resulted in some losses in wildlife, but he said the losses were only temporary.

The pesticide monitor also includes toxic metals, mercury being among the most publicized.

Agee said mercury levels in the state's fish are below three-tenths part per million. Five-tenths part per million is the tolerance level.

"There is no cause for real concern over mercury right now," he said.

High Court Rule Asked On Books

The Nebraska Supreme Court Friday was asked to decide the constitutionality of LB659 which allows public schools to loan textbooks to private schools students, according to the Star's sources.

In the petition an Omaha family asked the Supreme Court to accept original jurisdiction as to the constitutionality of the law which went into effect Friday. The Supreme Court can either agree to a hearing or deny it.

Under the law, private school students would be loaned nonreligious textbooks while the public schools would receive $15 in state funds for each student involved.

Previously, Friday State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley announced Attorney General Clarence A. H. Meyer had advised him not to implement the law until the Supreme Court had ruled wehther the law violates the separation of church and state.

"It is our advice that your office take no action by way of implementation of the free textbook law, unless and until the Supreme Court of Nebraska shall determine that the Act is constitutional, and that you should advise the various public school districts accordingly.

As far as whether the case would clear the confusion surrounding the issue of public aid to private schools, Stanley said he doubted the issue could be resolved in one suit but added that it would set a precedent.

Among those contending the law is constitutional, Paul V. O'Hara, executive director of the Nebrasa Catholic Conference, has said that the law does not aid the private school but the students.

Stanley said he hoped the Court would hear the case as soon as possible since most schools resume classes in the next week or so.

14-Year-Old Prodding City Council To Action

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

A 14-year-old Lincolnite with a gift for advocacy is turning heads as a member of the Mayor's Bicycle Safety Committee.

He is Dave Boomer of 5330 Fairdale Road and one of the two youth members of the committee, which has spent the summer drafting plans for bicycle routes and rules in the city.

Last week, when the committee took a request for funds to the City Council, Dave served as the group's spokesman. The council met the next day and voted to add to the city budget the nearly $16,000 the committee had sought to improve bicycle routes.

This week the committee's bicycle ordiance was introduced for council consideration, and a public hearing on the proposal has been set for Monday.

The committee tries "to serve needs for transportation, recreation and pleasure," said Dave, himself a traveler via 10-speed.

In addition he noted, the committee has worked to draw up plans to insure as much safety as possible for the city's bicyclists. who are appearing with ever-increasing numbers on local thoroughfares.

The accomplish those ends, the committee has drawn up a comprehensive plan for 39 miles of "primary" bicycle routes

And it drafted the new ordinance to clarify rules and regulation for bicycle travel.

The $16,000 in city funds will put the community on the way to recognizing cyclists needs by providing signs for the routes, bike racks and a bicycle-pedestrian bridge near Eden Pool

"I was really glad to see it," Dave said of the council's decision to add those items to the budget.

"Now we can go ahead with what we've worked on."

Dave's participation on the committee may be an indication of things to come — he says he is "interested in working in government at the city or state level"

And with the kind of success he's had on his first go-round with public persuasion, perhaps he'll show up some day on the other side of the fence — making budget and policy decisions from a public office.

Workers May Get Frozen Pay Hikes

. . . ADMINISTRATION HINTS

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration hinted Friday it may move to placate powerful labor opposition to the wage-price freeze by allowing workers to collect later some of the hundreds of millions of dollars in frozen pay hikes.

"I feel that as much as possible, where there are bona fide, legalistic contracts, people should get what they have coming to them," said Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, key White House liaison man in a new administration bid for labor cooperation.

In other major economic developments, the government and most economists hailed Japan's floating of the yen as a victory for Nixon's new economic program, and the U.S. list of leading business indicators moved ahead significantly.

'Welcome The Decision'

"We welcome the decision of Japan as a further step toward a more realistic alignment of international exchange rates," said the Treasury Department of Japan's action to let the yen's value float upward in relation to the dollar.

"Economic growth is likely to accelerate in the months ahead," said Assistant-Sectetary of Commerce Harold C. Passer of the report that business indicators rose 1.4% last month.

The July report was based on figures before Nixon's wage-price freeze, 10% import tax and other moves, and Passer said the new program should bring further improvements.

"Additional stimulus is being provided by the new economic program," he said.

Indicators Improve

Indicators showing improvement in July were the ratio of prices to labor costs. building permits, new orders for durable goods, and a drop in new claims for unemployment insurance. They outweighed declines in the average work week, industrial materials prices, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, and stock prices.

Usery, commenting on organized labor's complaints, said no final determination has been made on whether workers later may collect wage hikes caught in the freeze, but that the administration is considering this and other union protests that workers were being unfairly treated.

Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said the freeze should be followed by federal action to halt what he said were abuses of power in setting wages and prices.

"It may be that the best way to get at this problem of abuse of power is through some form of wage-price review board relying on enforcement by the Department of Justice and through the courts," Romney said.

It should also include profits, Romney added. He emphasized he was speaking for himself and declined to comment on whether officials agree with him.

Nixon Supported

Although favoring covering profits in any new system of economic controls, Romney said he supported Nixon in not including interest rates in the freeze.

Usery also said interest rates should not be covered because they were already declining, and that with new housing starts at the highest level in history care should be taken not to dry up the mortgage money supply by freezing interest.

AFL-CIO President George Meany and other labor leaders denounced the freeze as placing the major burden on workers but supported Nixon's plan to bring the dollar in line with other world currencies.

Meany, spokesman for 13.6 million workers in 120 AFL-CIO unions, said he would continue refusing cooperation with the wage-prize freeze but declined to say whether labor will cooperate in Nixon's Phase II program to follow the freeze. He also said the import tax was only a stop-gap measure.

Usery and Herbert Stein, vice chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic advisers who is in charge of post-freeze planning, indicated it will be something less than rigid wage-price controls.

"A Transition'

"We regard Stage in as a stage in the transition from the freeze to free markets, and so will be looking at various possibilities of trimming the coverage, of adopting the guidelines, of invoking cooperation in one way or another," Stein said.

Usery, a former union official, said cooperation of organized labor in the post-freeze period is vital to the success of any economic program.

"People are tired of going to the store and seeing prices go up and up. What good is it to get more wages if you can't eat with it?" he said.

Helicopters Are Utilized To Intercept IRA Men

Belfast, Northern Ireland (UPI) — British marines used helicopters Friday to try to intercept remnants of the Irish Republican Army (IRA) before they could slip across the border to the Irish Republic for more ammunition

While marines were launching their helicopter dragnet, refugees from Northern Ireland's violence began trickling back to the battered province after the first peaceful 24 hours in three weeks. They came from the Irish Republic to the south and England across the Irish Sea.

They sent out a pair of 14-man helicopters and a scout chopper as "flying roadblocks" to try to catch IRA men before they could cross the border into the Irish Republic, said Lt. Dave Roberts, a commando spokesman.

The IRA is outlawed in both Northern Ireland and the Republic. Northern Ireland Premier Brian Faulkner on Aug. 9 authorized the jailing of suspects without trial in an attempt to stamp out the IRA — and triggered a wave of violence which has claimed at least 33 lives, including 27 civilians.

A British army spokesman said many IRA men were among the 239 persons now in jail under the internment without trial act in the province.

The "flying roadblocks," said Roberts, were part of "Operation Stop Gap" — a drive to round up other IRA men. If they get across the border, he said "we know they are coming back — with ammunition."

He said the helicopter squads swooped down to set up at least six roadblocks Friday. Although no suspects were captured, the operation proved "very fast, effective. We are highly pleased. This way we speed things up and use fewer men."

A source close to the IRA said the outlawed organization, which seeks reunification of the independent south with the British-controlled north, seriously depleted its supplies during the August battles with British forces in the province.

Youth Injured In Cycle Crash

Police said Lawrence S. Buell, 20. of 715 N. 16th Street, was southbound on 27th when he stopped at the intersection of Laurel when Wayne A. Wilcox, of 3795 Washington, riding a motorcycle, struck the rear of the Buell vehicle, police reported.

Wilcox suffered bruises and was taken to Lincoln General Hospital where he was listed in good condition early Saturday morning, police reported.

Bids Asked On New Buses

City Purchasing Agent Wayne Harvey said Friday he has requested bids from three bus manufacturers for 36 45-passenger buses.

Delivery of the air-conditioned buses by early spring has been requested. Harvey said.

He said the specifications were mailed Friday afternoon to three firms for bids. The bid opening date is Sept. 22.

Harvey said a contract to the successful bidder should be ready by the first part of October, the delivery date set at no later than six months from that date.

The purchasing agent said the Department of Transportation, which will pay for two-thirds the cost of the buses, has approved the specifications for the buses and the fare boxes and two-way radios. The fare boxes and two-way radios will be let for bidding at a later date, he said.

Workers May Get Frozen Pay Hikes

. . . ADMINISTRATION HINTS

Washington (AP) — The Nixon administration hinted Friday it may move to placate powerful labor opposition to the wage-price freeze by allowing workers to collect later some of the hundreds of millions of dollars in frozen pay hikes.

"I feel that as much as possible, where there are bona fide, legalistic contracts, people should get what they have coming to them," said Assistant Secretary of Labor W. J. Usery, key White House liaison man in a new administration bid for labor cooperation.

In other major economic developments, the government and most economists hailed Japan's floating of the yen as a victory for Nixon's new economic program, and the U.S. list of leading business indicators moved ahead significantly.

'Welcome The Decision'

"We welcome the decision of Japan as a further step toward a more realistic alignment of international exchange rates," said the Treasury Department of Japan's action to let the yen's value float upward in relation to the dollar.

"Economic growth is likely to accelerate in the months ahead," said Assistant-Sectetary of Commerce Harold C. Passer of the report that business indicators rose 1.4% last month.

The July report was based on figures before Nixon's wage-price freeze, 10% import tax and other moves, and Passer said the new program should bring further improvements.

"Additional stimulus is being provided by the new economic program," he said.

Indicators Improve

Indicators showing improvement in July were the ratio of prices to labor costs, building permits, new orders for durable goods, and a drop in new claims for unemployment insurance. They outweighed declines in the average work week, industrial materials prices, contracts and orders for plant and equipment, and stock prices.

Usery, commenting on organized labor's complaints, said no final determination has been made on whether workers later may collect wage hikes caught in the freeze, but that the administration is considering this and other union protests that workers were being unfairly treated.

Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said the freeze should be followed by federal action to halt what he said were abuses of power in setting wages and prices.

"It may be that the best way to get at this problem of abuse of power is through some form of wage-price review board relying on enforcement by the Department of Justice and through the courts," Romney said.

It should also include profits, Romney added. He emphasized he was speaking for himself and declined to comment on whether officials agree with him.

Nixon Supported

Although favoring covering profits in any new system of economic controls, Romney said he supported Nixon in not including interest rates in the freeze.

Usery also said interest rates should not be covered because they were already declining, and that with new housing starts at the highest level in history care should be taken not to dry up the mortgage money supply by freezing interest.

AFL-CIO President George Meany and other labor leaders denounced the freeze as placing the major burden on workers but supported Nixon's plan to bring the dollar in line with other world currencies.

Meany, spokesman for 13.6 million workers in 120 AFL-CIO unions, said he would continue refusing cooperation with the wage-prize freeze but declined to say whether labor will cooperate in Nixon's Phase II program to follow the freeze. He also said the import tax was only a stop-gap measure.

Usery and Herbert Stein, vice chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic advisers who is in charge of post-freeze planning, indicated it will be something less than rigid wage-price controls.

"A Transition'

"We regard Stage in as a stage in the transition from the freeze to free markets, and so will be looking at various possibilities of trimming the coverage, of adopting the guidelines, of invoking cooperation in one way or another," Stein said.

Usery, a former union official, said cooperation of organized labor in the post-freeze period is vital to the success of any economic program.

"People are tired of going to the store and seeing prices go up and up. What good is it to get more wages if you can't eat with it?" he said.

The "flying roadblocks," said Roberts, were part of "Operation Stop Gap" — a drive to round up other IRA men. If they get across the border, he said "we know they are coming back — with ammunition."

He said the helicopter squads swooped down to set up at least six roadblocks Friday. Although no suspects were captured, the operation proved "very fast, effective. We are highly pleased. This way we speed things up and use fewer men."

A source close to the IRA said the outlawed organization, which seeks reunification of the independent south with the British-controlled north, seriously depleted its supplies during the August battles with British forces in the province.

Youth Injured In Cycle Crash

Police said Lawrence S. Buell, 20, of 715 N. 16th Street, was southbound on 27th when he stopped at the intersection of Laurel when Wayne A. Wilcox, of 3795 Washington, riding a motorcycle, struck the rear of the Buell vehicle, police reported.

Wilcox suffered bruises and was taken to Lincoln General Hospital where he was listed in good condition early Saturday morning, police reported.

Japan Announces Decision To Float The Yen

(c) New York Times News Service

Tokyo — Japan announced Friday that she was abandoning her stubborn effort to keep the yen pegged at 360 to the dollar and would "provisionally" float the yen within unspecified limits. The action followed a day in which the Bank of Japan had to buy about $1.25 billion in order to maintain the yen at the pegged rate. (More On Page 2.)

Japanese Move Welcomed

Washington — The Japanese move was welcomed by the White House and the Treasury Department in restrained statements. Officials in Washington said they hoped that float was a step toward a true revaluation of the yen and a reduction of Japanese barriers against American exports.

Dollar Reaction Mixed

London — In Europe, the dollar reacted in mixed fashion against major European currencies as European foreign exchange dealers weighed the impact of the Japanese action. Some dealers predicted that European countries would accept higher floating rates — further depreciating the dollar — now that they know Japan will also accept some competitive disadvantage.

Expulsion Rate Studied

Columbia, S.C. — An examination of black student disciplinary troubles in dozens of school districts around the country found that the rate of expulsion and suspension for black students was high and rising, especially in newly integrated schools. Some people blamed "cultural clash" and class differences, but others said the cause is simple racial discrimination.

War Of Nerves Seen

Washington — Foreign diplomats in Washington said that a Soviet "war of nerves" against Rumania, under way since midsummer, has caused growing concern in Bucharest. The diplomats suggested that reports conveying the concern represented Rumanian attempts to head off any Soviet moves by alerting the world to the situations. (More On Page 15.)

Romney Favors Board

Washington — A government wage-price review board empowered to curb excessive wage or price increases of both corporations and unions was proposed by George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, as a way of continuing the momentum of the freeze. Romney said the proposal was his "own personal views."

Meany Tells Goals

Washington — George Meany, meeting with reporters, indicated that he favored the creation of a labor-management-public sector board, similar to the War Labor Board of World War II, to decide wage and price issues after the 90-day wage-price freeze ends. The AFL-CIO president's comments were the first hint of what organized labor will seek to replace the freeze. (Another Story On Page 1.)

Rate Guideline Set

Washington — The Bell Telephone System should be allowed to collect an 8-¼% rate of return on its interstate service under the current financial conditions, a staff examiner for the Federal Communications Commission ruled. The system is currently earning about 8.15%. The decision is to be reviewed by the full commission.

Rigging Is Charged

Saigon — A committee of 10 South Vietnamese legislators opposed to President Nguyen Van Thieu accused the Thieu government of widespread election rigging in both the lower house election Sunday and the presidential election scheduled for Oct. 3. Among the evidence presented was a "secret document" containing alleged government orders to province chiefs to rig the elections.

Japan Bows To Pressure; Yen Is Temporarily Floated

World News

Tokyo (AP) —Japan, bowing to strong pressure from the United States, is allowing the value of its yen to climb in foreign currency trading on Saturday.

The decision represents a major triumph for President Nixon in his campaign to strengthen U.S. trade by discouraging imports on the U.S. market and stimulating the sale of U.S. exports abroad.

Revaluation of the yen was the chief goal of Nixon's announcement on Aug. 15 suspending the dollar's tie to gold and imposing a 10% surcharge on imports to the United States.

Finance Minister Mikio Mizuta announced Friday night the yen will be temporarily floated — allowed to find its own exchange rate according to supply and demand. Saturday's trading will mark the first time the yen was climbed above its 360-to-the-dollar parity set after World War II.

The yen's increased value will make Japan's many exports, such as textiles, automobiles and television sets, more expensive in U.S. Stores. At the same time, it will make U.S. products cheaper in Japan.

The government, trying to prevent this blow to the booming Japanese export trade, had resisted for two weeks any change in the yen's value. It had bought about $4 billion to keep the yen from climbing.

Japan was the only major trading nation trying to maintain its official parity in the face of Nixon's save-the-dollar measures. Most European countries allowed their currencies to float almost immediately.

The governor of the Bank of Japan, Tadashi Sasaki, said the Japanese float will be allowed only within certain limits, with the central bank moving in to buy up dollars if the yen starts to climb too far. But he gave no indication at what point the bank might step in.

Private bankers estimated the government was prepared to allow a 5% increase in the yen's value in relation to the dollar. Others speculated the climb might reach 10%, but there were no official forecasts.

Mizuta stressed that the government has not abandoned the yen's official value pegged at 360 to the dollar. However, allowing market demand to push the value higher will have the same effect as revaluation.

The U.S. Treasury and White House hailed the Japanese decision "as a further step toward a more realistic realignment of international exchange rates which the President envisioned in his address to the nation."

A. Blake Friscia, head of the Asian-area research for Chase Manhattan Bank in New York, said the floatation as "a victory for the American administration."

European money dealers also welcomed the decision and expressed hope it would inject some clarity into the muddled world financial markets.

But traders continued to be wary, and only in Frankfurt did news of the Japanese move bring a rush to the yen. Japanese currency on sale there spurted 3½ per cent, moving from 1.010 marks to 1.045 marks for 100 yen.

However, in Japan the central bank had to buy a record $1.2 billion during the trading day Friday, which ended before announcement of the floatation decision. Officials said Japanese banks were unloading their dollars in anticipation of what they believed to be an inevitable yen revaluation.

The Finance ministry said the government would ask the Japanese parliament, the Diet, to approve a supplementary budget to compensate for the U.S. import surcharges and the adverse effect of floatation.

"It is the intention of the government of Japan to make active efforts, in collaboration with other governments, to reinforce the international monetary system so that the stability of external transactions can be restored as soon as possible," it added.

Economists Are Reserved

St. Anton, Austria (UPI) — John Kenneth Galbraith, the American economist and author, said Friday that floating of the yen seemed a "sensible resolution . . . I'm pleased" but that "nobody should get wildly excited."

"Japanese exports will be more expensive, but this action on the yen is not a decisive factor," Galbraith said.

Shigato Tsuru, a leading Japanese economist who long has urged a revaluation of the yen, said the decision to float it "will not solve the problem."

The two were attending an International Economics Assn. meeting here.

Tsuru said that after a temporary floating, Japan should make a firm upward revaluation and couple it with a "crawling peg," a sort of carefully controlled floating, with yen value changing about 1.5% annually.

"Just before I left Japan two or three days ago," he said, "I proposed that we appreciate the yen by about 10% and then adopt a crawling peg."

Tsuru said he had been urging unilateral revaluation for three years and that the yen has been undervalued for some time. With the floating, he said, "we may get some idea to what extent it has been undervalued. Then we must take action with other countries for mutual realignment."

If the floating went on, he said it would create "a continuing case of instability — a changing margin would be destablizing for business."

He said he was sure there would be "a slight recession in Japan — but only a slight one."

Viet Cong Attack On Armored Unit Claims The Lives Of 5 Americans

Saigon (UPI) — The Viet Cong attacked a U.S. armored unit 16 miles south of Da Nang, killing five GIs and wounding seven in the heaviest ground fighting for American troops in more than four months, military spokesmen said Friday.

The spokesmen said the Communists, firing machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades, destroyed two armored personnel carriers and a Sheridan tank in the attack Thursday night which hit after the Americans were bivouacked for the night.

U.S. helicopter gunships and artillery fired on the Communists but their losses were unknown. The fighting was the heaviest for U.S. troops since two were killed and 34 wounded northwest of Saigon April 17.

Five other Americans were wounded 16 miles away when Communists attacked another U.S. unit that was providing security for Army engineers working on a road.

Overall, however, military activity was down with only 19 "enemy-initiated incidents" Thursday and early Friday compared with 38 in the previous 24-hour period.

Communist gunners hit three South Vietnamese outposts on the southern edge of the demilitarized zone (DMZ) Friday with rockets and mortars. There were no casualties or damage.

South Vietnamese military spokesmen in Quang Tri said some of the rockets that hit Outpost Charlie 2, two miles south of the DMZ, were fired from inside North Vietnam.

Three militiamen were killed and six policemen wounded when the Communists fired mortars and rocket grenades into Gio Linh, 2.5 miles south of the DMZ, field reports said.

In Cambodia, government troops recaptured the market town of Baray, 70 miles north of Phnom Penh, with slight resistance from the Communists, field reports said.

The Cambodian High Command said inhabitants of five villages in Communist-occupied provinces of northeast Cambodia held anti-Communist demonstrations Aug. 5, marching in the streets and shouting slogans.

U.S. forces in Vietnam remained on alert in anticipation of increased action and terrorism in connection with Sunday's national assembly election. Defenses were increased around Saigon and other major cities.

U.S. B52 bombers flew five missions overnight along the demilitarized zone (DMZ) defense line where a Communist offensive has been under way since Aug. 11, military spokesmen said.

Other U.S. jets, naval gunners and artillery batteries pounded North Vietnamese rocket and mortar positions inside the southern half of the DMZ throughout the day Thursday, the U.S. Command said.

U.S. Navy UHI Huey helicopter gunships attacked a fleet of Communist sampans 75 miles south of Saigon, destroying 37 boats and damaging 18 others, spokesmen said.

An Army OH6 light observation helicopter was shot down in the Mekong Delta 98 miles southwest of Saigon but the crew escaped unhurt, spokesmen said.

FAMED PHOTOGRAPHER DIES

This picture was taken by Margaret Bourke-White, internationally known photographer who died Friday in Stamford, Conn., at the age of 65. The scene is Buchenwald in 1945 after it was liberated, showing those who had endured. She is credited with creating Life Magazine's first cover photograph and lead story in 1936, as well as being the first accredited woman war photographer.

Judge Gives Warning

San Francisco (UPI) — Presiding Superior Court Judge Francis McCarty responded Friday to the bloody melee at the Soledad Brothers hearing with a policy statement threatening prosecution of courtroom disrupters.

"Let it be known that our judges will tolerate no interference whatsoever with the orderly processes of the courts," he said. "Intimidation will be met, controlled and ended."

McCarty said persons who disrupt proceedings, including attorneys, will be removed from the courtroom and prosecuted. The community, he said, is entitled to court proceedings "free from disruption and intimidation."

Shouts Obscenity

The melee broke out when Mrs. Doris Maxwell, mother of one of the defendants, was ordered removed when she shouted that the judge was "a son of a bitch." A half-dozen screaming spectators moved to protect her from bailiffs.

Then club-wielding riot squad officers burst into the room. Several persons were bloodied, including police, and two persons were arrested.

Mrs. Maxwell is the mother of John Clutchette who is accused along with Fleeta Drumgo, both blacks, of killing a guard at Soledad Prison Jan. 17, 1970. The third "Soledad Brothers" defendant, George Jackson was killed last Saturday at San Quentin in an abortive escape attempt.

Superior Judge Carl Allen, who presided at the Thursday proceedings, set Sept. 20 for the trial of Clutchette and Drumgo.

Later Friday attorneys for Drumgo and Clutchette filed a petition for habeas corpus in the state district court of appeal asking for protective custody for their clients.

The petition also asked that the appelage court appoint a referee to investigate conditions at San Quentin.

Two Men Die In Explosion At Arsenal

Radford, Va. (AP) — Two workers were killed in an explosion at the Radford Army ammunition plant Friday, almost a year after a similar blast killed two other employes.

Cause of Friday's explosion was not known. Nor was the cause ever determined of the blast a year ago.

Debris from the building was hurled several hundred feet, and the explosion was felt in Blacksburg and Radford. Both about four miles from the plant.

Four other men suffered minor injuries.

The two men who were killed were working in the preblending operation inside the building at the time of the blast.

In the preblending process, buggies carrying raw material from other parts of the plant are positioned manually and the remainder of the operation is carried out by remote control from a blockhouse.

The two victims — Randy B. Johnston, 28, White Gate, Va., and Charles A. Whitaker, 23, Dublin, Va. — had entered the building to remove two empty buggies and position two new ones when the blast occurred, according to Ted Hanna, security and personnel superintendent for Hercules, Inc. the operator of the arsenal.

The four men who were injured were working outside the building. Hanna said they were expected to return to their jobs on the next shift.

Nixon Approves Draft Agreement On Berlin Status

San Clemente, Calif. (AP) — The Western White House announced Friday President Nixon has approved a four-power draft agreement on Berlin.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made the announcement after Nixon conferred with Kenneth Rush, U.S. Ambassador to West Germany, who represented the United States during negotiations on the accord.

Rush said he anticipates signing of the agreement by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union "within a few days."

Injunction To Hit KKK

McAlester, Okla. (UPI) — Oklahoma officials, who have stopped two rock festivals this summer with legal action, Friday said they will ask for an injunction to stop a Ku Klux Klan rally near McAlester scheduled for Saturday night. Pittsburg County District Attorney Don Roberts said the event would create a traffic hazard, is too close to residential areas, lacks sanitary facilities and would be a public nuisance.

Varner Lauds Cedars Home For Concern For Individual

By LIANE WETTERER
Star Staff Writer

"The gross national product is approaching a trillion dollars. That's a headline story, but the story of Eileen seems to me to be just as fantastic.

"With no known parents, no known home, this young Indian girl came to Cedars Home for Children. Just recently she graduated from the University of Colorado and is now entering the nursing profession."

Citing several similar examples, D. B. Varner, chancellor and soon-to-be president of the University of Nebraska, addressed the first annual recognition dinner of the Honorary Trustees Association of Cedars Home for Children.

'Pressing Need'

Speaking to nearly 400 honorary trustees, Chancellor Varner stressed the "ever-pressing need of concern for the individual in today's society.

"Our society has become so dependent on a 'synthetic heart' that its old values have been replaced by technology," he warned.

The biggest problem now, Varner said, "is how do we grow large gracefully?"

Success Analyzed

The university, with some 35,000 students this year, "is still coping with the problem you have conquered at Cedars Home," Chancellor Varner told the trustees. "We should never relate success to buildings, bricks and mortar, but with the accomplishments of the individuals.

"You haven't forgotten it all begins and ends with the individual, his growth and potential," the chancellor said.

The Honorary Trustees Association, formed within the last year, is comprised of some 2,521 persons who contribute regularly to the home.

Following the dinner, special recognition was given to persons and organizations who have been named "Perpetual Honorary Trustees": Mary Chapin, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Barber, Benjamin F. Hemphill, La Sertoma Club, Lincoln Sertoma Club, Mrs. Eli Lilly, Marden Malmsten, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett S. Martin, Mrs. Bereniece McGreer, Mrs. Robert R. Miller, Miss Clara M. Miskell, Albert Mulder, John F. Pavich, Mrs. William Pieper, Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Schorr Jr., and Mrs. Pansy Stocker.

Prisoner, 23, Sets Fire To Books, Mattresses

Kimball (AP) — A Kimball County jail prisoner suffered smoke inhalation and had to be treated at a hospital early Friday when he set fire to books and mattresses in a cell block and then refused to come out.

Police patrolman Dwight Evans identified the prisoner as 23-year-old Leroy Ludwick of Kimball, whom he said he arrested when Ludwick interferred with him as he answered a disturbance call at a Kimball residence.

Evans said sometime later he noticed the smoke coming out of the third floor jail where Ludwick was the only prisoner, and he attempted to enter, but was driven back by the dense smoke. He said Ludwick refused immediately to come out, but a short time later Ludwick came out on his own, became ill and was treated. He was returned to the jail and placed in a solitary confinement cell.

Firemen were summoned about 3:30 a.m.

Luncheon And Threshing Bee Kick Off Friend's Centennial

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Friend — A new 14-bed addition to the Warren Memorial Hospital and a new downtown "pocket park" designed by Seward Concordia College art students attest to this community's youthful spirit.

Friday, however, Friend's residents and visitors all turned 100 years old to kick off the town's centennial with a "Pioneer's Luncheon" and an old-time threshing bee.

Fifty-year residents of Friend who are 70 years old or older were honored at the luncheon. The theshing exhibition featured two steamer-thresher teams of the variety used extensively in the area circa 1890-1920. Both sets of machinery were brought by Exeter farmer Bob Trauger, who collects and restores ancient farm equipment of all kinds.

Trauger's "Old-Timers' Museum," housed in two of his farm buildings, contains six steamers, 13 threshers, "a bunch" of tractors, along with separators, old cars, reapers, planters, etc. He invites the public to see his collection, intended (as his calling card says) "to perpetuate pioneer memories."

The hobby started in 1950 with antique cars and branched into farm equipment four years later. "I do all my own restoring," Trauger says. Still, his avocation has been getting a little expensive. "It's sort of an overgrown hobby," he says.

His collection includes a number of machines from the collection off Ray Ernst, one of the four founders of the Midwest Old Threshers show at Mt. Pleasant, Iowa — the biggest event of its kind in the country, drawing some 70,000 visitors each year. Before he died a year ago last May, Ernst decided that Trauger should have a good part of his collection.

Trauger has exhibited his steamers and threshers in many towns in the area, traveling to a couple every year for fairs and centennials. He especially enjoys listening to the oldtimers who gather around the machines that were as familiar to them as John Deere tractors are to this day's generation of farm youth. "It's kinda fun to stand around listening to these old guys spin yarns about what they used to do," he says. "It makes me think that kids these days aren't so bad after all."

One such old-timer Friday was Henry Zieg, who has lived around Friend all his life.

"That's an old-timer," Zieg said, admiring Trauger's 1894 Nichols & Shepard steamer, much like the ones he used himself as a youngster. Zieg himself was born in 1888.

Curtis 'Vulnerable' In 1972, Claims Liberal Voice Of GOP

By the Associated Press

The Ripon Society, a Cambridge, Mass., based organization which purports to be a liberal voice of the Republican Party says in the latest issue of its magazine, "Ripon Forum", that Nebraska Sen. Carl T. Curtis appears "vulnerable" in 1972.

The society said the term "vulnerable" means a state not definitely predicted to swing but open to capture if the challenging party gets some breaks.

Nebraska, Idaho, Kentucky, Maine, Oregon, South Carolina and Texas were placed in this category.

"Senator Curtis will be able to unite the factions of the state party. A newly elected Democratic Gov. J. James Exon will help the party's small but strong organization. Nixon carried the state with 59% in 1968 and should he again win in Nebraska, Curtis will have little difficulty."

2 More Appear On Drug Charges

Columbus (AP) — Two more persons have appeared in the Platte County Court in connection with a raid in which 19 persons were arrested on various drug charges.

Donn F. Mattlock, 18, of Scottsbluff was bound over to District Court on three counts charging delivery and distribution of LSD.

Murray J. Johnston, 19, pleaded guilty to a charge of being in a place where controlled substances were used. He was fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Brothers Enter Plea Of Guilty To Cattle Theft

Falls City (AP) — Two Falls City brothers pleaded guilty to cattle theft Friday, but District Court Judge William Colwell of Pawnee City deferred sentencing until Sept. 9.

The two brothers, Patrick McIlvain, 26, and Thomas McIlvain, 21, were arrested at their home by Falls City police Aug. 19 while they were in the process of slaughtering a steer which had been stolen from the Leonard Fritz farm.

Store Is Closing

Omaha (AP) — Orchard & Wilhelm, a 78-year-old downtown Omaha furniture store, has announced it will close its retail division. A division that sells furniture to motels, banks and apartments will be relocated in the Omaha area. Store officials said there was not enough traffic downtown to make the store profitable.

Visiting Judge Joke Subject

Fremont (AP) — Douglas County Court Judge Rudolph Tesar may be known in Fremont as the "hanging judge" after some light-hearted antics at the Dodge County Courthouse Friday.

Judge Tesar pinch hit for District Court Judge Robert L. Flory, who is vacationing, but an effigy of Tesar was hung from a sign at the entrance to the District Court clerk's office and a sign across the door to the judge's chambers declared it was "Rudy's hangout."

About a dozen Fremont lawyers feigned chagrin because Tesar failed to show up last Friday and an unsigned letter invited the judge to a mock lynching party Friday morning.

The judge accepted the invitation saying:

"Prior to my lynching I then demand my constitutional rights. The right for competent and effective counsel please, (not Charlie Yost) and the right to a speedy trial with a jury of my peers and countrymen — all of whom must be from Czechoslovakia.

"Here comes de judge."

Tesar said he was convinced that Fremont attorney Charles Yost wrote the invitation to the lynching, but Yost denies any involvement, implying that he was framed.

Tesar showed up for the lynching in the company of a mannequin, which was promptly hung bearing a sign: "Judge?. He won't ever be late again."

Flareups In Grass Fires Extinguished

Valentine (AP) — A fire burned about 1,000 acres of grass and wooded area three miles south of Valentine Thursday and flareups continued through the night.

Valentine Fire Chief John Fisher estimated that 700 persons fought the blaze including several area fire departments, 100 employes of the Thomas Shows carnival and the Valentine High School football team, which was beginning its afternoon practice session.

Firemen were called out again at 7 p.m., 3 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. to quench flareups.

The Valentine area is described as "tinder dry" with only .07 of an inch of rain for the entire month of August to date.

Less than 30 miles away near Okreek, S.D., about five miles east of Mission, about 1,000 acres of grassland burned Thursday.

Clyde Hines Killed Going To Wedding

Breezewood, Pa. (AP) — A Nebraska man, en route to the Marine Base at Quantico, Va., to attend his brother's wedding, was killed Friday in a one-car crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

State police said the victim, Clyde W. Hines, 52, of Lincoln, Neb., was thrown from his car after it ran out of control and struck a guard rail. He was traveling alone.

Exon Asks Moratorium On Corn, Milo Delivery

. . . 90-Day Delay Would Affect Stored Grain

By United Press International

Gov. J. James Exon Friday requested U.S. Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to impose a 90-day moratorium on the Oct. 1 delivery of 1967-68 corn and milo crops now stored on the farm.

Exon, in a telegram to Hardin, said Nebraska farmers stand to lose "millions of dollars" because the originally predicted record crops have deteriorated due to drought conditions.

Specifically, the governor asked the moratorium be placed on the delivery of 36 million bushels of corn, and 2,272,000,067 hundred weight of milo from the 67-68 crops.

The crops have been called from on-the farm storage for an Oct. 1 delivery to Commodity Credit Corp.

Exon said instead of the Oct. 1 delivery date, the farmers should be granted the option of delivering grain now or within 90 days.

Under those terms, he said, the individual farmer would have the opportunity to determine for himself the best time to make delivery.

And it would also allow the farmer a chance to recoup losses resulting from the apparent drought, Exon said.

"We need every dollar possible to maintain our farmer producer," the governor said.

"To deliver grain now under unrealistic crop reporting conditions robs the farmer of any chance to realize any possible late price improvement that could result from drought conditions that have swept the cornbelt but that will not be reported until about this second week in September by the federal government," Exon said.

Mayor Leahy Will Not Veto City Tax Cut

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha City Council's 1.5 mill cut in city taxes will stand. Mayor Eugene Leahy said Friday he won't use the veto he had promised.

So, he signed resolutions approved earlier by the council changing the budget and cutting the city's 1972 property tax to 24.1 mills, $24.10 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

To veto would only "prolong the friction between the legislative branch Council and the executive branch mayor of government," Leahy said.

Leahy said he signed "against my better judgment."

The city's 1972 budget will total $63,433,926 and will be financed with a levy 1.5 mills lower than this year's.

Visiting Judge Joke Subject

Fremont (AP) — Douglas County Court Judge Rudolph Tesar may be known in Fremont as the "hanging judge" after some light-hearted antics at the Dodge County Courthouse Friday.

Judge Tesar pinch hit for District Court Judge Robert L. Flory, who is vacationing, but an effigy of Tesar was hung from a sign at the entrance to the District Court clerk's office and a sign across the door to the judge's chambers declared it was "Rudy's hangout."

About a dozen Fremont lawyers feigned chagrin because Tesar failed to show up last Friday and an unsigned letter invited the judge to a mock lynching party Friday morning.

The judge accepted the invitation saying:

"Prior to my lynching I then demand my constitutional rights. The right for competent and effective counsel please, (not Charlie Yost) and the right to a speedy trial with a jury of my peers and countrymen — all of whom must be from Czechoslovakia.

"Here comes de judge."

Tesar said he was convinced that Fremont attorney Charles Yost wrote the invitation to the lynching, but Yost denies any involvement, implying that he was framed.

Tesar showed up for the lynching in the company of a mannequin, which was promptly hung bearing a sign: "Judge?. He won't ever be late again."

Flareups In Grass Fires Extinguished

Valentine (AP) — A fire burned about 1,000 acres of grass and wooded area three miles south of Valentine Thursday and flareups continued through the night.

Valentine Fire Chief John Fisher estimated that 700 persons fought the blaze including several area fire departments, 100 employes of the Thomas Shows carnival and the Valentine High School football team, which was beginning its afternoon practice session.

Firemen were called out again at 7 p.m., 3 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. to quench flareups.

The Valentine area is described as "tinder dry" with only .07 of an inch of rain for the entire month of August to date.

Less than 30 miles away near Okreek, S.D., about five miles east of Mission, about 1,000 acres of grassland burned Thursday.

Clyde Hines Killed Going To Wedding

Breezewood, Pa. (AP) — A Nebraska man, en route to the Marine Base at Quantico, Va., to attend his brother's wedding, was killed Friday in a one-car crash on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

State police said the victim, Clyde W. Hines, 52, of Lincoln, Neb., was thrown from his car after it ran out of control and struck a guard rail. He was traveling alone.

Exon Asks Moratorium On Corn, Milo Delivery

. . . 90-Day Delay Would Affect Stored Grain

By United Press International

Gov. J. James Exon Friday requested U.S. Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin to impose a 90-day moratorium on the Oct. 1 delivery of 1967-68 corn and milo crops now stored on the farm.

Exon, in a telegram to Hardin, said Nebraska farmers stand to lose "millions of dollars" because the originally predicted record crops have deteriorated due to drought conditions.

Specifically, the governor asked the moratorium be placed on the delivery of 36 million bushels of corn, and 2,272,000,067 hundred weight of milo from the 67-68 crops.

The crops have been called from on-the farm storage for an Oct. 1 delivery to Commodity Credit Corp.

Exon said instead of the Oct. 1 delivery date, the farmers should be granted the option of delivering grain now or within 90 days.

Under those terms, he said, the individual farmer would have the opportunity to determine for himself the best time to make delivery.

And it would also allow the farmer a chance to recoup losses resulting from the apparent drought, Exon said.

"We need every dollar possible to maintain our farmer producer," the governor said.

"To deliver grain now under unrealistic crop reporting conditions robs the farmer of any chance to realize any possible late price improvement that could result from drought conditions that have swept the cornbelt but that will not be reported until about this second week in September by the federal government," Exon said.

Mayor Leahy Will Not Veto City Tax Cut

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha City Council's 1.5 mill cut in city taxes will stand. Mayor Eugene Leahy said Friday he won't use the veto he had promised.

So, he signed resolutions approved earlier by the council changing the budget and cutting the city's 1972 property tax to 24.1 mills, $24.10 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

To veto would only "prolong the friction between the legislative branch Council and the executive branch mayor of government," Leahy said.

Leahy said he signed "against my better judgment."

The city's 1972 budget will total $63,433,926 and will be financed with a levy 1.5 mills lower than this year's.

With a substantial program of state aid, Nebraska communities are in the process of cleaning up their sewage disposal systems. Lincoln is one such community, forging ahead on expansion of its Theresa St. treatment plant and laying the groundwork for a new plant in Northeast Lincoln.

All that activity represents one means of improving the quality of water in Nebraska. Of equal concern is the matter of quantity and this is dealt with in two ways — through a proposed reorganization of natural resources districts in the state and Nebraska's membership in a Missouri River Basin Commission.

Neither of these two things affecting the quantity of our water has reached the final stage. While we have a plan of resources districts reorganization, it has not been implemented and may or may not be implemented in the 1972 session of the Legislature.

Gov. James Exon is expecting the formation of the basin commission and intends to put Nebraska in it. This might well become a reality before the state gets around to agreement on what kind of resources districts it wants.

The commission is a proposed organization of Missouri River basin states that has been tossed about on the political winds. In Nebraska, the cause has been furthered by the Democrats and knocked by the Republicans, for what reason we really do not know.

Presumably, Nebraska Republicans have felt that the state would lose its sovereignty in the water area if it entered into the commission. The real fact is that it will lose its sovereignty if it does not enter a commission and will retain more sovereignty if it does join up.

This is because the state and its water supply are a part of a large area. We cannot have total control over our water supply because water is not usually the commodity of a single state.

The headwaters of the Missouri River are found in the northwest reaches of Montana and all the major streams of this state originate elsewhere. The Republican River is fed from Kansas, the Platte from Colorado and Wyoming and the Niobrara from Wyoming and South Dakota.

In a commission with these and other states, Nebraska can expect to protect its vital interests, as it has done through compacts already entered into with some states. Without a commission, individual states are free to do as they please and there is nothing to stop other states from choking off at their borders the water that now flows into Nebraska.

We can choke off our streams where they leave our state, too, but this is not the answer to sound conservation and use of water. What is sound is an agreed-upon approach throughout the basin, so all states can enjoy the maximum use of the resources that are common to them.

If we could then proceed with proper intrastate organization, we would be on our way to a future of great promise in the area of water resources As it now stands, we are not doing so well.

In countless areas of the state, the underground water tables are declining. Wells are having to be sunk deeper and deeper in an effort to find water at a time when irrigation is on the ascendency.

Nebraska's potential in irrigation is fantastic but we won't realize it without wise use of our water. Additionally, we have disputes going on in several areas of the state concerning the best methods of conservation.

Disputes in the area of water utilization are not new and out of our conflicts of the past, we have forged a number of successful programs. But progress does not come from conflict without compromise and the latter seems increasingly difficult to come by.

A basin commission could help us find the answers to some of the problems on which we have, as yet, been unable to agree. Nebraska needs to keep this matter on the front burner until it has achieved something concrete.

Country Could Win In Beauty Contest

NEW YORK — I've just thought of a grand way for America to beautify itself. All we have to do is put it on a competitive, yea, even a commercial basis.

Previously in this column we mentioned the long-ago dearth of beer and soft-drink bottles in the countryside, namely because they carried a deposit and good old American greed made sure that not many were left lying around. But with the advent of the one-way container, there was no incentive to take them back to the store.

And in that column we saluted Gov. Tom McCall, of Oregon, who has banned the sale of disposable soft-drink bottles and cans in his state. But all of that got us to thinking: While money may well be the root of all evil, it is also the root of most incentive. (Hmmm, I like that, perhaps the next Bartlett's will include it.)

Note, if you will, how environmental bounty hunters have caused numerous factories to stop dumping waste into our streams. They do this simply by gathering the evidence and turning it over to the health authorities. The result is a cleaner river, but the cash reward (the evidence gatherers get one-half the fine collected from the factories) must provide much of the incentive.

So we are onto a good thing and should go further with it. Why not have competitions for "The Best-Kept Town in the State," with a cash award to the town's recreation fund, or something? A state could give the award out of what it saved by not having to do so much trash-hauling and cleaning up.

That's not such a silly idea. Lots of countries in Europe do this sort of thing, and it seems to work. Commuter bus and train stations could have competition for "The Neatest Station." As for gas stations. why can't the major oil companies have the "Cleanest Service Station Contest," with a prize for the winning station's operator? Certainly, a clean service station couldn't be bad for business and it might be a good advertising gimmick, with customers voting, etc.

And there could be "Prettiest Garden" competitions in neighborhoods (some communities, of course, have had these for years). Even a place like New York, which is so dirty that just to think about beautifying it is somewhat daunting, could be helped. Why not a window box, or rooftop garden contest there? Some newspapers or radio stations could sponsor these things.

As for factories, they should be encouraged to screen themselves from the highways with rows of trees, hedges, etc., and to tear down unused and unsightly sheds, with competitions, too. Here, the government could give the prize, perhaps in the form of an "E" for "Excellence" flag as it did during the war. Only in this case, the "E" could stand for "Environment."

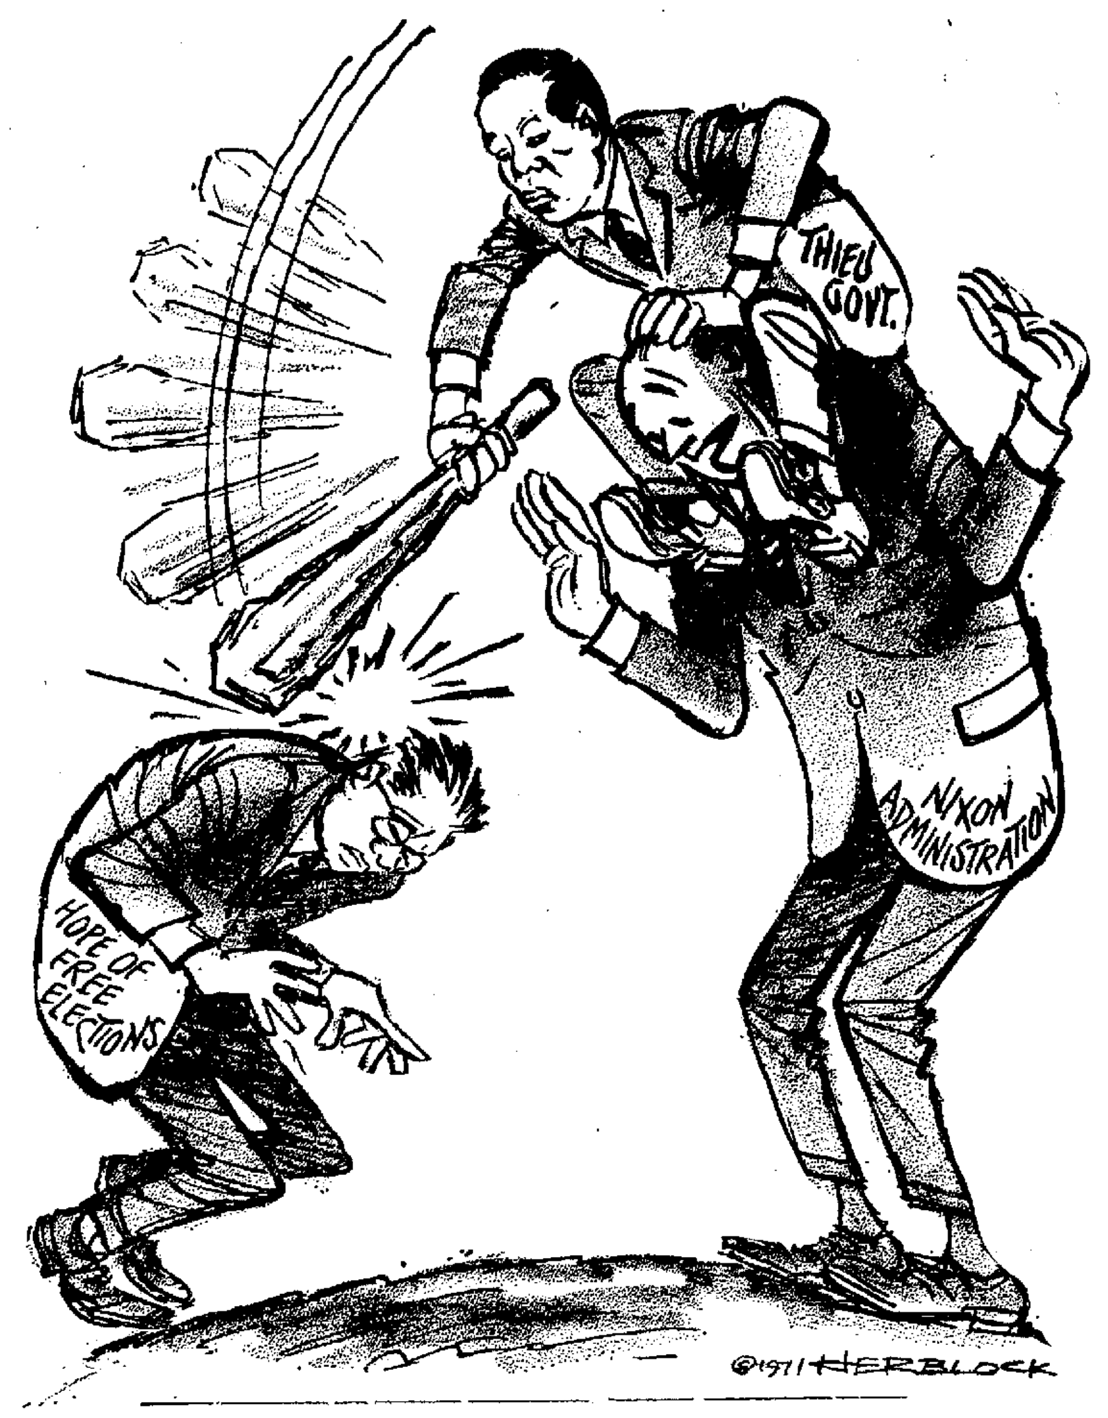
'I Follow A Strictly Hands-Off Policy'



The Message Gets Through

Guidelines have been sent out to all state agencies by the governor's office asking that budget requests for next year go no higher than this year's appropriations and Gov. Exon said this week he has reason to believe that the hold-the-line directive will be complied with.

"Evidently," Exon said, "we are beginning to get through with our message that there should be reason in state government financing . . . generally speaking, we have found we are getting full cooperation."

Perhaps each state agency will come through with a "substantially more realistic" request, in the governor's words, but if they fail to state their case honestly as to what is really needed in terms of growth and productive new programs, Nebraska will be in a bad way.

And if the executive budget, or something similar to it, straight-jacketed by the governor, does become law, it will not be only because Gov. Exon is getting through with "our message" to state agencies. Two other factors will come into play.

The most obvious one, of course, is that the terms of 25 senators are up and many will be seeking re-election next year. Seeing the political popularity of the governor and his adherence to 1971 levels of budgeting, they undoubtedly will want to ride with the tide. Tax increases, even if needed, will not be popular.

In addition, state legislators probably won't give themselves the opportunity for an exhaustive look at the executive budget, even though they should. The next session will unfortunately be limited to 60 legislative days, and most observers estimate that the senators will not want to extend the session by the required four-fifths vote and will thus adjourn sometime in late March. Last session, a 90-legislative-day affair, the appropriations committee did not come out with its budget bill until May.

The length-of-session limit will thus cut short preparation and debate with the result that the executive budget, or a reasonable facsimile, will probably be approved out of sheer expediency.

Not the time, then, to weed out imagined needs or supplement desirable ones. Not time enough for the long view. Not too much healthy give and take between the branches of government.

Lip Service To Equality

"We want 51% of everything!" the demonstrators cried. "Go home and have a baby," a woman hostile to the sisterhood called out later. "That's al you're good for." The extremists' arguments on both sides. And both, as the arguments of extremists usually go, dead wrong.

Just at a time when the streets appeared safer again, this little drama was staged in front of the American Stock Exchange in New York Thursday, where thousands of women's liberationists massed for a march up Fifth Avenue to mark the 51st anniversary of women's suffrage.

Marchers in the National Organization for Women parade called for the "de-sexegration" of Wall Street and all-male pubs, the end to sex discrimination in private and public executive jobs and divorce reform.

In Lincoln, the successful struggle by women to gain the right to vote was more quietly commemorated. Some 300 women attended a ceremony at which the successes and setbacks of the women's rights movements were discussed. One goal stood out above others: passage of the equal rights amendment soon to come before Congress. The key to success: personal involvement.

The quite obvious fact is that for far too long, lip service has been paid to the cause of equal pay for equal work and to the end of sex discrimination in everything from sex itself to baseball. The ruling minority has turned its head and will in time have it snapped back in place again.

What the women's liberation extremists are calling for, however, is a wrenching of society as we know it from top to bottom. But who's to say they won't succeed? And be the sorrier for it.

TOM WICKER
Nixon Program Must Now Produce Results; Demos Would Latch Onto Signs Of Failure

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's new Economic Program is a smash hit so far. Dr. Gallup finds that 91 per cent of a sample of President's moves, with 46 per cent strongly approving and only five per cent strongly disapproving.

But no Democrat really feels comfortable or true to form unless he is lambasting a Republican president on the economic issues. There are signs that Nixon's economic honeymoon is going to be a short one; and there are solid reasons to believe that the Democrats can still make a lot of hay out of this field so often ploughed before.

In the first place, there is nothing whatever to suggest that at the expiration of the 90-day wage-price freeze, Nixon will be able to let the economy lapse back into uncontrolled condition. That may well lay his administration open, in an election year, to all sorts of public reaction against real and supposed inequities, inefficiencies and frustrations in wage-price controls.

In the second place, at least to some visible extent, the program has to work. Economic and political opinion is divided as to the efficacy of the steps Nixon laid out; just the other day, 16 economists issued a statement questioning the wage-price freeze. But the public's hopes are high.

Only 38 per cent of Gallup's sample thought the N.E.P. would help them personally in the next 90 days (against 32 per cent who thought it would not); but 45 per cent expected to be better off a year from now, as against 25 per cent who believed they would be no further ahead or worse off in August, 1972. That's only three months before the election, and Nixon's economic program will disappoint such hopes at his political peril.

Moreover, some economic questions are being raised about the N.E.P. with persuasive political possibilities. Already, two of the most outspoken Democratic presidential candidates, Sens. George McGovern, D - S.D., and Fred Harris, D-Okla. are strongly critical on these points. It remains to be seen what opposition can be mounted in Congress, but their arguments could have considerable political impact.

McGovern is proposing that an excess profits tax (on the Korean war model) be levied, and has criticized Nixon for only "requesting" no increases in dividends and interest rates. That is likely to sound entirely logical and fair to someone whose wages have been frozen, and whose right to strike has been made to seem temporarily unpatriotic. It is true enough that freeing the dollar in the world market ought to let domestic interest rates decline, and that a profit freeze for only 90 days would not make much difference while a longer-term limitation is still possible; but these are difficult economic arguments to articulate in a political campaign.

McGovern, a farm expert, also contends that since farm income has been so long depressed, a farm price freeze works undue hardship in the farm belt; Nixon is in deep trouble in that region already, and this could be a potent point in 1972.

A number of doubts have been raised about the stimulative effect of the N.E.P. Rather than a big tax break for business through investment credits, the critics say, Nixon should have sharply increased federal spending (McGovern) or stimulated consumer spending through larger tax cuts for "the little fellow" (Harris). Virtually every critic argues that since Nixon proposes to cut federal spending as well as taxes, the two moves may cancel each other out, or nearly so, in stimulative effect.

Harris had made the additional argument that scheduled Social Security payroll tax increases will sharply reduce the net relief small taxpayers will get from the increased exemptions. And Robert S. Browne of the Black Economic Research Center has called the exemption increase both ineffective as a stimulus and regressive; it would provide relief equally rather than progressively for those who pay taxes and no relief at all, particularly no cash relief, for those too poor to pay taxes but who "would be the most likely to spend extra dollars."

Finally, Nixon's plan to delay welfare reform and revenue-sharing for the states and cities, as well as to cut the federal payroll, appears to many of his critics to be putting the heaviest burden of the N.E.P. on low-income groups. As Browne wrote, a six per cent cut in the defense budget would have yielded $4.7 billion, too, if such spending reductions had to be made.

Whatever one thinks of their economic validity, these points come out to the old Democratic line: the Republicans are the party of the fat cats, the Democrats are the party of the people. Even in his present euphoria, it is a line Nixon should not underestimate.

JAMES M. TURNER
They Had A Dream

James Milton Turner was sold on the auction block in St. Louis for $50 when he was a lad of 4. His own father, a former slave, bought him and also rescued his mother from bondage at the same auction.

From those humble beginnings, Turner rose in the world, eventually becoming a respected educator, political power in Missouri and one of America's first black diplomats.

Turner was born in 1840 on the plantation of Charles A. Loring, near St. Louis, and wound up with his mother at the slave auction through the collusion of a friendly physician who was an abolitionist.

Called to examine the broken wrist of Turner's mother, the physician distorted the injury and advised her owner that her hand would have to be amputated. He elected to sell her and her son.

Turner's father, taught "horse doctoring" by his master, had earned enough money in his own time to buy his freedom several years earlier. He bought his wife and son for a total of $50.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Turner family settled in St. Louis and young James managed to acquire an education. Around 1855, he entered Oberlin College where he studied for two years before returning home at the death of his father.

When the Civil War erupted, Turner became the servant of a Union officer and reportedly was wounded in the hip at the Battle of Shiloh. He limped for the rest of his life.

After the war, he championed the cause of Negro education and in 1866 was appointed by the Kansas City school board to teach blacks in Missouri's first tax-supported school for Negroes.

In 1870, he presided at a convention in Jefferson City which led to the founding of the Lincoln Institute, a teacher training college for Negroes. He helped raise a good share of the funds for the school under a matching funds agreement with the state. About this time he also was appointed assistant state superintendent of schools charged with the responsibility of establishing free, public schools for Negroes.

Turner's leadersip in education led him into politics. Widely respected, he exerted considerable influence over the black community and controlled the black delegation at the Missouri State Republican convention in 1870.

Turner was appointed minister resident and consul general to Liberia on March 1, 1871, and held the post until May 20, 1878. He was the eyes and ears of the government in that tiny African nation during a period marked by revolution and disorder and wrote frequent dispatches analyzing economic and political developments.

Returning to St. Louis, Turner embarked on a third career as spokesman for black members of several Indian tribes, among them the Cherokee to whom Congress had appropriated $300,000 as payment for their tribal lands.

The Cherokee had voted to distribute the funds but only to blood members of the tribe. Turner argued that the blacks, Shawnee and Delaware Indians among them also rated a share. He took the case to President Grover Cleveland and won an additional $75,000 congressional appropriation.

Later he represented the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations in their governmental claims, spending much of his time in the Oklahoma Territory.

In Ardmore, Okla., in 1915, he was fatally injured when a railroad tank car exploded wrecking a portion of the town.

Commenting on his death, a St. Louis newspaper said: "The good things that J. Milton Turner did in life will ever stand as a monument to his race." Five years later, a public school in St. Louis was named in his honor.

Red Brothers

Lincoln, Neb.

I have read the article in the Wednesday morning Star about the Indians at Gordon. I want to say that it is the way they have been treated by the white man that has discouraged them and made them take the "don't-care" attitude. There may be many Indians who, in the sight of God, are better than some white and other nationalities.

A number of years ago when I owned my home in Lincoln, I phoned to the Salvation Army for a man to spade my garden. They sent an Indian. He was a nice looking man and I would not have known he was an Indian if he hadn't told me. He did the spading and before he finished, I fixed him a sack lunch and paid him more than he asked. He broke down and cried and then went and spaded some of the ground he had covered with leaves instead of spading. He said he was going to walk some distance to meet his brother.

I say again, it is the way the white man has treated the Indians that has caused them to do some wrong things and to feel that they are inferior. God knows all our hearts.

Corn Prices

Avoca, Neb.

Mr. Costello must not know any more about farming than Nixon and Hardin if he thinks $1.40 for corn is an unrealistically high price.

At $1.40 per bushel, the farmers were finally getting in a position to pay off some of their debts. At a dollar or lower, these bills won't get paid.

Does Mr. Costello know how many millions of dollars dollar-per-bushel corn will cost the state of Nebraska and the nation?

Bus riders who depend on the service entirely for their transportation are increasingly concerned over reports of postponements on when new buses may be expected to be in use. First it was September or October. Then later. Finally "about February." Now they don't know if even February is possible.

We need new buses before the bad winter weather sets in. When one realizes how they have limped along through the summer, with dry streets and good driving conditions, it is impossible to imagine them bucking heavy snow and bad streets.

Country Could Win In Beauty Contest

NEW YORK — I've just thought of a grand way for America to beautify itself. All we have to do is put it on a competitive, yea, even a commercial basis.

Previously in this column we mentioned the long-ago dearth of beer and soft-drink bottles in the countryside, namely because they carried a deposit and good old American greed made sure that not many were left lying around. But with the advent of the one-way container, there was no incentive to take them back to the store.

And in that column we saluted Gov. Tom McCall, of Oregon, who has banned the sale of disposable soft-drink bottles and cans in his state. But all of that got us to thinking: While money may well be the root of all evil, it is also the root of most incentive. (Hmmm, I like that, perhaps the next Bartlett's will include it.)

Note, if you will, how environmental bounty hunters have caused numerous factories to stop dumping waste into our streams. They do this simply by gathering the evidence and turning it over to the health authorities. The result is a cleaner river, but the cash reward (the evidence gatherers get one-half the fine collected from the factories) must provide much of the incentive.

So we are onto a good thing and should go further with it. Why not have competitions for "The Best-Kept Town in the State," with a cash award to the town's recreation fund, or something? A state could give the award out of what it saved by not having to do so much trash-hauling and cleaning up.

That's not such a silly idea. Lots of countries in Europe do this sort of thing, and it seems to work. Commuter bus and train stations could have competition for "The Neatest Station." As for gas stations, why can't the major oil companies have the "Cleanest Service Station Contest," with a prize for the winning station's operator? Certainly, a clean service station couldn't be bad for business and it might be a good advertising gimmick, with customers voting, etc.

And there could be "Prettiest Garden'' competitions in neighborhoods (some communities, of course, have had these for years). Even a place like New York, which is so dirty that just to think about beautifying it is somewhat daunting, could be helped. Why not a window box, or rooftop garden contest there? Some newspapers or radio stations could sponsor these things.

As for factories, they should be encouraged to screen themselves from the highways with rows of trees, hedges, etc., and to tear down unused and unsightly sheds, with competitions, too. Here, the government could give the prize, perhaps in the form of an "E" for "Excellence" flag as it did during the war. Only in this case, the ''E'' could stand for "Environment."

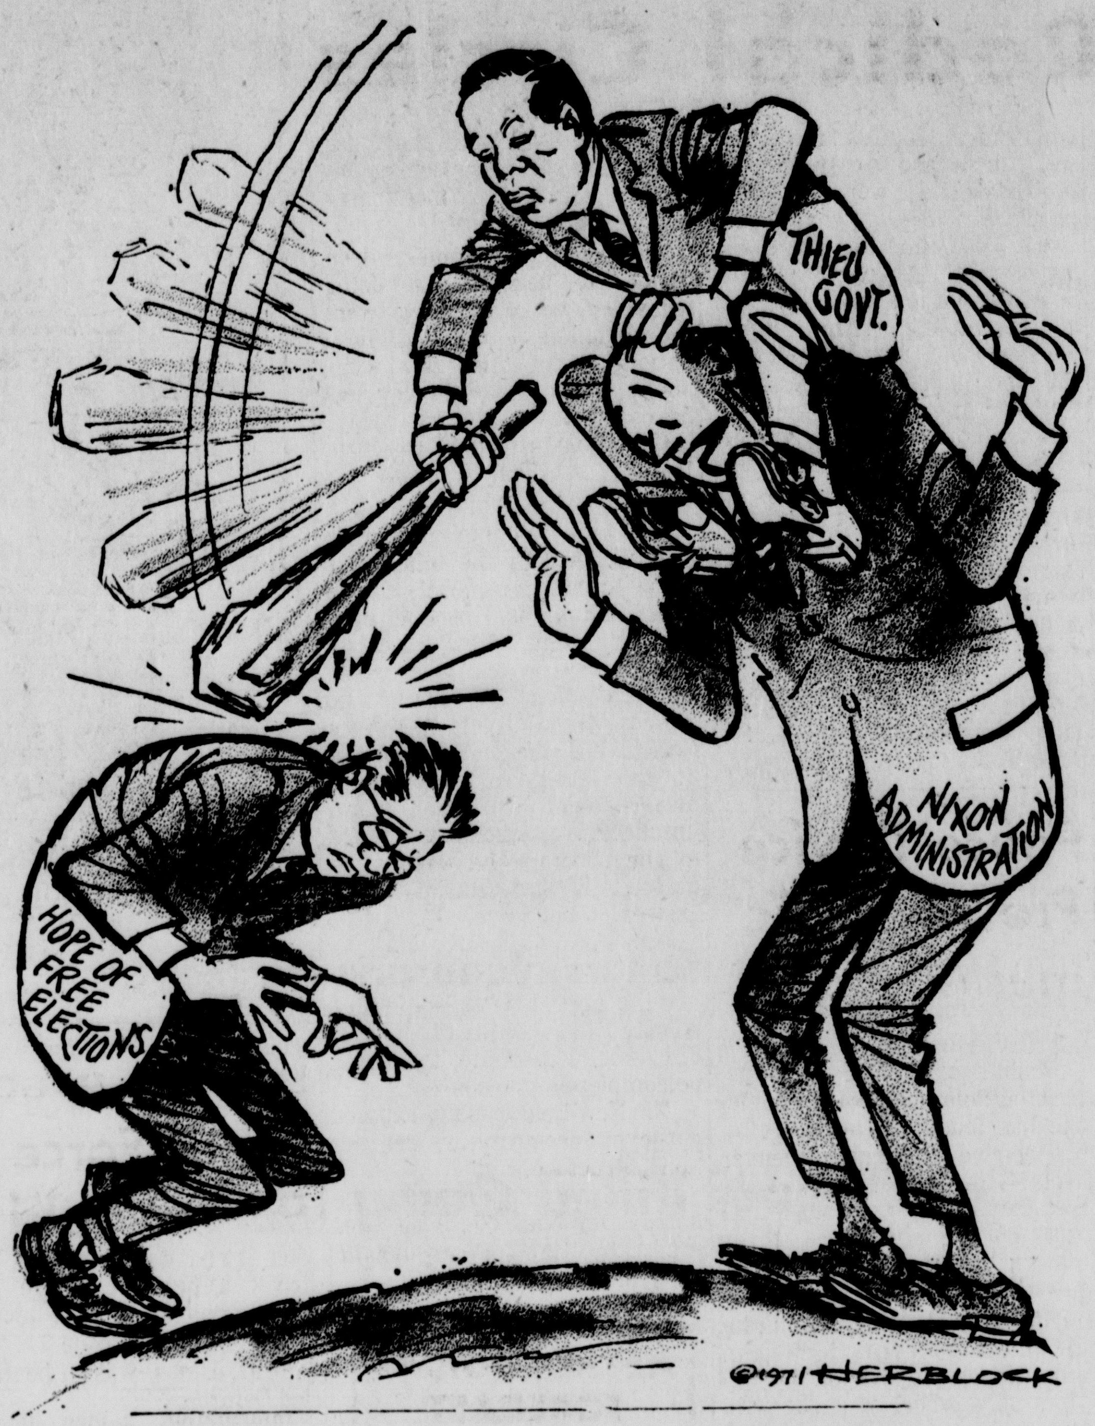
'I Follow A Strictly Hands-Off Policy'



The Message Gets Through

Guidelines have been sent out to all state agencies by the governor's office asking that budget requests for next year go no higher than this year's appropriations and Gov. Exon said this week he has reason to believe that the hold-the-line directive will be complied with.

"Evidently," Exon said, "we are beginning to get through with our message that there should be reason in state government financing . . . generally speaking, we have found we are getting full cooperation."

Perhaps each state agency will come through with a "substantially more realistic" request, in the governor's words, but if they fail to state their case honestly as to what is really needed in terms of growth and productive new programs, Nebraska will be in a bad way.

And if the executive budget, or something similar to it, straight-jacketed by the governor, does become law, it will not be only because Gov. Exon is getting through with "our message" to state agencies. Two other factors will come into play.

The most obvious one, of course, is that the terms of 25 senators are up and many will be seeking re-election next year. Seeing the political popularity of the governor and his adherence to 1971 levels of budgeting, they undoubtedly will want to ride with the tide. Tax increases, even if needed, will not be popular.

In addition, state legislators probably won't give themselves the opportunity for an exhaustive look at the executive budget, even though they should. The next session will unfortunately be limited to 60 legislative days, and most observers estimate that the senators will not want to extend the session by the required four-fifths vote and will thus adjourn sometime in late March. Last session, a 90-legislative-day affair, the appropriations committee did not come out with its budget bill until May.

The length-of-session limit will thus cut short preparation and debate with the result that the executive budget, or a reasonable facsimile, will probably be approved out of sheer expediency.

Not the time, then, to weed out imagined needs or supplement desirable ones. Not time enough for the long view. Not too much healthy give and take between the branches of government.

Lip Service To Equality

"We want 51% of everything!" the demonstrators cried. "Go home and have a baby," a woman hostile to the sisterhood called out later. "That's al you're good for." The extremists' arguments on both sides. And both, as the arguments of extremists usually go, dead wrong.

Just at a time when the streets appeared safer again, this little drama was staged in front of the American Stock Exchange in New York Thursday, where thousands of women's liberationists massed for a march up Fifth Avenue to mark the 51st anniversary of women's suffrage.

Marchers in the National Organization for Women parade called for the "de-sexegration" of Wall Street and all-male pubs, the end to sex discrimination in private and public executive jobs and divorce reform.

In Lincoln, the successful struggle by women to gain the right to vote was more quietly commemorated. Some 300 women attended a ceremony at which the successes and setbacks of the women's rights movements were discussed. One goal stood out above others: passage of the equal rights amendment soon to come before Congress. The key to success: personal involvement.

The quite obvious fact is that for far too long, lip service has been paid to the cause of equal pay for equal work and to the end of sex discrimination in everything from sex itself to baseball. The ruling minority has turned its head and will in time have it snapped back in place again.

What the women's liberation extremists are calling for, however, is a wrenching of society as we know it from top to bottom. But who's to say they won't succeed? And be the sorrier for it.

Nixon Program Must Now Produce Results; Demos Would Latch Onto Signs Of Failure

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's new Economic Program is a smash hit so far. Dr. Gallup finds that 91 per cent of a sample of President's moves, with 46 per cent strongly approving and only five per cent strongly disapproving.

But no Democrat really feels comfortable or true to form unless he is lambasting a Republican president on the economic issues. There are signs that Nixon's economic honeymoon is going to be a short one; and there are solid reasons to believe that the Democrats can still make a lot of hay out of this field so often ploughed before.

In the first place, there is nothing whatever to suggest that at the expiration of the 90-day wage-price freeze, Nixon will be able to let the economy lapse back into uncontrolled condition. That may well lay his administration open, in an election year, to all sorts of public reaction against real and supposed inequities, inefficiencies and frustrations in wage-price controls.

In the second place, at least to some visible extent, the program has to work. Economic and political opinion is divided as to the efficacy of the steps Nixon laid out; just the other day, 16 economists issued a statement questioning the wage-price freeze. But the public's hopes are high.

Only 38 per cent of Gallup's sample thought the N.E.P. would help them personally in the next 90 days (against 32 per cent who thought it would not); but 45 per cent expected to be better off a year from now, as against 25 per cent who believed they would be no further ahead or worse off in August, 1972. That's only three months before the election, and Nixon's economic program will disappoint such hopes at his political peril.

Moreover, some economic questions are being raised about the N.E.P. with persuasive political possibilities. Already, two of the most outspoken Democratic presidential candidates, Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Fred Harris, D-Okla. are strongly critical on these points. It remains to be seen what opposition can be mounted in Congress, but their arguments could have considerable political impact.

McGovern is proposing that an excess profits tax (on the Korean war model) be levied, and has criticized Nixon for only "requesting" no increases in dividends and interest rates. That is likely to sound entirely logical and fair to someone whose wages have been frozen, and whose right to strike has been made to seem temporarily unpatriotic. It is true enough that freeing the dollar in the world market ought to let domestic interest rates decline, and that a profit freeze for only 90 days would not make much difference while a longer-term limitation is still possible; but these are difficult economic arguments to articulate in a political campaign.

McGovern, a farm expert, also contends that since farm income has been so long depressed, a farm price freeze works undue hardship in the farm belt; Nixon is in deep trouble in that region already, and this could be a potent point in 1972.

A number of doubts have been raised about the stimulative effect of the N.E.P. Rather than a big tax break for business through investment credits, the critics say, Nixon should have sharply increased federal spending (McGovern) or stimulated consumer spending through larger tax cuts for "the little fellow" (Harris). Virtually every critic argues that since Nixon proposes to cut federal spending as well as taxes, the two moves may cancel each other out, or nearly so, in stimulative effect.

Harris had made the additional argument that scheduled Social Security payroll tax increases will sharply reduce the net relief small taxpayers will get from the increased exemptions. And Robert S. Browne of the Black Economic Research Center has called the exemption increase both ineffective as a stimulus and regressive; it would provide relief equally rather than progressively for those who pay taxes and no relief at all, particularly no cash relief, for those too poor to pay taxes but who "would be the most likely to spend extra dollars."

Finally, Nixon's plan to delay welfare reform and revenue-sharing for the states and cities, as well as to cut the federal payroll, appears to many of his critics to be putting the heaviest burden of the N.E.P. on low-income groups. As Browne wrote, a six per cent cut in the defense budget would have yielded $4.7 billion, too, if such spending reductions had to be made.

Whatever one thinks of their economic validity, these points come out to the old Democratic line: the Republicans are the party of the fat cats, the Democrats are the party of the people. Even in his present euphoria, it is a line Nixon should not underestimate.

JAMES M. TURNER

They Had A Dream

James Milton Turner was sold on the auction block in St. Louis for $50 when he was a lad of 4. His own father, a former slave, bought him and also rescued his mother from bondage at the same auction.

From those humble beginnings, Turner rose in the world, eventually becoming a respected educator, political power in Missouri and one of America's first black diplomats.

Turner was born in 1840 on the plantation of Charles A. Loring, near St. Louis, and wound up with his mother at the slave auction through the collusion of a friendly physician who was an abolitionist.

Called to examine the broken wrist of Turner's mother, the physician distorted the injury and advised her owner that her hand would have to be amputated. He elected to sell her and her son.

Turner's father, taught "horse doctoring" by his master, had earned enough money in his own time to buy his freedom several years earlier. He bought his wife and son for a total of $50.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Turner family settled in St. Louis and young James managed to acquire an education. Around 1855, he entered Oberlin College where he studied for two years before returning home at the death of his father.

When the Civil War erupted, Turner became the servant of a Union officer and reportedly was wounded in the hip at the Battle of Shiloh. He limped for the rest of his life.

After the war, he championed the cause of Negro education and in 1866 was appointed by the Kansas City school board to teach blacks in Missouri's first tax-supported school for Negroes.

In 1870, he presided at a convention in Jefferson City which led to the founding of the Lincoln Institute, a teacher training college for Negroes. He helped raise a good share of the funds for the school under a matching funds agreement with the state. About this time he also was appointed assistant state superintendent of schools charged with the responsibility of establishing free, public schools for Negroes.

Turner's leadersip in education led him into politics. Widely respected, he exerted considerable influence over the black community and controlled the black delegation at the Missouri State Republican convention in 1870.

Turner was appointed minister resident and consul general to Liberia on March 1, 1871, and held the post until May 20, 1878. He was the eyes and ears of the government in that tiny African nation during a period marked by revolution and disorder and wrote frequent dispatches analyzing economic and political developments.

Returning to St. Louis, Turner embarked on a third career as spokesman for black members of several Indian tribes, among them the Cherokee to whom Congress had appropriated $300,000 as payment for their tribal lands.

The Cherokee had voted to distribute the funds but only to blood members of the tribe. Turner argued that the blacks, Shawnee and Delaware Indians among them also rated a share. He took the case to President Grover Cleveland and won an additional $75,000 congressional appropriation.

Later he represented the Choctaw and Chickasaw Nations in their governmental claims, spending much of his time in the Oklahoma Territory.

In Ardmore, Okla., in 1915, he was fatally injured when a railroad tank car exploded wrecking a portion of the town.

Commenting on his death, a St. Louis newspaper said: "The good things that J. Milton Turner did in life will ever stand as a monument to his race." Five years later, a public school in St. Louis was named in his honor.

Red Brothers

Lincoln, Neb.

I have read the article in the Wednesday morning Star about the Indians at Gordon. I want to say that it is the way they have been treated by the white man that has discouraged them and made them take the "don't-care" attitude. There may be many Indians who, in the sight of God, are better than some white and other nationalities.

A number of years ago when I owned my home in Lincoln, I phoned to the Salvation Army for a man to spade my garden. They sent an Indian. He was a nice looking man and I would not have known he was an Indian if he hadn't told me. He did the spading and before he finished, I fixed him a sack lunch and paid him more than he asked. He broke down and cried and then went and spaded some of the ground he had covered with leaves instead of spading. He said he was going to walk some distance to meet his brother.

I say again, it is the way the white man has treated the Indians that has caused them to do some wrong things and to feel that they are inferior. God knows all our hearts.

Speaking Out

Lincoln, Neb.

I want to commend The Star for recent in-depth articles concerning Lancaster County issues.

The Lincoln League of Women Voters is currently involved in a study of county government. As chairman of that committee, I would invite interested women to join our study. I would also urge all citizens to learn as much as possible about these issues and let the commissioners know their opinions.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.

I want to express my personal thanks and also appreciation from the 4-H program for the excellent coverage Mr. Costello, farm editor, has been giving to the Inner-City 4-H activities. Interest and support such as he has been showing will definitely assist in making the 4-H program more available to the youth in our society who can benefit greatly from a voluntary educational experience.

Our thanks also for making the stories timely, accurate, complete and maintaining the dignity of the individual participant.

Corn Prices

Avoca, Neb.

Mr. Costello must not know any more about farming than Nixon and Hardin if he thinks $1.40 for corn is an unrealistically high price.

At $1.40 per bushel, the farmers were finally getting in a position to pay off some of their debts. At a dollar or lower, these bills won't get paid.

Does Mr. Costello know how many millions of dollars dollar-per-bushel corn will cost the state of Nebraska and the nation?

Lincoln, Neb.

Bus riders who depend on the service entirely for their transportation are increasingly concerned over reports of postponements on when new buses may be expected to be in use. First, it was September or October. Then later. Finally "about February." Now they don't know if even February is possible.

We need new buses before the bad winter weather sets in When one realizes how they have limped along through the summer, with dry streets and good driving conditions, it is impossible to imagine them bucking heavy snow and bad streets.

SPEAKING OUT:

Pessimism Noted In Radical Circles

By STEVEN LEVINE

Even long-time and/or former members of both the radical and psychedelic movements — David Harris, Sam Brown, Ken Kessey, Tim Leary — agree at this point that something is amiss in their estates.

Underground newspapers, particularly the more political ones, are going under; alternative institutions such as free clinics and co-ops seem to enjoy an average longevity of no more than two years. Harris told me that upon getting out of prison he found that very few of the radical organizations he had known before his incarceration still existed. Kesey doesn't give interviews anymore.

The old transcendental spirit is not in great abundance these days. There is an unspoken pessimism in the inner circles of intellectual dissent, both political and social — a feeling that perhaps things aren't going to work out at all; that all those terminal, immedicable social dysfunctions that people like the Kerner Commission warned would soon steal upon us, have now done so. Despite the revivifying effects of May Day, which does brighten the short-term picture for political activism at least, there is a certain unmistakable bleakness to both hip and racial scenes of late; a bleakness, in fact, without precedent in this author's experience.

Likely Outcome

The likely outcome of all this psychic restructuring will be an assimilation of the radical community back into the academic sphere, and a broadening of the hippie-phenomenon into a consumer-oriented "youth culture" (see "Holy Roman Empire") that will encompass almost every urban American under 30 — a culture that will be built around soft dope, rock music, enlightened consumerism and liberal politics. It will eventually elect John Lindsay, if things hold up until 1976 — a long shot maybe.

What the passing of all the great noise leave behind are these two things:

a) A genuinely enlightened, if tiny, body of young Americans possessed of wisdom and dignity beyond their years; a group worth saving.

b) A nation in which the thin veneer of authority has cracked.

To understand the revolutionary impact on American life the youth etc. has had, we need an overview of the American milleu. Let's see.

The accusation one hears from radicals that Americans are fascist is without corroborative evidence. Fascism's basic ethos arises out of the subordination of the individual will to that of the state. It can only be established in those nations whose social history bears the imprint of voluntary subscription to consensus politics.

Tradition of Individualism

Traditionally, Stephen Decatur and all that jingo posturing aside, this is a country in which anarchy has held sway. Nowhere is there a more resolute tradition of individualism than among the American majority that is now the middle class. The demands of settling a land as vast and essentially hostile as our own, with a few people as we've had until this century, more or less commands that individualism. But what of the lack of concern for individual rights manifested in the current rage for law and order?

The middle class does not identify with civil liberties issues. It does not feel its own are being violated. According to the popular vision of things, only those whose actions bring them afoul of the law have any contact with state authority. When the majority here feels it's getting ripped off, it moves fast. Ever heard the talk that comes out of the average redneck when he gets collared for speeding? All of a sudden it isn't "Support your local police;" it's "Why don't you go catch criminals, ya lazy sonofabitch!"

Only one thing keeps the American people in line; the state's ability to convince people that they have what they want, not the direct force of state power.

For a long time it was possible to convince people that they had what they wanted. After all, the economic condition of the average indiivdual here has for a long time been much wealthier than that of his counterpart anywhere else.

STEVEN LEVINE

Something Is Amiss

But in a mass society, the only way to supply mass wealth is with mass production, which means corporate bureaucracy at all levels of management, including the government. The foully corrupt alliance that is state capitalism, Reich's "corporate state." In order to perpetuate itself, to secure the massive reservoirs of human energy that make it possible, it has to make people want more and more of what it produces, so that they'll support it. Sooner or later the burden of this production-consumption addiction (created by advertising primarily) becomes unbearable to the individual. Socialists call this "the contradiction of capitalism." There is no way to satisfy the desires created.

So what we have in the urban areas where capitaism thrives are masses of discontented people, not only disadvantaged discontented people, but well-off discontented people as well.

All that talk about "alienation" in the early sixties, the rising divorce, suicide and alcoholism statistics, was really talk about that discontent during its formless stage. The success that the state enjoyed in isolating individual citizens from the social and economic roots of their personal anguish was what held the country together for 20 years after the capitalist scheme was already a total failure; 20 years of inflation, pollution, waste and inefficiency beyond belief, directionless expansion, grinding wage-slavery.

Rebellion of the Young

Then along came this "Thing" and put a halt to it all. The "Thing" was the rebellion, on all levels, of the young.

That rebellion's first effect was to introduce social contrast into American life. Here I am speaking of the hippie phenomenon. As the media presented that phenomenon to the masses, its whole message was one of unbridled freedom, libertinage, dope and sex and total disregard for work and property. Here were all these people out having what looked like a good time and not starving to death. Anyone who feels no attraction to a style like that is incomplete. The hippie business, all that pornography that the media called coverage from '66 through '68, set up serious doubts in the middle class consciousness. The loathing the hippies aroused, the high level decision to exterminate their movement by repression and co-optation made in every industrial nation, is indicative of the threat they posed to statist economics. Peace and love and no work and no need for a red convertible to get laid. That was the beginning. All those Volkswagens full of people whose sex lives were more active than those of the convertible crowd. All that economically-unconnected pleasure.

The doubts the hippies raised about the necessity of doing whatever one was doing were the beginning of the end. In a nation full of miserable wage slaves where wage-slavery has no roots and authority enjoys little basic affection, a little taste of personal freedom unbalances many things.

And other doubts too were brought forth by the other half of the rebellion; moral doubts about our national conduct stirred by the New Left, particularly on the war issue. Dissatisfaction to which the hippies gave a face, the New Left gave a voice. Five years of polemic laid down formulae for disagreement with the state. Intellectual questions were posed to which, before the eyes of the masses, the state sent down no answer except force.

Every day in every way the quality of life is deteriorating and the puppet show of centrist politics can do nothing to halt it. This week especially, this must be completely transparent.

Under these stresses, the narrow national consensus has collapsed. Now comes what the brokers call profit taking.

Police Device Proves To Be Ineffective

(c) Washington Star

Washington—Alas for the District of Columbia police, someone has found a way to combat their newly acquired Denver boots — those cast iron devices that they clamp onto one wheel of a parked car if they discover that the owner has neglected to pay tickets.

Officer Morris L. Stewart had the method revealed to him after he placed one of the devices on a wheel of a car with Missouri license plates parked in the northwest section of the city. Nine tickets were outstanding against it.

Half an hour later, he returned to find both the boot and car gone.

A woman told him that a man had simply jacked up his car, removed the wheel with the boot, placed both in the trunk and replaced the wheel with the spare.

The "why-didn't-anyone-ever-think-of-that" inspiration gave rise to speculation that patrolmen will have to start clamping on the boots two at a time.

. . . which gave rise to further speculation that scoffiaws will start carrying two spares.

Lincoln Area Labor Force Survey Told

A survey of the Lincoln area labor force is being initiated by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Information gained in the survey will be used in efforts to utilize more effectively the area's labor force and to assist firms in making decisions to locate or expand in this area.

Responses are being sought from 2,250 households randomly selected from Lincoln and the area within 25 miles of it. Respondents' answers will be considered confidential; only the general findings will be made available to the public.

The survey will seek answers to such questions as: Who is working or not working? What kinds of work and types of employers are involved? What is the labor force status of recent graduates and nongraduates who are returning or not returning to school?

The survey will also attempt some measure of the underemployment that exists as a result of persons working at jobs that are less than desired or less than those for which they are best fitted by reason of training or experience.

The survey is being financed in part by grants from the Lincoln and Cooper Foundations and is being conducted with the cooperation of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Saturday

Gemini is restless; natives of this sign gesticulate, have wide range of facial expressions and constantly wend their way through a labyrinth of mental and emotional plateaus. The Gemini native often speaks first and acts later. Talking at the wrong time can result in difficulty for these persons. They often make promises which are not easy to fulfill. The United States has had one Gemini President. He was John F. Kennedy.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Long-range goals are emphasized. You tend now to fall victim to wishful thinking. Key is to find out who want what — from you. Cut through pretense. Study confidential reports. Clarify views.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): One who practices friendly persuasion could cause you to overspend. Be wary. Maintain balance — stress fair-but-firm attitude. Diplomatic approach can help solve financial dilemma.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Go slow in making demands, setting goals. Avoid threats, seek alternatives. Lie low; do plenty of listening. Accent on relations with mate, partner, other close associate. Public relations stressed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Study Gemini message. Low-key approach is essential. Leave details to others. Take time to gain overall view. You are able to impress one you admire. Feeling could become mutual.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emotional demands become evident. Decision is due. Involves romance. Young persons, including offspring, make known their needs. Stress creativity. Be ready for change, travel. Welcome variety.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Review legal requirements regarding property. Accent on home, domestic relations. Avoid extremes. Stick to what is familiar. Budget can be intelligently applied to current situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may have wrong directions. Means do some personal checking. Short journey is on agenda. One who is envious shows hand. Remain calm. Justice prevails if you hold ground. Pisces is involved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on possessions, income potential, ability to organize priorities. Capricorn individual figures prominently. Stress willingess to collect, analyze data. Adhere to facts; discard rumors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What appears settled may be the opposite. You tend now to see through rose-colored glasses. Finish project without sidestepping basic issues. You will understand. Stand tall.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some secrets are up for grabs. Realize this—take nothing for granted. New approach is necessary. Leo can be ally. Relative in transit is involved. Someone is carrying tales.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some friends act in manner best described as eccentric. Take time; if you don't know, do nothing. Avoid risking capital. Pisces person may hold key. Your ally now is patience. Be calm.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Adhere to your own style; dance to your own tune. Your way now is best—for you. Cooperate with Aquarius individual. Be flexible. But don't permit others to dictate terms. You will understand.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are completing major cycle. There have been sudden changes, upheavals. Some relationships have terminated. Key is to look to future. Social contact is likely in December — results in meaningful, favorable chain of events.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Dog Is Pampered By Childless Couple

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "It makes me sick how some folks fuss over dogs and treat them like babies. We're retired and live in Fort Lauderdale where our only relative is a second cousin and his wife—who are childless. We like this couple except for their stupid dog Mugsie. They take this whimpering mongrel with them everywhere, put sequin jackets on him when it's cool, and talk to him like a baby. They invited us to dinner the other night and we couldn't believe what we saw. They had large photographs on the piano of six previous dogs. And when we went in to dinner they had a high chair for Mugsie. Did you every hear anything so crazy?"

Answer: — Showering affection on pets is a lot less crazy than cruelty and indifference. Obviously this couple have gone overboard in their affections, but the pooch must fill some great unmet need or they wouldn't treat him like a prince of the realm. Some might argue that pet lovers should transfer their effections to orphaned children. But human orphans are not always easy to adopt and involve considerable more responsibility than a pet. If your friends have no peculiarities worse than pampering their pup, they must be pretty nice people.

Question: — "I've just retired at 65 and have a lot of time to sit and think. The past few weeks I've found myself trying to decide which were the happiest years of my life. Strangely, I seem just about as happy now as at any other time. What do most older people say?"

Answer: — Judging from mail to this column, most elders in good health agree with you and feel they're just as happy now as at any other time. But those who have encountered poor health, economic reverses, or loss of loved ones often select a younger period. The 40s and 50s are oftened mentioned as especially good years. I've heard of very few elders who feel youth was the best time or who would want to turn back the clock if they could.

Question: —"I'm 52, lost my job with a publishing concern due to a company merger, and have looked for work three months. Why aren't there agencies to help older people find work?"

Answer: — There are a few —but not nearly enough to meet the employment needs of our mushrooming numbers of mature citizens. See if your state employment office provides special services for older applicants. Check whether there's a 40-plus club in your area. And swallow your pride and call on officers of clubs and churches to which you belong. When a man's out of work he's facing a real crisis and organizations to which he belongs should rally round and help him get relocated. One of the great unmet needs of our economy is for efficient, influential agencies devoted to helping folks past 40 find employment or get relocated when they're in a rut.

McNeil: Many Unfamiliar With Government

By TIM AHERN
Associated Press Writer

After having spent almost three months as Nebraska's first ombudsman, Murrell McNeil is convinced that many citizens know little about how their governmental system operates.

McNeil, the former state tax commissioner, became ombudsman, or public counsel, June 1 when the 1971 Legislature approved the acceptance of a federal grant to fund the position.

The federal grant was for a one-year period but now, says McNeil, it appears the federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) will provide funds for a second year of operation.

And that's an idea McNeil approves of wholeheartedly because he said much of his time so far has been spent in just informing Nebraskans the office exists and was set up to aid the average citizen.

"I try to spend at least two days a week talking to people," he explained, "service clubs, television shows, wherever there are at least 10 people, I'll talk to them."

Volume Increasing

As for his actual work aiding the public, McNeil says the volume has been "increasing slowly but steadily" over the past weeks.

One of the main problems, he's found, is that people know little about how the government works.

As a result, he gets many questions which ask for help with a problem which involves local governmental subdivisions or the federal government, both areas out of McNeil's jurisdiction.

McNeil says he has become convinced that many persons don't know the difefrence between function of local governments, such as a county or city, and the state or federal government.

"As a result, they want to register a complaint about something or sometimes they have a suggestion for something which should be done, but simply don't know where to go," he said.

Nevertheless, he says, "we always answer their questions if we can or direct them to someone else when possible. We don't want to just route letters around from this office."

Bewildered by Maze

Many persons are bewildered by the maze of boards, commissions, councils and relationships between the various branches of government, according to McNeil. These persons provide the largest number of inquiries.

However, not all requests for action fall within that category. Sometimes a citizen wants to complain about a law or about an action which was taken by the government "and then there's not much I can do there, as long as the action taken was right."

Although the general concept of an ombudsman is as a red-tape cutter or a lobbyist for the public, McNeil says he has sometimes found himself defending actions taken by government.

Another facet of the job, "and one of the benefits I had not thought would exist," includes suggestions made by citizens for a course of action.

"Sometimes they come up with good ideas," McNeil said.

Although he can't always give the questioner what he asked for, McNeil's work is apparently appreciated. After he had been in office about two months, he sent out cards to those who asked for help, asking the receiver to rate the aid received as satisfactory, somewhat satisfactory, or unsatisfactory.

Aid Appreciated

Most of the cards came back marked satisfactory and many pointed out that even though they hadn't accomplished their objective, McNeil's answers and aid were appreciated.

Another surprise has been the distribution of inquiries which thus far has been fairly evenly spread across the state.

"I thought that I'd receive about 90% of the questions from urban areas," he explained, "but in proportion to the population, the rural people are writing more than the urban residents."

Shuttle Service To Link Omaha, Lincoln Campuses

Shuttle bus service linking Omaha and Lincoln campuses of the University of Nebraska will be initiated Wednesday, Sept. 1.

"We regard this as a significant step in our plan to make the resources of the total university available to students of all of its campuses," said Dr. Howard R. Neville, vice chancellor for business and finance.

He said there will be three round trips daily, linking the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the NU Medical Center in Omaha, and the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

SPEAKING OUT:

Pessimism Noted In Radical Circles

By STEVEN LEVINE

Even long-time and/or former members of both the radical and psychedelic movements — David Harris, Sam Brown, Ken Kessey, Tim Leary — agree at this point that something is amiss in their estates.

Underground newspapers, particularly the more political ones, are going under; alternative institutions such as free clinics and co-ops seem to enjoy an average longevity of no more than two years. Harris told me that upon getting out of prison he found that very few of the radical organizations he had known before his incarceration still existed. Kesey doesn't give interviews anymore.

The old transcendental spirit is not in great abundance these days. There is an unspoken pessimism in the inner circles of intellectual dissent, both political and social — a feeling that perhaps things aren't going to work out at all; that all those terminal, immedicable social dysfunctions that people like the Kerner Commission warned would soon steal upon us, have now done so. Despite the revivifying effects of May Day, which does brighten the short-term picture for political activism at least, there is a certain unmistakable bleakness to both hip and racial scenes of late; a bleakness, in fact, without precedent in this author's experience.

Likely Outcome

The likely outcome of all this psychic restructuring will be an assimilation of the radical community back into the academic sphere, and a broadening of the hippie-phenomenon into a consumer-oriented "youth culture" (see "Holy Roman Empire") that will encompass almost every urban American under 30 — a culture that will be built around soft dope, rock music, enlightened consumerism and liberal politics. It will eventually elect John Lindsay, if things hold up until 1976 — a long shot maybe.

What the passing of all the great noise leave behind are these two things:

a) A genuinely enlightened, if tiny, body of young Americans possessed of wisdom and dignity beyond their years; a group worth saving.

b) A nation in which the thin veneer of authority has cracked.

To understand the revolutionary impact on American life the youth etc. has had, we need an overview of the American milleu. Let's see.

The accusation one hears from radicals that Americans are fascist is without corroborative evidence. Fascism's basic ethos arises out of the subordination of the individual will to that of the state. It can only be established in those nations whose social history bears the imprint of voluntary subscription to consensus politics.

Tradition of Individualism

Traditionally, Stephen Decatur and all that jingo posturing aside, this is a country in which anarchy has held sway. Nowhere is there a more resolute tradition of individualism than among the American majority that is now the middle class. The demands of settling a land as vast and essentially hostile as our own, with a few people as we've had until this century, more or less commands that individualism. But what of the lack of concern for individual rights manifested in the current rage for law and order?

The middle class does not identify with civil liberties issues. It does not feel its own are being violated. According to the popular vision of things, only those whose actions bring them afoul of the law have any contact with state authority. When the majority here feels it's getting ripped off, it moves fast. Ever heard the talk that comes out of the average redneck when he gets collared for speeding? All of a sudden it isn't "Support your local police;" it's "Why don't you go catch criminals, ya lazy sonofabitch!"

Only one thing keeps the American people in line; the state's ability to convince people that they have what they want, not the direct force of state power.

For a long time it was possible to convince people that they had what they wanted. After all, the economic condition of the average indiivdual here has for a long time been much wealthier than that of his counterpart anywhere else.

STEVEN LEVINE

Something Is Amiss

But in a mass society, the only way to supply mass wealth is with mass production, which means corporate bureaucracy at all levels of management, including the government. The foully corrupt alliance that is state capitalism, Reich's "corporate state." In order to perpetuate itself, to secure the massive reservoirs of human energy that make it possible, it has to make people want more and more of what it produces, so that they'll support it. Sooner or later the burden of this production-consumption addiction (created by advertising primarily) becomes unbearable to the individual. Socialists call this "the contradiction of capitalism." There is no way to satisfy the desires created.

So what we have in the urban areas where capitaism thrives are masses of discontented people, not only disadvantaged discontented people, but well-off discontented people as well.

All that talk about "alienation" in the early sixties, the rising divorce, suicide and alcoholism statistics, was really talk about that discontent during its formless stage. The success that the state enjoyed in isolating individual citizens from the social and economic roots of their personal anguish was what held the country together for 20 years after the capitalist scheme was already a total failure; 20 years of inflation, pollution, waste and inefficiency beyond belief, directionless expansion, grinding wage-slavery.

Rebellion of the Young

Then along came this "Thing" and put a halt to it all. The "Thing" was the rebellion, on all levels, of the young.

That rebellion's first effect was to introduce social contrast into American life. Here I am speaking of the hippie phenomenon. As the media presented that phenomenon to the masses, its whole message was one of unbridled freedom, libertinage, dope and sex and total disregard for work and property. Here were all these people out having what looked like a good time and not starving to death. Anyone who feels no attraction to a style like that is incomplete. The hippie business, all that pornography that the media called coverage from '66 through '68, set up serious doubts in the middle class consciousness. The loathing the hippies aroused, the high level decision to exterminate their movement by repression and co-optation made in every industrial nation, is indicative of the threat they posed to statist economics. Peace and love and no work and no need for a red convertible to get laid. That was the beginning. All those Volkswagens full of people whose sex lives were more active than those of the convertible crowd. All that economically-unconnected pleasure.

The doubts the hippies raised about the necessity of doing whatever one was doing were the beginning of the end. In a nation full of miserable wage slaves where wage-slavery has no roots and authority enjoys little basic affection, a little taste of personal freedom unbalances many things.

And other doubts too were brought forth by the other half of the rebellion; moral doubts about our national conduct stirred by the New Left, particularly on the war issue. Dissatisfaction to which the hippies gave a face, the New Left gave a voice. Five years of polemic laid down formulae for disagreement with the state. Intellectual questions were posed to which, before the eyes of the masses, the state sent down no answer except force.

Every day in every way the quality of life is deteriorating and the puppet show of centrist politics can do nothing to halt it. This week especially, this must be completely transparent.

Under these stresses, the narrow national consensus has collapsed. Now comes what the brokers call profit taking.

Police Device Proves To Be Ineffective

(c) Washington Star

Washington—Alas for the District of Columbia police, someone has found a way to combat their newly acquired Denver boots — those cast iron devices that they clamp onto one wheel of a parked car if they discover that the owner has neglected to pay tickets.

Officer Morris L. Stewart had the method revealed to him after he placed one of the devices on a wheel of a car with Missouri license plates parked in the northwest section of the city. Nine tickets were outstanding against it.

Half an hour later, he returned to find both the boot and car gone.

A woman told him that a man had simply jacked up his car, removed the wheel with the boot, placed both in the trunk and replaced the wheel with the spare.

The "why-didn't-anyone-ever-think-of-that" inspiration gave rise to speculation that patrolmen will have to start clamping on the boots two at a time.

. . . which gave rise to further speculation that scofflaws will start carrying two spares.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Saturday

Gemini is restless; natives of this sign gesticulate, have wide range of facial expressions and constantly wend their way through a labyrinth of mental and emotional plateaus. The Gemini native often speaks first and acts later. Talking at the wrong time can result in difficulty for these persons. They often make promises which are not easy to fulfill. The United States has had one Gemini President. He was John F. Kennedy.

☆ ☆ ☆

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Long-range goals are emphasized. You tend now to fall victim to wishful thinking. Key is to find out who want what — from you. Cut through pretense. Study confidential reports. Clarify views.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): One who practices friendly persuasion could cause you to overspend. Be wary. Maintain balance — stress fair-but-firm attitude. Diplomatic approach can help solve financial dilemma.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Go slow in making demands, setting goals. Avoid threats,seek alternatives. Lie low; do plenty of listening. Accent on relations with mate, partner, other close associate. Public relations stressed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Study Gemini message. Low-key approach is essential. Leave details to others. Take time to gain overall view. You are able to impress one you admire. Feeling could become mutual.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emotional demands become evident. Decision is due. Involves romance. Young persons, including offspring, make known their needs. Stress creativity. Be ready for change, travel. Welcome variety.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Review legal requirements regarding property. Accent on home, domestic relations. Avoid extremes. Stick to what is familiar. Budget can be intelligently applied to current situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may have wrong directions. Means do some personal checking. Short journey is on agenda. One who is envious shows hand. Remain calm. Justice prevails if you hold ground. Pisces is involved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on possessions, income potential, ability to organize priorities. Capricorn individual figures prominently. Stress willingess to collect, analyze data. Adhere to facts; discard rumors.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): What appears settled may be the opposite. You tend now to see through rose-colored glasses. Finish project without sidestepping basic issues. You will understand. Stand tall.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some secrets are up for grabs. Realize this—take nothing for granted. New approach is necessary. Leo can be ally. Relative in transit is involved. Someone is carrying tales.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some friends act in manner best described as eccentric. Take time; if you don't know, do nothing. Avoid risking capital. Pisces person may hold key. Your ally now is patience. Be calm.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Adhere to your own style; dance to your own tune. Your way now is best—for you. Cooperate with Aquarius individual. Be flexible. But don't permit others to dictate terms. You will understand.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are completing major cycle. There have been sudden changes, upheavals. Some relationships have terminated. Key is to look to future. Social contact is likely in December — results in meaningful, favorable chain of events.

Lincoln Area Labor Force Survey Told

A survey of the Lincoln area labor force is being initiated by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Information gained in the survey will be used in efforts to utilize more effectively the area's labor force and to assist firms in making decisions to locate or expand in this area.

Responses are being sought from 2,250 households randomly selected from Lincoln and the area within 25 miles of it. Respondents' answers will be considered confidential; only the general findings will be made available to the public.

The survey will seek answers to such questions as: Who is working or not working? What kinds of work and types of employers are involved? What is the labor force status of recent graduates and nongraduates who are returning or not returning to school?

The survey will also attempt some measure of the underemployment that exists as a result of persons working at jobs that are less than desired or less than those for which they are best fitted by reason of training or experience.

The survey is being financed in part by grants from the Lincoln and Cooper Foundations and is being conducted with the cooperation of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

Shuttle Service To Link Omaha, Lincoln Campuses

Shuttle bus service linking Omaha and Lincoln campuses of the University of Nebraska will be initiated Wednesday, Sept. 1.

"We regard this as a significant step in our plan to make the resources of the total university available to students of all of its campuses," said Dr. Howard R. Neville, vice chancellor for business and finance.

He said there will be three round trips daily, linking the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, the NU Medical Center in Omaha, and the University of Nebraska at Omaha.

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Dog Is Pampered By Childless Couple

By ROBERT PETERSON

Question: — "It makes me sick how some folks fuss over dogs and treat them like babies. We're retired and live in Fort Lauderdale where our only relative is a second cousin and his wife—who are childless. We like this couple except for their stupid dog Mugsie. They take this whimpering mongrel with them everywhere, put sequin jackets on him when it's cool, and talk to him like a baby. They invited us to dinner the other night and we couldn't believe what we saw. They had large photographs on the piano of six previous dogs. And when we went in to dinner they had a high chair for Mugsie. Did you every hear anything so crazy?"

Answer: — Showering affection on pets is a lot less crazy than cruelty and indifference. Obviously this couple have gone overboard in their affections, but the pooch must fill some great unmet need or they wouldn't treat him like a prince of the realm. Some might argue that pet lovers should transfer their effections to orphaned children. But human orphans are not always easy to adopt and involve considerable more responsibility than a pet. If your friends have no peculiarities worse than pampering their pup, they must be pretty nice people.

Question: — "I've just retired at 65 and have a lot of time to sit and think. The past few weeks I've found myself trying to decide which were the happiest years of my life. Strangely, I seem just about as happy now as at any other time. What do most older people say?"

Answer: — Judging from mail to this column, most elders in good health agree with you and feel they're just as happy now as at any other time. But those who have encountered poor health, economic reverses, or loss of loved ones often select a younger period. The 40s and 50s are oftened mentioned as especially good years. I've heard of very few elders who feel youth was the best time or who would want to turn back the clock if they could.

Question: —"I'm 52, lost my job with a publishing concern due to a company merger, and have looked for work three months. Why aren't there agencies to help older people find work?"

Answer: — There are a few —but not nearly enough to meet the employment needs of our mushrooming numbers of mature citizens. See if your state employment office provides special services for older applicants. Check whether there's a 40-plus club in your area. And swallow your pride and call on officers of clubs and churches to which you belong. When a man's out of work he's facing a real crisis and organizations to which he belongs should rally round and help him get relocated. One of the great unmet needs of our economy is for efficient, influential agencies devoted to helping folks past 40 find employment or get relocated when they're in a rut.

SOLITUDE but not SOLITARY

Quiet moments in solitude are good for the soul. Each of us needs those moments apart from the busy world—where we can distill our thoughts, reshape our purpose and revitalize our spirit.

This is not the same as living a solitary life—to be shut off from society, aloof and alone. We must remain in touch with the rest of mankind, or we will become lonely and selfish. We must be a part of the common flow of life.

In a society filled with patterns and cross-currents of both good and evil, where we dare not live in isolation, every person needs a strength greater than his own. That strength, derived from the presence of God in our lives, is the central concern of the Church. Spend some time in solitude with God before you attempt to meet the rush of life.

Symphony Guild To Present "Emphasis Elegance"

Even a fashion model wearing some of the latest fashions needs time out for a cup of coffee, and in the picture we find three models doing just that.

Mrs. Miguel Lopez (left), Mrs. Sam Schwartzkopf and Mrs. Paul Maxwell (right) have had a busy day donning and doffing some of the new fashions to be presented at the Symphony Guild fashion show on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

The beauty of Lincoln cannot be hidden. It is there for all to see whether it be in the verdancy of summer or the snow-clad days of winter. Lincoln, with its spacious skies, its crimson and mauve sunsets, its soft glow of moonlight, has sensitivity and that sensitivity is characteristic of the people who live within the city's boundaries.

Lincoln's residents, intelligent, cultured, enjoy gracious living. It may be said, and without exaggeration or qualification, that the beauty of Lincoln lies within its people.

Consider the many cultural activities sponsored by the citizens of Lincoln, and you will know that beauty and the arts are predominant in their lives.

Let's take a look at the Lincoln Symphony Guild, for instance, and see how much time and effort is devoted toward the success of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. The Guild members, fortunately for Lincoln, are determined that our symphony orchestra will not share the fate that has befallen many orchestras throughout the country. Not only is it to survive—it also is to prosper.

The Symphony Guild does many things to help maintain one of Lincoln's finest arts, and among its projects is the group's annual fashion show

This season the Guild's parade of fashion has undergone a slight change. The show, which has the enticing title of "Emphasis Elegance" will be presented at a dessert buffet luncheon which will be held in the ballroom at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

The title "EmphasisElegance" is particularly apropos when one learns that the entire collection of the famous Rodriguez will be presented in Lincoln for the first time, and certainly the names of Trigere, Mr. Blackwell, Originala — just to name a few, tend to conjure up visions of beautiful things, fashion-wise. The Rodriguez collection will have the designer's representative, Miss Janet Scholder, as a commentator. The remainder of the show will be in the capable hands of Lee Schoonover of Hovland-Swanson which is proper and fitting since Hovland-Swanson is doing the show for the Guild and, of course, for the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra.

The general chairman of the fashion show is Mrs. Fred E. Bodie, Jr., and just in case you have been a bit remiss about your reservations for the dessert buffet and the preview of fashions call Mrs. O. M. Anderson at 488-3082, or Mrs. Charles Embry, 488-4313—They are in charge of reservations.

The Lincoln Symphony Orchestra is not letting the Guild members do all of the work, however. An orchestra, composed of Symphony strings, will do the musical accompaniment for the show.

The models for this year's fashion production will include Mrs. Harold Maude, Mrs. J. C. Weaver, Mrs. Paul Maxwell, Mrs. Harry Meginnis, Mrs. Charles Burmeister, Mrs. Robert Synhorst, Mrs. Rodney Cathcart, Mrs. James Exon, Mrs. Donn Davis, Mrs. Cornell Arendt, Mrs. James Raglin, Mrs. William Kinsey, Mrs. Miguel Lopez, Mrs. Don Faulk, Mrs. Richard Wells, Mrs. Thomas Woods, III, Mrs. Sam Schwartzkopf, Mrs. Clancy Woolman, and Mrs. George Lewis.

An exciting 1971-72 season is planned for the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. The season opens on Oct. 12 with pianist Van Cliburn as guest artist with the orchestra. On Jan. 18, another pianist, Horacio Gutirrez, will appear with the symphony, and on March 7, vocalist Shirley Verrett will be heard in concert.

In between the guest artists the Symphony Orchestra will present some fine programs — the first will be on Nov. 9, and the second on Feb. 8. On April 11, the audition winners will take a bow with the orchestra.

Well—they're almost here—We're talking about those mad and merry weekends that accompany the Cornhusker football season.

The first game, as everyone knows, is with Oregon on Saturday, Sept. 11, and believe it or not a certain amount of tradition is attached to that first game.

For a number of years Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmquist and Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Hudson have been hosts and hostesses at a pregame luncheon when game No. 1 rolls around, and this year is no exception.

The host and hostess foursome will entertain their guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson.

And this morning we have news of guests.

Arriving this evening from Woodland Hills, Calif., will be Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hein (Anne Barber) and their three children, William, Barbara and Wesley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hein and their family will be the house guests of Mrs. Hein's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Barger, and we somehow surmise that Mr. and Mrs. Hein will be kept busy at numerous informal courtesies. Both are graduates of the University of Nebraska.

Evening Wedding

The marriage of Miss Susan Day, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Day, to Ten Vanschoiack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vanschoiack, was solemnized on Friday evening, Aug. 20 at the Foursquare Gospel Church. The Rev. W. D. Lindstrom read the line of the 8 o'clock service.

Miss Susan West, the maid of honor and only attendant wore a floor-length pink linen frock with an overlay of white lace. She carried a bouquet of summer flowers.

Mr. Leonard Isaacs served as best man, and the ushers were Lee Vanscheiack and Warren Day.

The bride chose a gown of blue lace and chiffon over blue satin for her wedding. The lace fashioned an overlay for the long-sleeved bodice which was designed with a rounded neckline. Beneath the natural waistline the floor-length, dirndle skirt was of chiffon. A Dior bow held in place her veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Mr. Vanschoiak and his bride will reside in Lincoln.

With school bells just around the corner, summer travelling and vacations are beginning to come to a halt. What seems to be in the minds of all good Nebraskans is "Go Big Red". But, before football and the fall season get into full swing, we find that some suburban families are taking final shots at travelling or entertaining travellers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Thornton-Trump of Wellington Greens, for instance, have been entertaining some long distance travellers for the past week or so. The guest list included the Mr. and Mrs. Thornton-Trump's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Thornton-Trump and their two children, Ian who is two and a half, and Ellowyn who is seven months old. The family arrived in Lincoln last Friday from their home in Winnepeg, Can.

In the midst of catching up on the news on Saturday morning, the phone rang at the Thornton-Trump home to announce the arrival of unexpected, but very welcome guests, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moffat, who were neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Thornton-Trump in Toronto. The Moffats stayed until Monday, and the visiting Thornton-Trumps plan to return to their home in Winnepeg this weekend.

But, that is not the end of travelling around the Thornton-Trump home. On Friday, Miss Anne Thonrton-Trump will gather her bags and freshman cap for her first year at Cottey College in Nevada, Mo.

Traveling has been occupying much of the time for Mrs. Pearle Frey of Kimberly Heights lately—but it has been an enjoyable pasttime for the suburban resident.

First she journeyed to Red Cloud where she visited her mother Mrs. Grace Callahan. Accompanying her mother on the short trip was Mrs. Charles DeShon.

Mrs. Frey was in her suburban home for one week, with her mother as her guest—and then they packed a few bags and took off for a 10-day trip to Kansas where they visited with Mrs. Callahan's relatives.

While in the neighboring state, they were the guests of Mrs. Callahan's sister, Mrs. Margie Blackstone of Minneopolis, Kan.; her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kottman of Ellsworth, Kan.; and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Callahan of Wichita, Kan., and their daughters Connie and Jeannie.

Other family members also were having their share of fun on vacations while Mrs. Frey and Mrs. Callahan were away. You see, Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeShon, Mrs. Frey's son-in-law and daughter, took a 12-day trip to Las Vegas, Nev., and returned just the other evening.

A meeting of the L. D. Arnot clan took place Monday as Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Arnot welcomed their son and daughter-in-law and two grandchildren to their Country Club Manor home. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Arnot, Jr., and their two sons, L. D. Arnot, III, and Charles Arnot, all of Boulder, Colo., and in honor of the visitors, the family celebrated with a patio picnic on Monday evening. The guest foursome stayed in Lincoln through Wednesday when they took off for Atkinson to visit Mr. and Mrs. Gus Rohrs, the parents of Mrs. Arnot, Jr., before returning to Boulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Wendell of Maple Village are entertaining a very special houseguest this week — Mr. Wendell's sister-in-law, Mrs. P. W. Wendell of Chicago. Mr. Wendell's brother accompanied his wife to Lincoln on Aug. 13, but had to leave on Aug. 16, for a business trip west. Mrs. Wendell will continue her stay through the weekend.

Sometimes a suburban vacation combines a business trip and a regular get-away-from-it-all trip all into one and that is exactly what Mr. and Mrs. Wayne B. Roelle of Bethany Park Heights and Mrs. Roelle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Rainforth of Litchfield set out to do.

Mr. Roelle, a Nebraska Public Power associate, had meetings to attend for the national organization IEEE in Portland, Ore., and as you may guess, other plans were in the making too.

The foursome flew to Portland recently and in between meetings they managed to do some sightseeing along the coast and at Mt. Hood. But that is only part of the story, naturally there were friends and relatives to visit along the way.

Their first strictly visiting (all pleasure no business this time) stop was with Mrs. Roelle's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rainforth of Newburg, Ore. Then, they were off again back to Portland to stop in on Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Rainforth's sons and their families, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Rainforth and Mr. and Mrs. John Rainforth.

Mrs. Roelle had other visiting plans in mind, too, when this vacation came along and she did not pass up the chance to do some visiting with a high school friend — and another friend from grade school with whom she has corresponded for the past 29 years, but had not seen since their school days.

Mrs. Roelle's friend from high school, Mrs. Bill Moore, welcomed the Lincoln traveler to her Albany, Ore., home for quite a visit.

No doubt, the eight-day vacation ended far too soon for the visitors, but we have to admit that for that amount of time, the Roelle and Rainforth families found ample time to visit.

MISS VICKI WEAVER

The engagement of Miss Vicki Weaver of Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sitzman of Culbertson, to Ronald Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bauer, also of Culbertson, is announced this morning by the bride-elect's parents.

The wedding will take place on Saturday, Jan. 8.

Coed Is Bride

The wedding of Miss Julie Kathleen Pearson, daughter of Mrs. Delores Pearson and Keith Pearson, both of Lincoln, and Larry A. Bobolz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Bobolz of Dorchester, took place at the Methodist Chapel on the University of Nebraska campus on Friday evening, Aug. 27. The Rev. Mel Luetchens solemnized the 7:30 o'clock ceremony.

Identically styled, floor-length frocks in varying shades were worn by the attendants. Mrs. William Walker, the matron of honor, wore the blue tone; Miss Kerry Pearson, who was her sister's maid of honor, appeared in yellow, and Miss Nena Shanks, the bridesmaid was in the coral shade.

Lee Johnson of Fairfield served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Sid Burkey of Dorchester; Howard Burns of Sioux Falls, S.D.; James Talcott of Hastings; Steven Burns and James Brannigan.

The bride chose a gown of lime green satin and lace for her wedding. The lace fashioned a wide band which contoured the Empire waist beneath the long-sleeved bodice, which was designed with a deep V neckline, and the lace was repeated in a deep ruffle at the hem of the slender, silhouette skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of matching lace was held in place with a bandeau of sweetheart roses and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

The bride is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in sociology. Mr. Bobolz is a senior at the University of Nebraska where he is majoring in architecture. He is a member of Theta Xi fraternity and of the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Afternoon Service

The wedding of Miss Linda J. Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Sutton of Greenwood, and Richard Churchill of Bellevue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Churchill of Craryville, N.Y., took place at the Cedar Hill United Methodist Church in Greenwood on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 15.

Mrs. Allen Hill, who was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant, appeared in a floor-length frock of yellow dotted Swiss.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of silk organza touched with Venise lace. The lace which banded the high, Victorian collar and widely cuffed the Bishop sleeves, was repeated to form an overlay on the sculptured Empire bodice. The skirt was an A-line silhouette which was given back interest by a train of cotillion length. Her elbow length veil has held in place by a cluster of lace petals.

Symphony Guild To Present "Emphasis Elegance"

The beauty of Lincoln cannot be hidden. It is there for all to see whether it be in the verdancy of summer or the snow-clad days of winter. Lincoln, with its spacious skies, its crimson and mauve sunsets, its soft glow of moonlight, has sensitivity and that sensitivity is characteristic of the people who live within the city's boundaries.

Lincoln's residents, intelligent, cultured, enjoy gracious living. It may be said, and without exaggeration or qualification, that the beauty of Lincoln lies within its people.

Consider the many cultural activities sponsored by the citizens of Lincoln, and you will know that beauty and the arts are predominant in their lives.

Let's take a look at the Lincoln Symphony Guild, for instance, and see how much time and effort is devoted toward the success of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. The Guild members, fortunately for Lincoln, are determined that our symphony orchestra will not share the fate that has befallen many orchestras throughout the country. Not only is it to survive—it also is to prosper.

The Symphony Guild does many things to help maintain one of Lincoln's finest arts, and among its projects is the group's annual fashion show

This season the Guild's parade of fashion has undergone a slight change. The show, which has the enticing title of "Emphasis Elegance" will be presented at a dessert buffet luncheon which will be held in the ballroom at the Radisson-Cornhusker Hotel on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

The title "EmphasisElegance" is particularly apropos when one learns that the entire collection of the famous Rodriguez will be presented in Lincoln for the first time, and certainly the names of Trigere, Mr. Blackwell, Originala — just to name a few, tend to conjure up visions of beautiful things, fashion-wise. The Rodriguez collection will have the designer's representative, Miss Janet Scholder, as a commentator. The remainder of the show will be in the capable hands of Lee Schoonover of Hovland-Swanson which is proper and fitting since Hovland-Swanson is doing the show for the Guild and, of course, for the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra.

Even a fashion model wearing some of the latest fashions needs time out for a cup of coffee, and in the picture we find three models doing just that.

Mrs. Miguel Lopez (left), Mrs. Sam Schwartzkopf and Mrs. Paul Maxwell (right) have had a busy day donning and doffing some of the new fashions to be presented at the Symphony Guild fashion show on Wednesday, Sept. 1.

The general chairman of the fashion show is Mrs. Fred E. Bodie, Jr., and just in case you have been a bit remiss about your reservations for the dessert buffet and the preview of fashions call Mrs. O. M. Anderson at 488-3082,, or Mrs. Charles Embry, 488-4313—They are in charge of reservations.

The Lincoln Symphony Orchestra is not letting the Guild members do all of the work, however. An orchestra, composed of Symphony strings, will do the musical accompaniment for the show.

The models for this year's fashion production will include Mrs. Harold Maude, Mrs. J. C. Weaver, Mrs. Paul Maxwell, Mrs. Harry Meginnis, Mrs. Charles Burmeister, Mrs. Robert Synhorst, Mrs. Rodney Cathcart, Mrs. James Exon, Mrs. Donn Davis, Mrs. Cornell Arendt, Mrs. James Raglin, Mrs. William Kinsey, Mrs. Miguel Lopez, Mrs. Don Faulk, Mrs. Richard Wells, Mrs. Thomas Woods, III, Mrs. Sam Schwartzkopf, Mrs. Clancy Woolman, and Mrs. George Lewis.

An exciting 1971-72 season is planned for the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra. The season opens on Oct. 12 with pianist Van Cliburn as guest artist with the orchestra. On Jan. 18, another pianist, Horacio Gutirrez, will appear with the symphony, and on March 7. vocalist Shirley Verrett will be heard in concert.

In between the guest artists the Symphony Orchestra will present some fine programs — the first will be on Nov. 9, and the second on Feb. 8. On April 11, the audition winners will take a bow with the orchestra.

Well—they're almost here—We're talking about those mad and merry weekends that accompany the Cornhusker football season.

The first game, as everyone knows, is with Oregon on Saturday, Sept. 11, and believe it or not a certain amount of tradition is attached to that first game.

For a number of years Mr. and Mrs. Jack Holmquist and Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Hudson have been hosts and hostesses at a pregame luncheon when game No. 1 rolls around, and this year is no exception.

And this morning we have news of guests.

Arriving this evening from Woodland Hills, Calif., will be Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hein (Anne Barber) and their three children, William, Barbara and Wesley.

So-Sew

BY GAIL HERSTEAD

Apparently home seamstresses and fabric shops have something new to contend with once the pre-cut kits with their attractive packaging and multi-media promotion hits the market next month.

For those of you unaware of the pe-cut innovation, a typical pre-cut kit contains a sized precut pattern, complete with notions and instructions all neatly tucked away in a durable tote bag.

These neat little home sewing kits are getting attention, and rightfully so, when well-known designers lay claim to the idea.

One of those designers, Leo Narducci by name, extended his imaginative efforts into the pre-cut field under the Sew-Sure title. Conveniently enough I had a chance to chat with the Coty Award Winner the other evening. He was in Lincoln at the time his ready-to-wear collection was presented. Of course we did not entirely omit his immediate designer collection from our conversation, but the discussion evolved about a fall collection which bears his name and requires a little stick work on the part of the consumer.

"Pre-cuts allow me the opportunity of being a personal designer and coordinator to women who sew," Narducci emphasized. His kits, which he refers to as "creative-cuts", contain the latest washable precut fabrics, zippers, thread, instructions and a prestigious Narducci label.

Narducci, who carries a conservative classic strain through his ready-to-wear designs, keeps his creative-cut clothes classic and simple for two reasons — fashion and easy sewability. Included in the fall pre-cut collection are little pants, city pants, slacks and a long and short hostess skirt.

More creative-cut designs are on their way Narducci remarked, and among them is a line of fashions for the overlooked woman who should expect to be fashionably dressed while she is expecting a child. The expectant mother who sews will be in for a treat when she sees the October issue of Redbook and the fashions therein

Later on this year. the demanding seamstresses who may look down on pre-cuts as an easy way out or a cop-out for the lazy sewer will find a challenge in pre-cut designs that require a little more than a seam here and there.

FROM THE NEEDLE'S EYE . . . Remember how well the ball point machine needle was received? Manufacturers and the sewing public knew a good thing when the saw it Now Singer is introducing ballpoint all-purpose pins so you will never need to worry about fabric "puncture wounds" from the pointed pin.

Questions, Answers

Q. Someone has told me that you cannot lose weight by taking steam baths. I am sure this is not true because I know a woman who lost six pounds doing just that. She lost it right away. We argue about this. Who is right?

A. Both of you are, in a way. You can lose pounds of weight but not fat. The loss is only a water loss and is therefore temporary. You can get it all back by drinking a sufficient amount of liquid.

Q. Should I wear a girdle when I take my exercises?

A. No.

Q. I am 16 years old and have very oily hair. It is not especially thick, just normal. It is so oily that I have to wash it twice a week. I have been told that if I wash it so often it will be very thin by the time I am 20. Is this true? I must shampoo it often to keep it looking nice.

A. What strange information you have been given! DO shampoo your hair as often as necessary to keep it in good condition. Very oily hair needs more frequent shampooing.

Q. I am not overweight but I have a small ugly double chin. I am only 29 years old. What can I do?

A. Since you are not overweight I advise you to think of your posture. Poor carriage can cause this. Is your spine straight and is your chin parallel to the floor? Do the following exercise. Lower your head backward as far as you can. Raise you head and touch your chin to your chest. Continue slowly.

Q. When I apply cream how should I do it?

A. Pat it into your face and neck gently.

Q. Is there any way to keep the hairs on the upper lip from standing out too much?

A. You can have these hairs removed permanently with electrolysis or you can remove them temporarily with a facial depilatory. A foundation applied rather heavily, or pancake makeup, will make the hairs lie flatter.

Q. I have scars on my face and they seem to be getting deeper after a few years. What should I do?

A. I think you must imagine that they are becoming deeper. Scars usually fade and become less noticeable given time. In fact that is all I know to do — give them time. If the scars are really deep they can be made less noticeable with dermabrassion.

Q. Will you please tell me about the use of a slant board, its value, the degree of slant? I I heard that one can use an ironing board.

A. The top end of the board should be about 18 inches high. You can surely use an ironing board unless you are much too wide for it. Lying in this position is restful. It also stirs up circulation in the face and scalp.

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Suppose someone offers you a bet where you can't lose where you might win, and where the worst possibility is that you'll break even. Presumably you'd grab any such bet very readily, for the fact is that such attractive propositions do not exactly grow on trees.

Occasionally, situations of this type arise at the bridge table. The setup may be such that you can gain a trick by making a certain play, with no corresponding chance of losing one.

Let's say you're in six spades and West leads a trump. You're off to a bad start, for, if West had led anything else, you would have made the hand by simply ruffing two hearts in dummy.

There's no use crying over spilt milk, so you win the spade with the nine, ruff a diamond, ash the A-K of hearts, ruff a heart, and ruff another diamond.

You then draw two rounds of trumps, bringing yourself to the crucial point of the hand. You might now feel tempted to try the club finesse, but that would be the wrong thing to do, for it would give you only about a 50-50 shot at the contract.

Instead, you should lead your last heart. This play cannot cost you a thing, but it might — and in the actual case would — make the slam. East wins with the queen and is forced to return a diamond or a club into dummy's pair of A-Q's. As a result, you make twelve tricks.

It is true that if West had the queen the heart play would not accomplish a thing — but in that case you could still take the club finesse. Thus, by playing the fourth heart, you have practically everything to gain and nothing to lose.

ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Our 21-year-old daughter is living at home again after three unsuccessful tries at apartment living.

She works, but pays us no rent. She's been dating a young man for a short period of time and goes out with him once a week. She stays all night at his apartment, comes home in the morning and changes her clothes and goes to work.

This is upsetting my husband and me. We've told her so, but she says she is doing no wrong because she "loves" him. She also says she has to live her own life, and if we don't get off her back she will move out and we'll never see her again.

We are afraid that this direction she has taken will hurt her. How can he love her if he sees her only once a week, and then just for a sleep-over date? If this relationship doesn't lead to marriage, and she thinks she "loves" another one, and another one, and still another, what kind of person will she become?

Abby, it's so hard for us to accept this and be quiet, yet we don't want to lose our daughter. What shoud we do?

Now I really don't see why that had to go into the paper, do you? The man wasn't a celebrity or anything. He was just a common ordinary citizen. Besides, he was 95 years old, which averages out 19 years for each wife, so what is so special about that?

Remember me? My name is Andy the llama, and I arrived mid-season as the surprise animal. How time has flown! Why, it is almost time for the Zoo to close, and because school is starting up, many of our educated friends and keepers are beginning to leave.

Before they all disappear for the winter, I am taking it upon myself to tell you a little bit about the nice people who care for the animals here, and help you out when you come to visit.

Three of our Zoo Girls already have left. They are Tina Adams, Laurie Knaub and Linda Aldrich. This was Tina's first year here, and she was the permanent slave — the girl who did the dirty work. She will enter the University of Nebraska as a sophomore this year.

Both Laurie and Linda were here for their second years as Zoo Girls. The Zoo Girls all wear blue pants outfits and rotate to different areas of the Zoo. Laurie will be attending Nebraska Business Institute this fall, and Linda will be a senior at the University of Nebraska.

The other Zoo Girls who have been here this summer and will be leaving shortly are: Stephanie Pederson of Weeping Water who will be a freshman at Kearney; Sue Schroeder, who will enter the University of Nebraska as a freshman; Sally Hoover, who came to the Zoo at about the same time I did, and is a senior at Lincoln High School; Kathy Hanlon who will be returning to the University of Nebraska part-time while she works during the day; and Pat Williams who came to the Zoo from Crete and who will be returning there for her junior year at Doane College.

All of these Zoo Girls were here for their first year this summer, except for Kathy who was here for her second year. Personally, I hope they all return next year.

The lady who feeds us is Cheryl Hardesty. Her official title is dietitian, and she is studying to be just that at Iowa State University where she will enter her junior year.

The beautiful gardens are kept by Wayne Springer and his assistant, Mitzi Majorins. Wayne has been with the Zoo for 5 years, he told me, and he will be a senior at the University. Mitzi has been here two years, and she's a senior at Southeast High School.

There are many people who are responsible for running Zooville. We've told you about some, but there are more. Janet Reich, a junior at the University of Nebraska, is at the Trading Post for her second year. Mrs. Gary (Yvonne) Michaud is also a junior at the University, and this is her second year at the gift shop. Rita Kumm took off her clown suit when we ran short of help this year, and now sells popcorn. Rita is a senior at Lincoln High School.

Trish Willets is here for her fourth year, and she takes your money at the ticket booth. Trish is working on her Masters degree at the University.

Mrs. Steve (Cathy) Curry and Tammi Hathaway are both in the Zoo office. We hesitate to call them "secretary," bcause both do so much more around the Zoo. A graduate of Doane College, Cathy has been at the Zoo for four years now, and she is one of the few people who stay on year 'round. Tammi is seeing her second year here, and she will be a sophomore at the University.

Tom Harvey, who is educational director for Birdcage Theatre, has been here just about as long as anybody, which is six years. Tom is hoping to begin his studies at the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry this fall.

As for the Zoo Keepers — They are George Smith, who is general curator, and Al Fontana. Both have been here for five years, and both will be seniors at the University.

Last, but far from least, is our Zoo Director, Bob Spencer. Bob has been here six years, and we hope he stays forever.

So-Sew

BY GAIL HERSTEAD

Apparently home seamstresses and fabric shops have something new to contend with once the pre-cut kits with their attractive packaging and multi-media promotion hits the market next month.

For those of you unaware of the pe-cut innovation, a typical pre-cut kit contains a sized precut pattern, complete with notions and instructions all neatly tucked away in a durable tote bag.

These neat little home sewing kits are getting attention, and rightfully so, when well-known designers lay claim to the idea.

One of those designers, Leo Narducci by name, extended his imaginative efforts into the pre-cut field under the Sew-Sure title. Conveniently enough I had a chance to chat with the Coty Award Winner the other evening. He was in Lincoln at the time his ready-to-wear collection was presented. Of course we did not entirely omit his immediate designer collection from our conversation, but the discussion evolved about a fall collection which bears his name and requires a little stick work on the part of the consumer.

"Pre-cuts allow me the opportunity of being a personal designer and coordinator to women who sew," Narducci emphasized. His kits, which he refers to as "creative-cuts", contain the latest washable precut fabrics, zippers, thread, instructions and a prestigious Narducci label.

Narducci, who carries a conservative classic strain through his ready-to-wear designs, keeps his creative-cut clothes classic and simple for two reasons — fashion and easy sewability. Included in the fall pre-cut collection are little pants, city pants, slacks and a long and short hostess skirt.

More creative-cut designs are on their way Narducci remarked, and among them is a line of fashions for the overlooked woman who should expect to be fashionably dressed while she is expecting a child. The expectant mother who sews will be in for a treat when she sees the October issue of Redbook and the fashions therein.

Later on this year, the demanding seamstresses who may look down on pre-cuts as an easy way out or a cop-out for the lazy sewer will find a challenge in pre-cut designs that require a little more than a seam here and there.

FROM THE NEEDLE'S EYE . . . Remember how well the ball point machine needle was received? Manufacturers and the sewing public knew a good thing when the saw it. Now Singer is introducing ballpoint all-purpose pins so you will never need to worry about fabric "puncture wounds" from the pointed pin.

Questions, Answers

Q. Someone has told me that you cannot lose weight by taking steam baths. I am sure this is not true because I know a woman who lost six pounds doing just that. She lost it right away. We argue about this. Who is right?

A. Both of you are, in a way. You can lose pounds of weight but not fat. The loss is only a water loss and is therefore temporary. You can get it all back by drinking a sufficient amount of liquid.

Q. Should I wear a girdle when I take my exercises?

A. No.

Q. I am 16 years old and have very oily hair. It is not especially thick, just normal. It is so oily that I have to wash it twice a week. I have been told that if I wash it so often it will be very thin by the time I am 20. Is this true? I must shampoo it often to keep it looking nice.

A. What strange information you have been given! DO shampoo your hair as often as necessary to keep it in good condition. Very oily hair needs more frequent shampooing.

Q. I am not overweight but I have a small ugly double chin. I am only 29 years old. What can I do?

A. Since you are not overweight I advise you to think of your posture. Poor carriage can cause this. Is your spine straight and is your chin parallel to the floor? Do the following exercise. Lower your head backward as far as you can. Raise you head and touch your chin to your chest. Continue slowly.

Q. When I apply cream how should I do it?

A. Pat it into your face and neck gently.

Q. Is there any way to keep the hairs on the upper lip from standing out too much?

A. You can have these hairs removed permanently with electrolysis or you can remove them temporarily with a facial depilatory. A foundation applied rather heavily, or pancake makeup, will make the hairs lie flatter.

Q. I have scars on my face and they seem to be getting deeper after a few years. What should I do?

A. I think you must imagine that they are becoming deeper. Scars usually fade and become less noticeable given time. In fact that is all I know to do — give them time. If the scars are really deep they can be made less noticeable with dermabrassion.

Q. Will you please tell me about the use of a slant board, its value, the degree of slant? I I heard that one can use an ironing board.

A. The top end of the board should be about 18 inches high. You can surely use an ironing board unless you are much too wide for it. Lying in this position is restful. It also stirs up circulation in the face and scalp.

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Suppose someone offers you a bet where you can't lose where you might win, and where the worst possibility is that you'll break even. Presumably you'd grab any such bet very readily, for the fact is that such attractive propositions do not exactly grow on trees.

Occasionally, situations of this type arise at the bridge table. The setup may be such that you can gain a trick by making a certain play, with no corresponding chance of losing one.

Let's say you're in six spades and West leads a trump. You're off to a bad start, for, if West had led anything else, you would have made the hand by simply ruffing two hearts in dummy.

There's no use crying over spilt milk, so you win the spade with the nine, ruff a diamond, ash the A-K of hearts, ruff a heart, and ruff another diamond.

You then draw two rounds of trumps, bringing yourself to the crucial point of the hand. You might now feel tempted to try the club finesse, but that would be the wrong thing to do, for it would give you only about a 50-50 shot at the contract.

Instead, you should lead your last heart. This play cannot cost you a thing, but it might — and in the actual case would — make the slam. East wins with the queen and is forced to return a diamond or a club into dummy's pair of A-Q's. As a result, you make twelve tricks.

It is true that if West had the queen the heart play would not accomplish a thing — but in that case you could still take the club finesse. Thus, by playing the fourth heart, you have practically everything to gain and nothing to lose.

ABBY

She works, but pays us no rent. She's been dating a young man for a short period of time and goes out with him once a week. She stays all night at his apartment, comes home in the morning and changes her clothes and goes to work.

This is upsetting my husband and me. We've told her so, but she says she is doing no wrong because she "loves" him. She also says she has to live her own life, and if we don't get off her back she will move out and we'll never see her again.

We are afraid that this direction she has taken will hurt her. How can he love her if he sees her only once a week, and then just for a sleep-over date? If this relationship doesn't lead to marriage, and she thinks she "loves" another one, and another one, and still another, what kind of person will she become?

Abby, it's so hard for us to accept this and be quiet, yet we don't want to lose our daughter. What shoud we do?

Catholic School Superintendent Wants To Wait For Guidelines

The superintendent of schools for the Lincoln Catholic Diocese Friday said he has asked the State Education Department to withhold approval of the Lincoln Public Schools' Title I program "until all federal guidelines are satisfied."

The request was in the form of a telegram to State Education Commissioner Cecil Stanley, Father James Dawson said.

The move is the latest in a series of efforts to gain approval of federally funded programs inside private schools.

Selectivity Urged

Earlier this week Dawson and the two other diocesan superintendents in the state asked the State Board of Education to see that Title I programs which meet the federal guidelines are the only ones approved.

Catholic educators contend the federal guidelines can only be met when the services are provided in the private schools. The State Education Department, however, has ruled on the attorney general's advice that such a practice is not permissible in Nebraska.

The program, funded under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, provides services for educationally disadvantaged children.

Lincoln Public School Supt. John Prasch said this week that the schools intend to provide the same services offered last year, when parochial students in the Title I program walked to public schools for the speech therapy sessions.

'Rug Pulled'

Father Dawson, however, claims that Prasch "pulled the rug out from the handicapped children" in Lincoln and elsewhere in the state "when he forced a ruling which resulted in refusal of noninstructional aides to assist handicapped children in private schools."

The ruling was announced after Prasch asked the education department for a written clarification of policy related to the use of aides in private schools.

"If the state said we could do it, we would do it," Prasch told The Star.

The Lincoln Title I program submitted to the education department calls for expenditures totaling about $330,000 in the coming academic year.

A "major portion" of that amount would go for salaries, according to Anne Campbell, administrative assistant for governmental relations in the public schools.

The Title I funds are allocated through the state to "local education agencies," all of which are local public school districts.

BLUE GRASS is probably the best lawn grass for this area, but it is classified as a cool season grass. Most of us agree that July and August are difficult months for even the best informed lawn owners It adds up to the fact that, in this area, we must water frequently and carry out good turf procedures.
A blue glass lawn is a high-maintenance turf. If you just can't make a go of it with blue grass, ask us about a LOW MAINTENANCE grass. We have some lawn areas of this and can tell you about it

The few weeks of late summer and early fall are by far the best opportunity to upgrade your lawn. Days are growing shorter. Dews are heavier. The soil is warm, and nights are growing cooler. It's the one time of the year (August 15 thru September) when Mother Nature has all the odds stacked in your favor — the naturally right time to make real lawn progress.

We not only sell grass seed, but we have lawns of different types of turf. We practice what we preach. Our seed is all high test:

KENTUCKY BLUE GRASS
PARK BLUE GRASS -- Germinates faster
PERENNIAL RYE -- A course bladed low-cost grass for a quick, short term lawn
MANHATTAN RYE -- A fabulous new quick germinating grass that looks and acts like blue grass. We have a lawn of this.
PENNSTAR -- A new superior strain of Blue Grass
FESCUE -- A course bladed high population grass that makes a highly desirable low-maintenance lawn

BLUE GRASS is probably the best lawn grass for this area, but it is classified as a cool season grass. Most of us agree that July and August are difficult months for even the best informed lawn owners. It adds up to the fact that, in this area, we must water frequently and carry out good turf procedures.

A blue glass lawn is a high-maintenance turf. If you just can't make a go of it with blue grass, ask us about a LOW MAINTENANCE grass. We have some lawn areas of this and can tell you about it.

The few weeks of late summer and early fall are by far the best opportunity to upgrade your lawn. Days are growing shorter. Dews are heavier. The soil is warm, and nights are growing cooler. It's the one time of the year (August 15 thru September) when Mother Nature has all the odds stacked in your favor — the naturally right time to make real lawn progress.

We not only sell grass seed, but we have lawns of different types of turf. We practice what we preach. Our seed is all high test:

KENTUCKY BLUE GRASS
PARK BLUE GRASS -- Germinates faster
PERENNIAL RYE -- A course bladed low-cost grass for a quick, short term lawn
MANHATTAN RYE -- A fabulous new quick germinating grass that looks and acts like blue grass. We have a lawn of this.
PENNSTAR -- A new superior strain of Blue Grass
FESCUE -- A course bladed high population grass that makes a highly desirable low-maintenance lawn
SCOTTS WINDSOR -- We have four types and have lawns to show

ALONG WITH THESE FINE PRODUCTS WE OFFER HELPFUL ADVICE BACKED BY YEARS OF PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE . . .

Cowboys' Gass Finds Big Players Needed To Win In Big Eight

Stillwater, Okla. — Floyd Gass says one of the most important things he learned after coming to Oklahoma State as head football coach three years ago was that you can't win in the Big Eight with small football players.

This year Gass has a number of Cowboy gridders who would have trouble fitting into a saddle, but the O-State coach hopes they can improve on the Cowboys' 3-4 and 2-5 league records of the past two years.

"I've found that it's difficult to win in this league with 190-pound linemen," he told touring Big Eight Skywriters. "They just can't stand up to the punishment you get in the Big Eight.

"So, we went out and tried to get some big football players. We may be sacrificing some speed, but you must have big linemen and big backs to win in the Big Eight."

To get the size he wanted, Gass not only went after big football players coming out of high school the past couple of years, but he dug into the junior college ranks, so much so that many names on the O-State depth chart are new to Big Eight observers.

Inexperience A Problem

This, Gass admits, causes an inexperience problem, but he says confidently they may be good enough athletes to overcome their inexperience.

"We'll be young," he admits, "but we feel we have good depth and we've got more size. The thing we've got to find out is if they can compete.

"We look pretty good working against ourselves, but that's not like playing in the Big Eight or playing against our non-conference opponents (Mississippi State, Arkansas, VPI and Texas Christian)."

The depth of which Gass speaks is evident at some of the specialty positions — quarterback and split receivers, for example.

"We've got a quarterback (Tony Pounds), who was No. 1 for us a year ago," Gass says, "and he's No. 1 for us now. But we've got a sophomore (Brent Blackman), who is pushing him.

"And at split receiver, we've had only Dick Graham and Hermann Eben the last couple of years. But now we've got some depth there with more speed and more size."

Another highly-touted sophomore is fullback Cleveland Vann, a 6-3, 223-pounder who has moved into the No. 1 spot held a year ago by sophomore James Williams, who is now at Cameron Junior College.

An indication of the increased size is the fact that the O-State offensive line averages 22 pounds per man more than a year ago, and Gass beams when he says, "You need that size."

More Defensive Depth, Also

The O-State coach also is confident he has more defensive depth.

"Last year, we felt we had five good players to play our four down positions in the defensive line," he observes. "This year, I think we have seven.

"We've got three of our four starters returning in the defensive secondary, so we hope we'll be as strong defensively as we were a year ago."

While figuring he's more prepared to face it, Gass also figures, "The league will be as tough as ever, because the have-nots — and I guess we're in that group — will be tougher.

"I'd have to go along with the two that are supposed to be on top (Nebraska and Oklahoma), but I think Colorado will be very strong, defensively, and Kansas and Missouri are going to be sound.

"If somebody besides those top two, like two or three other teams in the league, can come up with a quarterback and a couple of running backs, they'll be good teams."

The Cowboys already have that quarterback in Pounds or Blackman; they've got a fine running back in Bobby Cole. And they've got that size, this year.

PALMER ROMPS TO WIN

. . . Eichelberger Falls Victim To Arnie

Pinehurst, N.C. (AP) — Streaking Arnold Palmer disposed of Dave Eichelberger 69-72 Friday and stormed into the quarter-finals of the $200,000 United States Professional Match Play golf championship.

Palmer, gunning for a fifth title this season, romped to a three-stroke lead at the turn, 32-35 and coasted in on the 6,973-yard, par 72 Country Club of North Carolina course.

"This guy's not real," said the 28-year-old Eichelberger, winner of the Milwaukee Open earlier this season. "He's knocking it stiff to the flag every time he draws the club back."

The 41-year-old Palmer faces Australian veteran Bruce Crampton in today's quarter-finals, first of two 18 hole rounds scheduled for the day.

Quarter-final winners take a lunch break then go to the semifinals in this unique event in which scoring is based on total strokes over 18 holes.

Crampton advanced over veteran Gardner Dickinson 71-75.

Canadian George Knudson, rebounding from a back ailment that has bothered him for a year and a half, carved out a course record 66, six under par, for an easy victory over Pete Brown, who struggled in with a 75.

The nine-stroke margin was the largest of the tournament.

By way of contrast, Phil Rodgers was a winner after shooting a 76. Rodgers down three strokes after three holes, birdied the final hole to catch Gene Littler at four over par, then birdied the first extra hole.

The line-up for the quarter-finals has Weiskopf vs. Still, Knudson vs. Rodgers, Palmer vs. Crampton and Weaver vs. Graham.

Palmer, winner of 59 American tour events including the Bob Hope, Citrus Invitational, Westchester Classic and National team championship this year, blitzed Eichelberger on the front nine.

He birdied four times in a six hole stretch starting on the fourth hole and had the dark-haired Eichelberger shaking his head in disbelief by the time they made the turn.

He rolled in a 25 foot putt on the fourth, scored a two-putt birdie on the 475 yard fifth, laced a three iron to within 10 inches on the seventh and birdied the ninth from 12 feet.

He made another 12 foot birdie putt on the 12th hole and had a four stroke lead when Eichelberger bogeyed the 13th, missing the green.

But Palmer took consecutive bogeys on the 15th and 16th, hitting a trap on No. 15 and missing the green on No. 16.

"I guess I just got a little sweaty," Palmer said, "what with this heat and everything. I sure wasn't trying to let up. I was just kinda hot."

Knudson had a remarkable round counting eight birdies and two bogeys. He made a pair of putts in the 40 foot range, reached the par five 18th in two and two-putted, holed four putts in the 6-10 foot range and laced a long iron to within three feet of the flag on the 13th.

Tom Weiskopf defeated Ray Floyd 71-73.
Ken Still defeated Dave Stockton 70-74.
George Knudson defeated Pete Brown 66-75.
Arnold Palmer defeated Dave Eichelberger 69-72.
Bruce Crampton defeated Gardner Dickinson 71-75.
DeWitt Weaver defeated Julius Boros 71-74.
Lou Graham defeated Art Wall 70-74.

Quarter-final pairings for Saturday, with times in EDT (Semi-finals to be played in the afternoon):

7:30 a.m.—Weiskopf vs. Still.
7:40 a.m.—Knudson vs. Rodgers.
7:50 a.m.—Palmer vs. Crampton.
8 a.m.—Weaver vs. Graham.

Husker Mentor Eliminates Two-A-Day Workout Drills

By VIRGIL PARKER

Coach Bob Devaney, with the most extensive scrimmage session of the fall on tap for this afternoon, has decided to eliminate two allowable practices from the pre-season timetable.

"We'll have a team meeting Saturday morning instead of a second workout," the Big Red grid boss said at the conclusion of Friday's two drills, "and just a single session Sunday. Monday will be the last of our two-a-days."

The Huskers will thus have double drills on eight days instead of the ten permitted.

"Because we started fall practices earlier this season," Devaney explained, "we will still have the same number of workouts prior to the first game as in past years."

This afternoon's scrimmage will include work on punts and punt returns and also pit the No. 1 and No. 2 units against each other for the first time this fall.

"The work on punting will be done under controlled conditions, however," Devaney added. "We don't want the first-team defense putting on a punt return and with a peel-back, blind-side block getting some first-unit offensive player hurt."

Devaney said it also may be the only time during pre-season practice when the first offense will go against the Black Shirt defense.

"It won't be a full game-type scrimmage," he explained, "but we won't bring the ball back to the same spot after every play. We'll let 'em try to move the ball down the field."

Jeff Hughes, who handled the Husker punting chores last fall, Rich Sanger and possibly Jim Carstens will be tried in the kicking role.

Sanger is also in the wide open battle to replace Paul Rogers as the Big Red's place kicker.

Kicking coach Cletus Fischer has been giving everyone a shot at the job. Defensive backs Bill Kosch and Tom McClelland and kicking specialist Alan Pieratt are the other most frequently mentioned names.

At the conclusion of practice Friday, several big linemen wanted a try and were booting floating line drives in all directions.

Then offensive ace Johnny Rodgers asked for a turn and promptly split the uprights with three in a row and then moved back to zero in a 31-yard field goal with ease.

"I don't discount the possibility of using Johnny," Fischer admitted, "but he's so busy catching passes and returning punts I'm not sure he'd have the time to work on the kicking game as well."

Hamilton Releases Worster, Pal

Hamilton, Ont. (AP)— Fullback Steve Worster and defensive halfback Seth Miller were released by Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference Friday after they appeared in provincial Court on charges of possessing marijuana.

General manager Ralph Sazio explained: "Both players have asked for their releases for the best interests of the club and for everybody else.

"We've put them both on waivers with no recall, and they are available to any team in the league."

The two players were charged Thursday after a combined raid by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and city police on the home they rented with teammate Larry Watkins. They were remanded to Sept. 28.

Sazio admitted making the pair free agents was a calculated risk, but "it gives both parties an opportunity this way to decide if they want to come back and to decide if we want them back."

Earlier in the week, Wayne Philbrick of nearby Vineland Station, a rookie reserve Canadian lineman with the Tiger-Cats, was charged with possessing marijuana for the purpose of trafficking.

A 50-pound cache of marijuana was discovered on a Saltfleet Township farm leased to Philbrick. No plea was taken when he appeared in court and Philbrick was released on $1,000 bail for another court appearance Oct. 12.

Worster said of the players' request for release:

"We both want to play football again and this leaves the door open."

He said they both were "flabbergasted with the charges," but after consulting three or four people "we feel we have a chance to beat it."

Worster, from Orange, Tex., and Miller, of Rockford, Ill., were to leave for their homes after Thursday's court appearance.

Worster, All-American co-captain of the University of Texas Longhorns last year, was signed by Hamilton in May to a three-year contract reported to be worth $100,000.

He was to report for six months of reserve duty at Houston Sept. 14.

"I just feel sick," said coach Al Drow. "This is not only the low point of my football career, but the low point of my life . . ."

Spitz Breaks World Record In 200-Meter Butterfly Twice

. . . ELLIE DANIELS EQUALS MARK IN GALS' RACE

Houston, Tex. (AP) — Mark Spitz broke the world record in the men's 200-meter butterfly for the second time Friday and Ellie Daniel equalled the world record she set in the preliminaries of the women's 200-meter butterfly to highlight finals action in the National AAU Swimming Championships.

Spitz put on a spectacular stretch drive Friday night to defeat existing world record holder Gary Hall in the 200 butterfly. In Friday's prelims, Spitz lowered Hall's world mark of 2:05.0 to 2:03.916. But in the finals, Spitz hit the finish at 2:03.89 to break his own mark.

Miss Daniel, who was an Olympic finalist in the 100 and 200 butterfly in 1968, set a world record of 2:18.40 in the 200-meter butterfly in the preliminaries.

It broke the existing record of 2:19.3 set in 1970 by Alice Jones. Miss Daniel turned in another 2:18.40 in the finals.

It was the second world record Spitz had set in this meet. He broke his own record of 55.6 in the 100-meter butterfly to 55.01 Wednesday. He also owns world records in the 100 and 200-meter freestyle.

Hall, trying to regain the world title he lost in the morning prelims, was leading Spitz with 25 meters to go, but Spitz churned past Hall, who finished second in 2:03.91.

Other individual winners Friday night included Rick Colella of the Cascade Swim Club, 2:25.05 in the men's 200-meter breaststroke; Claudia Clevenger of the De Anza Swim Club, Cupertino, Calif., 2:45.72 in the women's 200-meter breaststroke; Susie Atwood of the Lakewood, Calif. Aquatic Club, 1:06.72 in the women's 100-meter backstroke; and Mel Nash of the Greater Pittsburgh Swim Club, 59.29 in the men's 100 meter backstroke.

Colella had to overcome strong challenges by John Hencken of the Santa Clara Swim Club and world record holder Brian Job to win the men's 200 breaststroke.

Hencken finished second in 2:25.10 after completing the first 100 meters with a split of 1:08.78, ahead of the record pace set by Job when he set the mark in Los Angeles last year. Job, who had one false start, was third at 2:26.04.

Leslie Bryans of the Santa Clara Swim Club was second to Miss Clevenger in the women's 200 breaststroke. Miss Clevenger was the defending champion.

Karen Moe of the Santa Clara Swim Club was second to Miss Daniel in both of her world record performances. After placing second in the morning prelims, Miss Moe almost caught Miss Daniel in the finals before finishing second at 2:18.70.

Miss Daniel had a split of 1:06.1 in her morning world record race. In the finals she moved out with a 1:05.5 in the first 100 meters.

Miss Daniel was a 1968 Olympics finalist in the 100 and 200 butterfly events.

Miss Atwood successfully defended her 1970 100 meter backstroke title and win her second title of the 1971 backstroke won the 200 meter backstroke Wednesday night.

Underdog Mel Nash of the Greater Pittsburgh Swim Club was one of the happiest winners. He started leaping up and down in the water after winning the 100 backstroke. He outdistanced runnerup Charles Campbell, who had a time of 59.40.

The Lakewood Swim Club A Team set an American record of 18:35.52 in the women's 800-meter freestyle relay. The team included Linda Johnson, Linda Kiddie, Roberta Watts and Ann Simmons.

SENIOR JOCKEYS WILL RETURN AT COLUMBUS

Riders include Nebraska racing steward Irv Anderson, Billy Bobk, Jitter Davis, Jim McCumber, Jim Anderson, Leon Hall, Bob Farmer, and Cliff Pierce.

Royals Slip Past Iowa, 7-6

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Royals ended a six-game losing streak Friday night by defeating the Iowa Oaks 7-6 in American Association baseball.

John Sullivan collected three hits and knocked in three runs, including two in the first inning that gave Omaha a 3-0 lead.

Oaks' shortstop Dwaine Anderson, whose errors helped Omaha to three unearned runs in the fifth, hit a triple in the eighth to knock out starter Mike Jackson. Rene Lachemann doubled to pull the Oaks 7-6 but Omaha reliever Aurelio Monteagudo quelled the attack.

Splittorff's Three-Hitter Beats Yanks

By Associated Press

Rookie left-hander Paul Splittorff fired a three-hitter as the Kansas City Royals beat the New York Yankees, 4-0, Friday night for the first time in six meetings.

Splittorff, 7-6, outdueled New York's Stan Bahnsen, 10-10, who was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning after giving up only three hits.

Amos Otis drove in two runs for Kansas City with a single in a two-run third and a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Freddie Patek continued his hot hitting for the Royals with three singles.

In other American League games Detroit dropped Chicago, 4-2 and Minnesota clubbed Cleveland, 8-4. In the National League Chicago blanked Atlanta, 3-0, Cincinnati edged St. Louis, 8-7, and Pittsburgh clobbered Houston, 7-3.

Milwaukee at Baltimore for a twilight doubleheader, San Diego at Montreal, Los Angeles at New York and San Francisco at Philadelphia were all rained out.

Joe Coleman, backed by a three-run, third inning, notched his 14th victory with a five-hitter as the Tigers trimmed the White Sox.

Harmon Killebrew drove in five runs with his 17th and 18th homers of the season, powering the Twins over the Indians.

Killebrew's first homer came in the fifth inning with two men on and lifted the Twins into a 4-3 lead. Rod Carew had walked with two out off loser Steve Dunning, 8-12, and Tony Oliva followed with a single before Killebrew's blast.

Billy Williams tripled across two runs and slammed a solo homer and Mitt Pappas scattered five hits as the troubled Cubs defeated the Braves.

The Cubs bounced back after two successive setbacks by the Cincinnati Reds, spurred by owner Phil Wrigley's scolding that team, play ball and forget publicized friction between some Cub players and Manager Leo Durocher.

Williams settled a pitching duel between Pappas, 16-11, and lanky Ron Reed, now 12-10, with a two-out triple after singles by Pappas and Glenn Beckert in the third inning. Williams slammed homer No. 25 in the sixth.

Jimmy Stewart tied the game with a pinch-hit three-run triple and scored the winning run on Pete Rose's sacrifice fly as the Reds rallied for five runs in the ninth inning to beat the Cardinals.

Andy Messersmith and Lloyd Allen teamed up to blank the Boston Red Sox on four hits as the California Angels made a first inning run stand up for a 1-0 triumph.

Palmer, winner of 59 American tour events including the Bob Hope, Citrus Invitational, Westchester Classic and National team championship this year, blitzed Eichelberger on the front nine.

He birdied four times in a six hole stretch starting on the fourth hole and had the dark-haired Eichelberger shaking his head in disbelief by the time they made the turn.

He rolled in a 25 foot putt on the fourth, scored a two-putt birdie on the 475 yard fifth, laced a three iron to within 10 inches on the seventh and birdied the ninth from 12 feet.

He made another 12 foot birdie putt on the 12th hole and had a four stroke lead when Eichelberger bogeyed the 13th, missing the green.

But Palmer took consecutive bogeys on the 15th and 16th, hitting a trap on No. 15 and missing the green on No. 16.

"I guess I just got a little sweaty," Palmer said, "what with this heat and everything. I sure wasn't trying to let up. I was just kinda hot."

Knudson had a remarkable round counting eight birdies and two bogeys. He made a pair of putts in the 40 foot range, reached the par five 18th in two and two-putted, holed four putts in the 6-10 foot range and laced a long iron to within three feet of the flag on the 13th.

Tom Weiskopf defeated Ray Floyd 71-73.
Ken Still defeated Dave Stockton 70-74.
George Knudson defeated Pete Brown 88-75
Arnold Palmer defeated Dave Eichelberger 69-72.
Bruce Crampton defeated Gardner Dickinson 71-75.
DeWitt Weaver defeated Julius Boros 71-74.
Lou Graham defeated Art Wall 70-74.

Husker Mentor Eliminates Two-A-Day Workout Drills

By VIRGIL PARKER

Coach Bob Devaney, with the most extensive scrimmage session of the fall on tap for this afternoon, has decided to eliminate two allowable practices from the pre-season timetable.

"We'll have a team meeting Saturday morning instead of a second workout," the Big Red grid boss said at the conclusion of Friday's two drills, "and just a single session Sunday. Monday will be the last of our two-a-days."

The Huskers will thus have double drills on eight days instead of the ten permitted.

"Because we started fall practices earlier this season," Devaney explained, "we will still have the same number of workouts prior to the first game as in past years."

This afternoon's scrimmage will include work on punts and punt returns and also pit the No. 1 and No. 2 units against each other for the first time this fall.

"The work on punting will be done under controlled conditions, however," Devaney added. "We don't want the first-team defense putting on a peel-back, blind-side block getting some first-unit offensive player hurt."

Devaney said it also may be the only time during pre-season practice when the first offense will go against the Black Shirt defense.

"It won't be a full game-type scrimmage," he explained, "but we won't bring the ball back to the same spot after every play. We'll let 'em try to move the ball down the field."

Jeff Hughes, who handled the Husker punting chores last fall, Rich Sanger and possibly Jim Carstens will be tried in the kicking role.

Sanger is also in the wide open battle to replace Paul Rogers as the Big Red's place kicker.

Kicking coach Cletus Fischer has been giving everyone a shot at the job. Defensive backs Bill Kosch and Tom McClelland and kicking specialist Alan Pieratt are the other most frequently mentioned names.

At the conclusion of practice Friday, several big linemen wanted a try and were booting floating line drives in all directions.

Then offensive ace Johnny Rodgers asked for a turn and promptly split the uprights with three in a row and then moved back to zero in a 31-yard field goal with ease.

"I don't discount the possibility of using Johnny," Fischer admitted, "but he's so busy catching passes and returning punts I'm not sure he'd have the time to work on the kicking game as well."

Hamilton Releases Worster,Pal

Hamilton, Ont. (AP)— Fullback Steve Worster and defensive halfback Seth Miller were released by Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference Friday after they appeared in provincial Court on charges of possessing marijuana.

General manager Ralph Sazio explained: "Both players have asked for their releases for the best interests of the club and for everybody else.

"We've put them both on waivers with no recall, and they are available to any team in the league."

The two players were charged Thursday after a combined raid by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and city police on the home they rented with teammate Larry Watkins. They were remanded to Sept. 28.

Sazio admitted making the pair free agents was a calculated risk, but "it gives both parties an opportunity this way to decide if they want to come back and to decide if we want them back."

Earlier in the week, Wayne Philbrick of nearby Vineland Station, a rookie reserve Canadian lineman with the Tiger-Cats, was charged with possessing marijuana for the purpose of trafficking.

A 50-pound cache of marijuana was discovered on a Saltfleet Township farm leased to Philbrick. No plea was taken when he appeared in court and Philbrick was released on $1,000 bail for another court appearance Oct. 12.

Worster said of the players' request for release:

"We both want to play football again and this leaves the door open."

He said they both were "flabbergasted with the charges," but after consulting three or four people "we feel we have a chance to beat it."

Worster, from Orange, Tex., and Miller, of Rockford, Ill., were to leave for their homes after Thursday's court appearance.

Worster, All-American co-captain of the University of Texas Longhorns last year, was signed by Hamilton in May to a three-year contract reported to be worth $100,000.

He was to report for six months of reserve duty at Houston Sept. 14.

"I just feel sick," said coach Al Drow. "This is not only the low point of my football career, but the low point of my life . . ."

. . . ELLIE DANIELS EQUALS MARK IN GALS' RACE

Houston, Tex. (AP) — Mark Spitz broke the world record in the men's 200-meter butterfly for the second time Friday and Ellie Daniel equalled the world record she set in the preliminaries of the women's 200-meter butterfly to highlight finals action in the National AAU Swimming Championships.

Spitz put on a spectacular stretch drive Friday night to defeat existing world record holder Gary Hall in the 200 butterfly. In Friday's prelims, Spitz lowered Hall's world mark of 2:05.0 to 2:03.916. But in the finals, Spitz hit the finish at 2:03.89 to break his own mark.

Miss Daniel, who was an Olympic finalist in the 100 and 200 butterfly in 1968, set a world record of 2:18.40 in the 200-meter butterfly in the preliminaries.

It broke the existing record of 2:19.3 set in 1970 by Alice Jones. Miss Daniel turned in another 2:18.40 in the finals.

It was the second world record Spitz had set in this meet. He broke his own record of 55.6 in the 100-meter butterfly to 55.01 Wednesday. He also owns world records in the 100 and 200-meter freestyle.

Hall, trying to regain the world title he lost in the morning prelims, was leading Spitz with 25 meters to go, but Spitz churned past Hall, who finished second in 2:03.91.

Other individual winners Friday night included Rick Colella of the Cascade Swim Club, 2:25.05 in the men's 200-meter breaststroke; Claudia Clevenger of the De Anza Swim Club, Cupertino, Calif., 2:45.72 in the women's 200-meter breaststroke; Susie Atwood of the Lakewood, Calif. Aquatic Club, 1:06.72 in the women's 100-meter backstroke; and Mel Nash of the Greater Pittsburgh Swim Club, 59.29 in the men's 100 meter backstroke.

Colella had to overcome strong challenges by John Hencken of the Santa Clara Swim Club and world record holder Brian Job to win the men's 200 breaststroke.

Hencken finished second in 2:25.10 after completing the first 100 meters with a split of 1:08.78, ahead of the record pace set by Job when he set the mark in Los Angeles last year. Job, who had one false start, was third at 2:26.04.

Leslie Bryans of the Santa Clara Swim Club was second to Miss Clevenger in the women's 200 breaststroke. Miss Clevenger was the defending champion.

Karen Moe of the Santa Clara Swim Club was second to Miss Daniel in both of her world record performances. After placing second in the morning prelims, Miss Moe almost caught Miss Daniel in the finals before finishing second at 2:18.70.

Miss Daniel had a split of 1:06.1 in her morning world record race. In the finals she moved out with a 1:05.5 in the first 100 meters.

Miss Daniel was a 1968 Olympics finalist in the 100 and 200 butterfly events.

Miss Atwood successfully defended her 1970 100 meter backstroke title and win her second title of the 1971 backstroke won the 200 meter backstroke Wednesday night.

Underdog Mel Nash of the Greater Pittsburgh Swim Club was one of the happiest winners. He started leaping up and down in the water after winning the 100 backstroke. He outdistanced runnerup Charles Campbell, who had a time of 59.40.

The Lakewood Swim Club A Team set an American record of 18:35.52 in the women's 800-meter freestyle relay. The team included Linda Johnson, Linda Kiddie, Roberta Watts and Ann Simmons.

SENIOR JOCKEYS WILL RETURN AT COLUMBUS

Riders include Nebraska racing steward Irv Anderson, Billy Bobk, Jitter Davis, Jim McCumber, Jim Anderson, Leon Hall, Bob Farmer, and Cliff Pierce.

Royals Slip Past Iowa, 7-6

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Royals ended a six-game losing streak Friday night by defeating the Iowa Oaks 7-6 in American Association baseball.

John Sullivan collected three hits and knocked in three runs, including two in the first inning that gave Omaha a 3-0 lead.

Oaks' shortstop Dwaine Anderson, whose errors helped Omaha to three unearned runs in the fifth, hit a triple in the eighth to knock out starter Mike Jackson. Rene Lachemann doubled to pull the Oaks 7-6 but Omaha reliever Aurelio Monteagudo quelled the attack.

Splittorff's Three-Hitter Beats Yanks

By Associated Press

Rookie left-hander Paul Splittorff fired a three-hitter as the Kansas City Royals beat the New York Yankees, 4-0, Friday night for the first time in six meetings.

Splittorff, 7-6, outdueled New York's Stan Bahnsen, 10-10, who was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning after giving up only three hits.

Amos Otis drove in two runs for Kansas City with a single in a two-run third and a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Freddie Patek continued his hot hitting for the Royals with three singles.

In other American League games Detroit dropped Chicago, 4-2 and Minnesota clubbed Cleveland, 8-4. In the National League Chicago blanked Atlanta, 3-0, Cincinnati edged St. Louis, 8-7, and Pittsburgh clobbered Houston, 7-3.

Milwaukee at Baltimore for a twilight doubleheader, San Diego at Montreal, Los Angeles at New York and San Francisco at Philadelphia were all rained out.

Joe Coleman, backed by a three-run, third inning, notched his 14th victory with a five-hitter as the Tigers trimmed the White Sox.

Harmon Killebrew drove in five runs with his 17th and 18th homers of the season, powering the Twins over the Indians.

Killebrew's first homer came in the fifth inning with two men on and lifted the Twins into a 4-3 lead. Rod Carew had walked with two out off loser Steve Dunning, 8-12, and Tony Oliva followed with a single before Killebrew's blast.

His second homer and 505th of his career came in the seventh off reliever Mike Paul. Carew had opened the inning with a single, knocking out Dunning.

Billy Williams tripled across two runs and slammed a solo homer and Mitt Pappas scattered five hits as the troubled Cubs defeated the Braves.

The Cubs bounced back after two successive setbacks by the Cincinnati Reds, spurred by owner Phil Wrigley's scolding that team, play ball and forget publicized friction between some Cub players and Manager Leo Durocher.

Williams settled a pitching duel between Pappas, 16-11, and lanky Ron Reed, now 12-10, with a two-out triple after singles by Pappas and Glenn Beckert in the third inning. Williams slammed homer No. 25 in the sixth.

Jimmy Stewart tied the game with a pinch-hit three-run triple and scored the winning run on Pete Rose's sacrifice fly as the Reds rallied for five runs in the ninth inning to beat the Cardinals.

Andy Messersmith and Lloyd Allen teamed up to blank the Boston Red Sox on four hits as the California Angels made a first inning run stand up for a 1-0 triumph.

Lame-Duck Giants Will Get Taste Of Future Home State

. . . EAGLES HOST NY AT PRINCETON, N.J. TODAY

By Associated Press

New York's lame-duck Giants, who are planning to move to New Jersey no later than 1975, get a taste of their future home state Saturday when they meet Philadelphia in a National Football League exhibition at Princeton, N.J., while South Bend, Ind., home of Notre Dame's collegiate Titans, gets its first taste of pro football.

Notre Dame Stadium, with a capacity of 59,075, will be the scene of a preseason contest between the Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns in Saturday's other afternoon encounter.

Seven other exhibitions will be played Saturday night, including Oakland, 2-1, at Green Bay, 1-2; Detroit, 2-1, at Miami, 0-2-1 in a nationally televised game; Baltimore, 2-2 at Washington, 2-1; New Orleans, 0-3, at San Diego, 1-2; Minnesota, 3-0, at Pittsburgh, 1-1, St. Louis, 1-1, at Cincinnati, 3-0, and San Francisco, 2-0-1, against Denver, 0-2, at Spokane, Wash.

Sunday afternoon, it will be Pueblo, 2-1, at Atlanta, 1-1, and Los Angeles, 2-2, at New England, 1-2.

And Monday night, the New York Jets, 1-2, will be at Kansas City, 3-0, for a nationally televised game.

Dallas and Houston began the exhibition weekend Thursday night, with Dallas winning 28-20.

The Giants, who played 31 years in the Polo Grounds before spending the last 15 years in Yankee Stadium with the baseball Yankees, announced Thursday that their future home will be in a projected 75,000-80,000 seat complex in the Hackensack Meadows in East Rutherford, N.J. Their present lease runs through 1974.

The Giants, winless in three exhibitions so far, received further bad news this week when running back Ron Johnson, last year's National Conference total offense leader, underwent surgery to remove a blood clot from his right thigh. He will miss the remainder of the exhibition season.

Philadelphia, 1-2, will start Rick Arrington at quarterback instead of Pete Liske, out with a strained knee.

Chicago, 1-2, plans to use Jack Concannon at quarterback against Cleveland after Bobby Douglass and Kent Nix shared the job last week in a loss to Minnesota. Concannon missed two games because of a pulled hamstring. The Bears will be without running back Joe Moore, their No. 1 draft choice, sidelined with an injured right ankle.

Oakland again will use young Ken Stabler and 43-year-old George Blanda at quarterback against Green Bay, while Daryle Lamonica continues to nurse a pulled leg muscle. Rookie Scott Hunter from Alabama, who went the route at quarterback for Green Bay last week, might do it again.

Detroit will try and preserve its unblemished record of 7-0 in Florida games when it meets Miami. The Lions have won five games in Miami and two in Tampa. Detroit quarterback Greg Landry might miss the game because of a sprained ankle.

Washington's Larry Brown, the leading rusher in the National Conference in 1970, continues to be hobbled with a knee injury and probably will not play against Baltimore's defending Super Bowl champions. Veteran Earl Morrall and rookie Karl Douglas are expected to again share the Colts' quarterback duties in the absence of injured Johnny Unitas.

Rookie Bobby Scott of Tennessee will open at quarterback for New Orleans in place of No. 1 draft choice Archie Manning against San Diego. Manning suffered a bruised instep bone in last week's game against Kansas City and did not make the trip to the West Coast.

Minnesota has started Gary Cuozzo, Norm Snead and Bob Lee at quarterback in its three victories, and might go with Bill Cappleman against injury-riddled Pittsburgh. The Steelers will be without running back Warren Bankston and safeties Charlie Beatty and Mike Wagner.

It's Jim Hart's turn to quarterback St. Louis this week in the Cardinals' game against unbeaten Cincinnati. Hart went the distance in a 16-14 opening-game victory over Houston, while Pete Beathard handled the club last week. Virgil Carter quarterbacked the Bengals to their third victory last week, but rookie Ken Anderson has returned from military duty and might play against St. Louis.

San Francisco has received standout quarterbacking from John Brodie, last season's Most Valuable Player, and young Steve Spurrier in its first three games, while rookie Vic Washington, who played last year in Canada, has added speed to the running attack. Denver continues to give ex-Packer Don Horn a thorough test at quarterback.

Crowder Upset With Buff Game

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Coach Eddie Crowder expressed displeasure with his offense Friday as the University of Colorado wound up two-a-day football drills.

Crowder said the offensive unit performed sluggishly during the morning's two-hour session, and that rapid improvement would have to be made with the season opener at Louisiana State University just over two weeks away.

Crowder indicated several players would miss Saturday's game-type scrimmage because of injuries. Included are defensive halfback Brian Foster, a senior who has a hand injury, and possibly fullback John Tarver, the team's third leading rusher a year ago, who has been slowed with a pulled groin muscle.

Sooner Gridder DeLoney Returns

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Senior linebacker Bruce DeLoney, one of five players who quit the University of Oklahoma football squad Thursday, returned to the team Friday, coach Chuck Fairbanks announced.

Fairbanks said Thursday Deloney had been suffering pain from operations on both shoulders in the past couple of years. He said he was "very happy" to have DeLoney back.

The other four who quit, all sophomores, were defensive tackles George Davis and Chris West and safetys Mike Ducan and Dewayne Smith.

Scrimmage Set For KU Today

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas wrapped up its two-a-day football practice routine Friday in anticipation of a scrimmage today which, according to coach Don Fambrough, will be "as real as possible."

There will be no kickoffs to protect against injuries. A number of regulars are suffering a variety of nagging minor ailments. One of those Fambrough said will be sidelined is starting quarterback Dan Heck, nursing a charley horse.

Four Pass Tests In Skating Exams

Mustangs Seek Labor Day Foe

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Mustangs football team, whose game Saturday night at Kansas City with the Steers semipro team has been postponed, are looking for an opponent for the Labor Day weekend.

The Mustangs had planned to take a breather over Labor Day, according to general manager Bill Monahan. Their next scheduled game is against Quad-Cities in Omaha.

Enthusiasm High In Cyclone Camp

"The enthusiasm and attitude is the best I have ever seen in all my coaching so I know we will be ready for some real hitting after Saturday," he reported.

Triple Play Aids Gals To Victory

City Employes Assn. of Lincoln pulled off a rare triple play at a crucial point in the game Thursday night to defeat Hy-Gain Electronics, 14-11 in the semifinals of the C-1 Girls City Softball Tournament.

With the bases loaded and none out in the bottom of the seventh inning, shortstop Cindy Petty made a good catch of a fly ball, tagged second for a force out and threw to third baseman Margaret Remenga to retire the side, allowing her team to advance to the finals of the tournament Monday night against the Lincoln telephone & Telegraph Co.

Roberts-Skyline Faces AAA All-Stars Tonight

State AAA softball champion Roberts-Skyline will take on a 14-man all-star team from the other Lincoln AAA teams tonight at 7 in a doubleheader at Ballard Field.

The league's top pitcher, Lefty Sheary of King's Food Host, is expected to face Roberts-Skyline's top hurler, John Jackson, in one to the contests.

K-State Practices On Fundamentals

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas State Wildcats, in a single practice session Friday, devoted most of their time to fundamentals and basic drills, with no hitting.

"I thought the pass offense looked a lot better," coach Vince Gibson said afterward. "Dennis Morrison had a good day at quarterback."

Gibson also had a good word for Terry Brown, 206-pound sophomore, who has taken over the right cornerback spot of the fleet Ron Dickerson, who graduated last spring.

Omaha Beats Rapid City

Williston, N.D. (AP) — The five-hit pitching of Larry Wetterberg carried Omaha, Neb. to a 5-1 victory over Rapid City S.D., in an elimination battle Friday at the Region Six American Legion baseball tournament.

Wetterberg singled home the final run in a three-run Omaha second inning as the gateways picked up the only tallies they needed. Steve Hultquist singled home a fifth-inning run and Kim Hawkins, on with his third single, scored on a seventh-inning balk to make it 5-0.

Wetterberg lost his shutout in the eighth frame after issuing his only two bases on balls. Bob Hatch's third single of the game loaded the bases and the run scored on a fielder's choice.

Peru's Acting AD Post To Pelisek

Peru — Joe Pelisek, head football coach at Peru State College since 1969, has been named acting head of the department of health and physical education and acting athletic director, according to Dr. Neal S. Gomon, president of Peru State.

Pelisek, who succeeded Dr. Ervin Pitts as head football coach, came to Peru State in 1965 after eight years of coaching at Monmouth (Ill.) College. He will also be head golf coach.

Davis Wins Handicap

Vandalia, Ohio (AP) — A Lorton, Va., engineer who was visiting the Grand American Trapshooting Tournament for the first time became the sport's top prize winner Friday by winning the Grand American Handicap.

But eight other trapshooters of the 3,080 competitors also put that score on the board to set up the biggest shootoff in the history of the Grand American Handicap.

Davis started out by missing his first target in the shootoff. But he then ran 24 straight to continue in a tie with Don Brown of Macon, Ill., shooting from 22½ yards, and Joseph Cudia, Roseville, Mich., shooting from 21½.

In the second round of the shootoff, Davis again broke 24 to take the championship, with Brown taking second and Cudia third.

The other shooters with scores of 98 finished in this order after the shootoff: George Powers, Mount Sterling, Ohio, fourth; Ken Hildebrand, Dayton, fifth; Dick Watkins, Lima, Ohio, sixth; Joseph Monferdini, Gardner, Ill. seventh; Lloyd Martin, Kansas City, Kan., eighth, and John Bull, Fort Wayne, Ind., ninth.

Davis has been shooting registered targets for just a little over a year. His best previous score was a 97 this summer in the Maryland State Shoot.

The women tied for the title in that division. They were Bonnie Byrne, Flint, Mich., and Leona Powers, Mount Sterling, Ohio, both with scores of 97.

The veterans title went to D. M. Long, Englewood, Ohio, with a 95.

The big trapshooting tournament closes Saturday with the Clay Target Doubles and the Vandalia Open Handicap.

Campbell, Deeter Win LCC Honors

A luncheon for the girls and their mothers will be held noon today at LCC.

Elmsford, N.Y. (AP)— Jim Turnesa, 57, second youngest of seven golfing brothers and former Professional Golfers Association champion, died of lung cancer early Friday. He had been ill for several months.

A bachelor, Turnesa was one of the game's leading tournament players in the era that produced such stars as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Sam Snead.

His youngest brother, Willie, never turned professional but distinguished himself as an amateur, winning the U.S. Amateur twice and the British Amateur. The oldest brother, Frank, died several years ago.

The other four brothers — Doug, Mike, Phil and Joe —all became leading teaching professionals.

Lame-Duck Giants Will Get Taste Of Future Home State

By Associated Press

New York's lame-duck Giants, who are planning to move to New Jersey no later than 1975, get a taste of their future home state Saturday when they meet Philadelphia in a National Football League exhibition at Princeton, N.J., while South Bend, Ind., home of Notre Dame's collegiate Titans, gets its first taste of pro football.

Notre Dame Stadium, with a capacity of 59,075, will be the scene of a preseason contest between the Chicago Bears and Cleveland Browns in Saturday's other afternoon encounter.

Seven other exhibitions will be played Saturday night, including Oakland, 2-1, at Green Bay, 1-2; Detroit, 2-1, at Miami, 0-2-1 in a nationally televised game; Baltimore, 2-2 at Washington, 2-1; New Orleans, 0-3, at San Diego, 1-2; Minnesota, 3-0, at Pittsburgh, 1-1, St. Louis, 1-1, at Cincinnati, 3-0, and San Francisco, 2-0-1, against Denver, 0-2, at Spokane, Wash.

Sunday afternoon, it will be Pueblo, 2-1, at Atlanta, 1-1, and Los Angeles, 2-2, at New England, 1-2.

And Monday night, the New York Jets, 1-2, will be at Kansas City, 3-0, for a nationally televised game.

Dallas and Houston began the exhibition weekend Thursday night, with Dallas winning 28-20.

The Giants, who played 31 years in the Polo Grounds before spending the last 15 years in Yankee Stadium with the baseball Yankees, announced Thursday that their future home will be in a projected 75,000-80,000 seat complex in the Hackensack Meadows in East Rutherford, N.J. Their present lease runs through 1974.

The Giants, winless in three exhibitions so far, received further bad news this week when running back Ron Johnson, last year's National Conference total offense leader, underwent surgery to remove a blood clot from his right thigh. He will miss the remainder of the exhibition season.

Philadelphia, 1-2, will start Rick Arrington at quarterback instead of Pete Liske, out with a strained knee.

Chicago, 1-2, plans to use Jack Concannon at quarterback against Cleveland after Bobby Douglass and Kent Nix shared the job last week in a loss to Minnesota. Concannon missed two games because of a pulled hamstring. The Bears will be without running back Joe Moore, their No. 1 draft choice, sidelined with an injured right ankle.

Oakland again will use young Ken Stabler and 43-year-old George Blanda at quarterback against Green Bay, while Daryle Lamonica continues to nurse a pulled leg muscle. Rookie Scott Hunter from Alabama, who went the route at quarterback for Green Bay last week, might do it again.

Detroit will try and preserve its unblemished record of 7-0 in Florida games when it meets Miami. The Lions have won five games in Miami and two in Tampa. Detroit quarterback Greg Landry might miss the game because of a sprained ankle.

Washington's Larry Brown, the leading rusher in the National Conference in 1970, continues to be hobbled with a knee injury and probably will not play against Baltimore's defending Super Bowl champions. Veteran Earl Morrall and rookie Karl Douglas are expected to again share the Colts' quarterback duties in the absence of injured Johnny Unitas.

Rookie Bobby Scott of Tennessee will open at quarterback for New Orleans in place of No. 1 draft choice Archie Manning against San Diego. Manning suffered a bruised instep bone in last week's game against Kansas City and did not make the trip to the West Coast.

Minnesota has started Gary Cuozzo, Norm Snead and Bob Lee at quarterback in its three victories, and might go with Bill Cappleman against injury-riddled Pittsburgh. The Steelers will be without running back Warren Bankston and safeties Charlie Beatty and Mike Wagner.

It's Jim Hart's turn to quarterback St. Louis this week in the Cardinals' game against unbeaten Cincinnati. Hart went the distance in a 16-14 opening-game victory over Houston, while Pete Beathard handled the club last week. Virgil Carter quarterbacked the Bengals to their third victory last week, but rookie Ken Anderson has returned from military duty and might play against St. Louis.

San Francisco has received standout quarterbacking from John Brodie, last season's Most Valuable Player, and young Steve Spurrier in its first three games, while rookie Vic Washington, who played last year in Canada, has added speed to the running attack. Denver continues to give ex-Packer Don Horn a thorough test at quarterback.

Crowder Upset With Buff Game

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Coach Eddie Crowder expressed displeasure with his offense Friday as the University of Colorado wound up two-a-day football drills.

Crowder said the offensive unit performed sluggishly during the morning's two-hour session, and that rapid improvement would have to be made with the season opener at Louisiana State University just over two weeks away.

Crowder indicated several players would miss Saturday's game-type scrimmage because of injuries. Included are defensive halfback Brian Foster, a senior who has a hand injury, and possibly fullback John Tarver, the team's third leading rusher a year ago, who has been slowed with a pulled groin muscle.

Sooner Gridder DeLoney Returns

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Senior linebacker Bruce DeLoney, one of five players who quit the University of Oklahoma football squad Thursday, returned to the team Friday, coach Chuck Fairbanks announced.

Fairbanks said Thursday Deloney had been suffering pain from operations on both shoulders in the past couple of years. He said he was "very happy" to have DeLoney back.

The other four who quit, all sophomores, were defensive tackles George Davis and Chris West and safetys Mike Ducan and Dewayne Smith.

Scrimmage Set For KU Today

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Kansas wrapped up its two-a-day football practice routine Friday in anticipation of a scrimmage today which, according to coach Don Fambrough, will be "as real as possible."

There will be no kickoffs to protect against injuries. A number of regulars are suffering a variety of nagging minor ailments. One of those Fambrough said will be sidelined is starting quarterback Dan Heck, nursing a charley horse.

Four Pass Tests In Skating Exams

Mustangs Seek Labor Day Foe

Omaha (AP) — The Omaha Mustangs football team, whose game Saturday night at Kansas City with the Steers semipro team has been postponed, are looking for an opponent for the Labor Day weekend.

The Mustangs had planned to take a breather over Labor Day, according to general manager Bill Monahan. Their next scheduled game is against Quad-Cities in Omaha.

Enthusiasm High In Cyclone Camp

"The enthusiasm and attitude is the best I have ever seen in all my coaching so I know we will be ready for some real hitting after Saturday," he reported.

LCC's Caddy Meet Captured By Carder

Vic Carder won the Lincoln Country Club's Caddies Tournament by defeating Hector Sanchez 6 & 5. Dale Mahlman took the first flight over Greg Weise, also by a score of 6 & 5.

'Double Pinochle'

Gayle Roper rolled a "double pinochle" split Friday night at Plaza Bowl successfully downs the No. 4, 6, 7 and 10 pins.

Triple Play Aids Gals To Victory

City Employes Assn. of Lincoln pulled off a rare triple play at a crucial point in the game Thursday night to defeat Hy-Gain Electronics, 14-11 in the semifinals of the C-1 Girls City Softball Tournament.

With the bases loaded and none out in the bottom of the seventh inning, shortstop Cindy Petty made a good catch of a fly ball, tagged second for a force out and threw to third baseman Margaret Remenga to retire the side, allowing her team to advance to the finals of the tournament Monday night against the Lincoln telephone & Telegraph Co.

Roberts-Skyline Faces AAA All-Stars Tonight

State AAA softball champion Roberts-Skyline will take on a 14-man all-star team from the other Lincoln AAA teams tonight at 7 in a doubleheader at Ballard Field.

The league's top pitcher, Lefty Sheary of King's Food Host, is expected to face Roberts-Skyline's top hurler, John Jackson, in one to the contests.

K-State Practices On Fundamentals

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — The Kansas State Wildcats, in a single practice session Friday, devoted most of their time to fundamentals and basic drills, with no hitting.

"I thought the pass offense looked a lot better," coach Vince Gibson said afterward. "Dennis Morrison had a good day at quarterback."

Gibson also had a good word for Terry Brown, 206-pound sophomore, who has taken over the right cornerback spot of the fleet Ron Dickerson, who graduated last spring.

Omaha Beats Rapid City

Williston, N.D. (AP) — The five-hit pitching of Larry Wetterberg carried Omaha, Neb. to a 5-1 victory over Rapid City S.D., in an elimination battle Friday at the Region Six American Legion baseball tournament.

Wetterberg singled home the final run in a three-run Omaha second inning as the gateways picked up the only tallies they needed. Steve Hultquist singled home a fifth-inning run and Kim Hawkins, on with his third single, scored on a seventh-inning balk to make it 5-0.

Wetterberg lost his shutout in the eighth frame after issuing his only two bases on balls. Bob Hatch's third single of the game loaded the bases and the run scored on a fielder's choice.

Peru's Acting AD Post To Pelisek

Peru — Joe Pelisek, head football coach at Peru State College since 1969, has been named acting head of the department of health and physical education and acting athletic director, according to Dr. Neal S. Gomon, president of Peru State.

Pelisek, who succeeded Dr. Ervin Pitts as head football coach, came to Peru State in 1965 after eight years of coaching at Monmouth (Ill.) College. He will also be head golf coach.

Davis Wins Handicap

Vandalia, Ohio (AP) — A Lorton, Va., engineer who was visiting the Grand American Trapshooting Tournament for the first time became the sport's top prize winner Friday by winning the Grand American Handicap.

But eight other trapshooters of the 3,080 competitors also put that score on the board to set up the biggest shootoff in the history of the Grand American Handicap.

Davis started out by missing his first target in the shootoff. But he then ran 24 straight to continue in a tie with Don Brown of Macon, Ill., shooting from 22½ yards, and Joseph Cudia, Roseville, Mich., shooting from 21½.

In the second round of the shootoff, Davis again broke 24 to take the championship, with Brown taking second and Cudia third.

The other shooters with scores of 98 finished in this order after the shootoff: George Powers, Mount Sterling, Ohio, fourth; Ken Hildebrand, Dayton, fifth; Dick Watkins, Lima, Ohio, sixth; Joseph Monferdini, Gardner, Ill. seventh; Lloyd Martin, Kansas City, Kan., eighth, and John Bull, Fort Wayne, Ind., ninth.

Davis has been shooting registered targets for just a little over a year. His best previous score was a 97 this summer in the Maryland State Shoot.

The women tied for the title in that division. They were Bonnie Byrne, Flint, Mich., and Leona Powers, Mount Sterling, Ohio, both with scores of 97.

The veterans title went to D. M. Long, Englewood, Ohio, with a 95.

The big trapshooting tournament closes Saturday with the Clay Target Doubles and the Vandalia Open Handicap.

Jim Turnesa Dies Of Lung Cancer

Elmsford, N.Y. (AP)— Jim Turnesa, 57, second youngest of seven golfing brothers and former Professional Golfers Association champion, died of lung cancer early Friday. He had been ill for several months.

A bachelor, Turnesa was one of the game's leading tournament players in the era that produced such stars as Ben Hogan, Byron Nelson, Jimmy Demaret and Sam Snead.

His youngest brother, Willie, never turned professional but distinguished himself as an amateur, winning the U.S. Amateur twice and the British Amateur. The oldest brother, Frank, died several years ago.

The other four brothers — Doug, Mike, Phil and Joe —all became leading teaching professionals.

Educators Await Freeze Clarification

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Educators were holding to a wait-and-see stance Friday on the heels of the latest attempt by the federal Cost of Living Council to clarify the effect of the wage freeze on teachers and other employes of educational institutions.

"In general we are still waiting for more interpretation," said Robert Den Hartog, associate superintendent for business affairs for the Lincoln Public Schools.

"It's very nebulous," agreed Glenn Smith, director of budget and systems planning for the University of Nebraska.

Nothing Official

"We don't have anything official," The Star was told by Executive Secretary John Lynch of the Nebraska State Education Association.

"We're not telling our people anything for sure until we know for sure," Lynch added.

The latest ruling by the Cost of Living Council said that if at least one teacher had actually worked under a new system-wide contract before Aug. 15, then all other teachers covered by the same contract will also be eligible for the salary hikes when they start their fall responsibilities.

The same would be true, the council said, for other classes of employes, such as clerical personnel or maintenance workers. The ruling also applies to college teachers.

At the same time, however, the council said persons holding individual contracts would be eligible for the raise only if they went to work before Aug. 15 or if they "in fact accrued earnings" under the new contract "although he or she may not have actually performed any work during that period."

Legal Question

It appears "we're down to a legal question as to whether we have a master contract or an individual contract," said Den Hartog.

He noted that public school employes reach "master agreements," on salary increases, but he said it could be argued that teachers have "individual contracts."

Den Hartog said the schools will continue the effort "to comply with the law" and at the same time "give each employe what he is legally entitled to"

He noted that all groups of employes will be represented on a new committee formed by the Board of Education. The committee will deal with questions raised by the freeze.

"All employes are going to be involved," he said.

Lynch said the state association and its attorneys are waiting to see the actual wording of the latest ruling until it suggests action for any local association in the state.

Smith noted that university employes are not covered under a "blanket contract," but he said beyond that it's difficult to say what the new ruling might mean for faculty members who hold contracts that start with the academic year.

He said, however, that it appeared that fewer than 1,000 employes university-wide may be affected, even if the freeze is applied, since most employes hold 12-month contracts that began with the start of the fiscal year July 1.

Those on one-year contracts from that date, he noted, would include most if not all employes at the Medical Center in Omaha, plus non-professional personnel such as secretaries and custodians at other campuses.

Administrators, deans and department chairmen are paid on a 12-month contract, he said, as are faculty members in agriculture and dentistry.

Beatrice Man Is Fined For Embezzlement

Former Beatrice banker Keith E. Roberts has been placed on probation for two years and fined $1,000 by the Federal District Court on two counts of embezzlement from the Beatrice State Bank.

Roberts, 49, the bank's former executive vice president, was convicted on a nolo contendere plea of two counts of embezzling $996.38 from the bank.

Two other counts were dismissed by the government. The embezzlements occurred last year

Judge Warren Urbom, who pronounced sentence Thursday, was advised that Roberts had sold his home in Beatrice and may move to another community

Ondrak Death Is Of Respiratory Failure–Autopsy

The death of Penal Complex inmate Reggie Ondrak, who was found dead in his cell Wednesday, was from "accute respiratory and circulatory failure" according to a preliminary autopsy report, the Lancaster County Attorney's office said Friday.

Chief Deputy William Blue said no violence is indicated by the coroner's physician, but results of chemical tests are not yet available.

Water Board To Meet

The board of directors of rural Water District No 1 of Lancaster County will hold its regular meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at 825 J Street in Lincoln.

Educators Await Freeze Clarification

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

Educators were holding to a wait-and-see stance Friday on the heels of the latest attempt by the federal Cost of Living Council to clarify the effect of the wage freeze on teachers and other employes of educational institutions.

"In general we are still waiting for more interpretation," said Robert Den Hartog, associate superintendent for business affairs for the Lincoln Public Schools.

"It's very nebulous," agreed Glenn Smith, director of budget and systems planning for the University of Nebraska.

Nothing Official

"We don't have anything official," The Star was told by Executive Secretary John Lynch of the Nebraska State Education Association.

"We're not telling our people anything for sure until we know for sure," Lynch added.

The latest ruling by the Cost of Living Council said that if at least one teacher had actually worked under a new system-wide contract before Aug. 15, then all other teachers covered by the same contract will also be eligible for the salary hikes when they start their fall responsibilities.

The same would be true, the council said, for other classes of employes, such as clerical personnel or maintenance workers. The ruling also applies to college teachers.

At the same time, however, the council said persons holding individual contracts would be eligible for the raise only if they went to work before Aug. 15 or if they "in fact accrued earnings" under the new contract "although he or she may not have actually performed any work during that period."

Legal Question

It appears "we're down to a legal question as to whether we have a master contract or an individual contract," said Den Hartog.

He noted that public school employes reach "master agreements," on salary increases, but he said it could be argued that teachers have "individual contracts."

Den Hartog said the schools will continue the effort "to comply with the law" and at the same time "give each employe what he is legally entitled to."

He noted that all groups of employes will be represented on a new committee formed by the Board of Education. The committee will deal with questions raised by the freeze.

"All employes are going to be involved," he said.

Lynch said the state association and its attorneys are waiting to see the actual wording of the latest ruling until it suggests action for any local association in the state.

Smith noted that university employes are not covered under a "blanket contract," but he said beyond that it's difficult to say what the new ruling might mean for faculty members who hold contracts that start with the academic year.

He said, however, that it appeared that fewer than 1,000 employes university-wide may be affected, even if the freeze is applied, since most employes hold 12-month contracts that began with the start of the fiscal year July 1.

Those on one-year contracts from that date, he noted, would include most if not all employes at the Medical Center in Omaha, plus non-professional personnel such as secretaries and custodians at other campuses.

Administrators, deans and department chairmen are paid on a 12-month contract, he said, as are faculty members in agriculture and dentistry.

Beatrice Man Is Fined For Embezzlement

Former Beatrice banker Keith E. Roberts has been placed on probation for two years and fined $1,000 by the Federal District Court on two counts of embezzlement from the Beatrice State Bank.

Roberts, 49, the bank's former executive vice president, was convicted on a nolo contendere plea of two counts of embezzling $996.38 from the bank.

Two other counts were dismissed by the government. The embezzlements occurred last year.

Judge Warren Urbom, who pronounced sentence Thursday, was advised that Roberts had sold his home in Beatrice and may move to another community.

Professor Crash-Lands Amateur-Built Plane

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Keith N. Newhouse, 47, of 500 Mulder Drive, escaped injury except for a minor scratch on his leg.

The tiny, aluminum plane flipped over, when the landing gear collapsed in the powerless landing, but Newhouse extricated himself from the open-cockpit craft and walked to the nearby Lyle Hall farmhouse to notify his wife and airport authorities.

'Perfectly Calm'

"He was perfectly calm," said Hall. "He said his engine had quit and he had to land."

Although the plane was upside down, Hall said Newhouse related he was able to "unbuckle his safety belt and get out of the cockpit by pushing on the ground with his hands and lifting the plane slightly."

He said he drained the gas from the Volkswagen engine before leaving the scene.

Newhouse was picked up at the farmhouse by his wife, Betty, before officials arrived at the scene.

Mrs. Newhouse said her husband and Robert Peters, also a NU mechanical engineering professor, had spent nearly two years constructing the small plane in the basement of the mechanical engineering building.

Flown 16 Hours

"Mostly he built it just to see if he could," she said, estimating the plane had been flown 16 to 20 hours. (It was certified as airworthy in August, 1970, according to an FAA inspector.)

She said her husband doesn't plan to repair the plane because there was "too much damage." damage."

She said both her husband, who soloed when a teenager and recently renewed his private pilot license, and Peters, a former Navy pilot, had flown the plane.

It was the second mishap for the small plane. "The plane flipped when the front wheel collapsed in a demonstration landing at Arrow Airport this spring," she said. "The seatbelt broke and Keith was hurt worse then."

Mrs. Newhouse said she's glad this was the "last flight" of the plane even though it probably represents about $1,000 worth of materials and "many, many hours of work."

"I'm glad he won't fly it any more," she said. "Keith and his father (also a licensed pilot) have repeatedly told me you can't have a fatal accident in a small plane liket his one, but I'm glad it won't be flown anymore."

Broken Bow Grandmother Fills Her Time Making Fine Furniture

By PAT HALL
For The Associated Press

Broken Bow (AP) — After building her first set of cabinets with an old hand saw, plow plane, square and hammer, Mrs. Alwilda Rodd, 57, declares, "My husband, Nuel, decided I needed a new power saw, if I was gonna be a carpenter."

Now, nearly 20 years later, the Broken Bow grandmother is considered one of the finest cabinet and furniture makers in these parts. She has a home full of handmade pieces to prove that contention.

"When 'daddy' (her husband) bought me that saw, I just discovered I had a knack for makin' things, and I've been busy at it ever since," she said.

Since her husband's death in 1968, Mrs. Rodd has devoted most of her time to the craft. At the moment, she is busy custom-building all the cabinets in a new home under construction here.

Moreover, carpentry has provided more than simply an occupation, she said.

"I had a nervous breakdown when I was 38. The doctor said I tried to take too much responsibility on myself," she said. "So making cabinets and furniture helps to keep me occupied."

As for her knack for carpentry, she quickly admits she has no idea where it came from. She and her brother, she says, were the only two of three children in her family who were handy with carpenter's tools, or even had an interest in it. "Not even dad," was interested in carpentry, she said. "However, my grandfather on my mother's side was a good carpenter."

Until his death, she and her husband farmed three miles north of here. Two sons live out of state.

"Hard work has always been part of my life," she said. "On the farm, Nuel had his tractors and I had mine."

Her home contains such pieces of furniture as a large, overstuffed chair, with matching footstool, a desk, tables, china cabinet and a complete bedroom outfit.

Mrs. Rodd, who acquired the nickname "Billy" after teachers in grade school found Alwilda difficult to pronounce, also has "painted four houses, panelled several rooms and remodeled one home."

Her plans for the future:

Tornado Picks Up Car

Muskogee, Okla. (UPI) — A Tulsa, Okla., couple Friday said a tornado late Thursday lifted their car from the eastbound lane of the Muskogee Turnpike and set it down in the westbound lane. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Vaughn said there was slight damage to the side of the car, but no one was hurt, and they continued their journey.

Ex-Falls Citian, Twin Sons Die In Oregon Crash

Falls City — Mrs. Robert Box, 48, and her 10-year-old twin sons, Ronnie and Randy, were killed Tuesday in a car-log truck accident at Corvalis, Ore., according to word received here by relatives.

Mrs. Box, the former Armilda Fritz, was a native of Falls City. She had resided in Corvalis for the past few years, since shortly after the death of her husband.

Surviving Mrs. Box are two other sons, Mike, 19, and Danny, 16, both at home; two brothers and three sisters, including Mrs. Orville Schatz of Falls City.

Settlement Made In Suit Against Wild West Show

Holland, Dreves and Reilly, Inc., Omaha, advertising agency for the show, filed the suit in District Court over unpaid accounts.

"A satisfactory arrangement has been mutually agreed upon and no further problems are anticipated," the advertising firm said in announcing the settlement. The firm said the disagreement was caused "through misunderstandings," but there was no elaboration.

Montie Montana Jr., the show producer, said that due to the distance between North Platte and his company's main offices in California, problems in bill paying are inevitable.

The show closes here Sunday.

Batchelder Might Run For Regent

Omaha (AP) — Former state Sen. Clifton B. Batchelder of Omaha, who also sought the governorship in 1970, says he has thought about running for the Nebraska Board of Regents next year.

Batchelder, a Republican, lives in the regent district represented by Kermit Hansen, who will be up for re-election next year.

Farm Bureau Is To Host Jaycees

Lancaster County Farm Bureau families are playing host to Lincoln Jaycees and their families in a combination on-the-farm visit and in-the-city picnic Saturday.

Jaycee families are visiting the farms to learn about crops, livestock and farm equipment. Both groups will participate in a picnic at Van Dorn park in Lincoln featuring barbecued pork and prime rib of beef Saturday evening.

Woman Decries Sexism In Methodist Curricula

ELLEN KIRBY

Mrs. Kirby, a 26-year-old Brooklyn native, is one of 250 women in Lincoln this week and next for the national seminar of the United Methodist Board of Missions Women's Division.

Last year, she helped organize a task force on women's liberation for the Methodist women's division. The task force, she said, was assigned the responsibility of studying sexual stereotypes in church school curricula.

Group Shaken

"What we were doing was researching a hunch that the church plays a strong role in keeping women in their places," she said.

The task force picked their curricula at random, she noted. The first examined was a nursery school curriculum.

Mrs. Kirby explained that almost all United Methodist churches throughout the country use the same church school texts published in Nashville, Tenn.

"In the books we examined we found constant examples of little girls being portrayed as passive, weak, and worst of all, continually said," she noted.

Examples 'Throughout'

"We found things like 'Johnny put his collection in the basket by himself, but Suzy needed help' all throughout the book. Maybe one example like that would've been okay, but they were all throughout."

Mrs. Kirby said the task force confronted the New York Conference of the United Methodist Church with the results of their study. In June, that conference made a recommendation calling for re-evaluation of all curricula used in the church.

"And we're finding other denominations are taking heed and doing the same thing," she said.

Mrs. Kirby, who received her master's degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York City, said the curriculum evaluation is long overdue.

Call For Group Action Given By Negro Women's Leader

Emphasizing that people are saying that if decisions have to be made they want to have a hand in influencing those decisions, Dorothy Height said "we must look at the power relations of whole groups of people," not the one-to-one relations.

Freshly arrived from Ghana last Sunday, Mrs. Height, the president of the National Council of Negro Women and a member of the general board of the National Council of Churches, was speaking before about 200 women gathered at the Nebraska Center Friday night for a national seminar of the Women's Division of the United Methodist Board of Missions.

She said "change is constant" and that three groups have been pressing for a change: "the poor, the young and the black and brown in our society."

Advocating confrontation as a way of gaining change, but not violent confrontation, she said "people for years and years have considered it their lives . . ." but now "have discovered that they could by confrontation demand a hearing . . ."

Mrs. Height said "the method has to be in some way related to the intensity of the problem", and that confrontation is a "direct message rather than waiting for things to work themselves out."

But one of the things often overlooked by confrontations is that "we are so concerned with problem solving that we do not work at the board task of changing the system."

"One of our problems is our tendency to take things personally," she commented of women.

The nine-day seminar will continue until Tuesday, with an arts festival Saturday, visits to local churches Sunday and ending with a finalization of recommendations and summary on Tuesday.

Ancient Coins Found

Moscow (UPI) — Coins dating back to the reign of Peter the Great, 1682-1725, were uncovered in a field near Novgorod, the newspaper Trud said Friday. Trud said boys dug up a the coins after spotting a few coins in a field.

Kucera Suing Nevin Drug Co.

A $20,000 personal injury suit was filed Friday in Lancaster District Court against Frank Kucera of Lincoln against the Nevin Drug Company and Donald V. Nevin, both of Lincoln.

Kucera alleges he suffered a gangrenous infection and permanent injury from a solution purchased from the defendant in August, 1967, and represented as "five per cent camphor in phenol."

He alleges the defendant was either negligent in preparing and labeling the solution or, alternatively, warranted the preparation was unadulterated and incorrectly labeled.

Highway Group Asks U.S. 83 Improvements

Members of the Highway 83 Association Friday asked the Nebraska Highway Advisory Commission to improve stretches of U.S. 83 which cross Nebraska.

Members of the association from Nebraska, Kansas and South Dakota appeared before the commision to contend that some stretches of the highway in Nebraska are among the most difficult along the entire cross-country freeway and requested improvements.

The highway runs from Canada to the gulf of Mexico and Jim Suiter of McCook, the secretary-treasurer of the association, said some Nebraska sections are among the most hazardous on the highway.

Parts of the highway singled out by the association include an area north of Stapleton and sections north and south of Thedford.

All of U.S. 83 is designated as a general corridor for a state expressway, a two-lane road which could be expanded to a four-lane state freeway similar to the interstate highways.

Commission Chairman Thane Davis told the group that upgrading of U.S. 83 to a four-lane freeway "is a long way off."

According to Davis, current traffic on the highway is less than 500 vehicles per day in some parts and he said general guidelines call for at least 5,000 vehicles per day before a divided four-lane freeway is justified.

Professor Crash-Lands Amateur-Built Plane

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Keith N. Newhouse, 47, of 500 Mulder Drive, escaped injury except for a minor scratch on his leg.

The tiny, aluminum plane flipped over, when the landing gear collapsed in the powerless landing, but Newhouse extricated himself from the open-cockpit craft and walked to the nearby Lyle Hall farmhouse to notify his wife and airport authorities.

'Perfectly Calm'

"He was perfectly calm," said Hall. "He said his engine had quit and he had to land."

Although the plane was upside down, Hall said Newhouse related he was able to "unbuckle his safety belt and get out of the cockpit by pushing on the ground with his hands and lifting the plane slightly."

He said he drained the gas from the Volkswagen engine before leaving the scene.

Newhouse was picked up at the farmhouse by his wife, Betty, before officials arrived at the scene.

Mrs. Newhouse said her husband and Robert Peters, also a NU mechanical engineering professor, had spent nearly two years constructing the small plane in the basement of the mechanical engineering building.

Flown 16 Hours

"Mostly he built it just to see if he could," she said, estimating the plane had been flown 16 to 20 hours. (It was certified as airworthy in August, 1970, according to an FAA inspector.)

She said her husband doesn't plan to repair the plane because there was "too much damage." damage."

She said both her husband, who soloed when a teenager and recently renewed his private pilot license, and Peters, a former Navy pilot, had flown the plane.

It was the second mishap for the small plane. "The plane flipped when the front wheel collapsed in a demonstration landing at Arrow Airport this spring," she said. "The seatbelt broke and Keith was hurt worse then."

Mrs. Newhouse said she's glad this was the "last flight" of the plane even though it probably represents about $1,000 worth of materials and "many, many hours of work."

"I'm glad he won't fly it any more," she said. "Keith and his father (also a licensed pilot) have repeatedly told me you can't have a fatal accident in a small plane liket his one, but I'm glad it won't be flown anymore."

Ex-Falls Citian, Twin Sons Die In Oregon Crash

Falls City — Mrs. Robert Box, 48, and her 10-year-old twin sons, Ronnie and Randy, were killed Tuesday in a car-log truck accident at Corvalis, Ore., according to word received here by relatives.

Mrs. Box, the former Armilda Fritz, was a native of Falls City. She had resided in Corvalis for the past few years, since shortly after the death of her husband.

Surviving Mrs. Box are two other sons, Mike, 19, and Danny, 16, both at home; two brothers and three sisters, including Mrs. Orville Schatz of Falls City.

Settlement Made In Suit Against Wild West Show

Holland, Dreves and Reilly, Inc., Omaha, advertising agency for the show, filed the suit in District Court over unpaid accounts.

"A satisfactory arrangement has been mutually agreed upon and no further problems are anticipated," the advertising firm said in announcing the settlement. The firm said the disagreement was caused "through misunderstandings," but there was no elaboration.

Montie Montana Jr., the show producer, said that due to the distance between North Platte and his company's main offices in California, problems in bill paying are inevitable.

The show closes here Sunday.

Batchelder Might Run For Regent

Omaha (AP) — Former state Sen. Clifton B. Batchelder of Omaha, who also sought the governorship in 1970, says he has thought about running for the Nebraska Board of Regents next year.

Batchelder, a Republican, lives in the regent district represented by Kermit Hansen, who will be up for re-election next year.

Farm Bureau Is To Host Jaycees

Lancaster County Farm Bureau families are playing host to Lincoln Jaycees and their families in a combination on-the-farm visit and in-the-city picnic Saturday.

Jaycee families are visiting the farms to learn about crops, livestock and farm equipment. Both groups will participate in a picnic at Van Dorn park in Lincoln featuring barbecued pork and prime rib of beef Saturday evening.

Woman Decries Sexism In Methodist Curricula

ELLEN KIRBY

Last year, she helped organize a task force on women's liberation for the Methodist women's division. The task force, she said, was assigned the responsibility of studying sexual stereotypes in church school curricula.

Group Shaken

"What we were doing was researching a hunch that the church plays a strong role in keeping women in their places," she said.

The task force picked their curricula at random, she noted. The first examined was a nursery school curriculum.

Mrs. Kirby explained that almost all United Methodist churches throughout the country use the same church school texts published in Nashville, Tenn.

"In the books we examined we found constant examples of little girls being portrayed as passive, weak, and worst of all, continually said," she noted.

Examples 'Throughout'

"We found things like 'Johnny put his collection in the basket by himself, but Suzy needed help' all throughout the book. Maybe one example like that would've been okay, but they were all throughout."

Mrs. Kirby said the task force confronted the New York Conference of the United Methodist Church with the results of their study. In June, that conference made a recommendation calling for re-evaluation of all curricula used in the church.

"And we're finding other denominations are taking heed and doing the same thing," she said.

Mrs. Kirby, who received her master's degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York City, said the curriculum evaluation is long overdue.

For The Associated Press

Broken Bow (AP) — After building her first set of cabinets with an old hand saw, plow plane, square and hammer, Mrs. Alwilda Rodd, 57, declares, "My husband, Nuel, decided I needed a new power saw, if I was gonna be a carpenter."

Now, nearly 20 years later, the Broken Bow grandmother is considered one of the finest cabinet and furniture makers in these parts. She has a home full of handmade pieces to prove that contention.

"When 'daddy' (her husband) bought me that saw, I just discovered I had a knack for makin' things, and I've been busy at it ever since," she said.

Since her husband's death in 1968, Mrs. Rodd has devoted most of her time to the craft. At the moment, she is busy custom-building all the cabinets in a new home under construction here.

Moreover, carpentry has provided more than simply an occupation, she said.

"I had a nervous breakdown when I was 38. The doctor said I tried to take too much responsibility on myself," she said. "So making cabinets and furniture helps to keep me occupied."

As for her knack for carpentry, she quickly admits she has no idea where it came from. She and her brother, she says, were the only two of three children in her family who were handy with carpenter's tools, or even had an interest in it. "Not even dad," was interested in carpentry, she said. "However, my grandfather on my mother's side was a good carpenter."

Until his death, she and her husband farmed three miles north of here. Two sons live out of state.

"Hard work has always been part of my life," she said. "On the farm, Nuel had his tractors and I had mine."

Her home contains such pieces of furniture as a large, overstuffed chair, with matching footstool, a desk, tables, china cabinet and a complete bedroom outfit.

Mrs. Rodd, who acquired the nickname "Billy" after teachers in grade school found Alwilda difficult to pronounce, also has "painted four houses, panelled several rooms and remodeled one home."

Her plans for the future:

Tornado Picks Up Car

Muskogee, Okla. (UPI) — A Tulsa, Okla., couple Friday said a tornado late Thursday lifted their car from the eastbound lane of the Muskogee Turnpike and set it down in the westbound lane. Mr. and Mrs. Warren Vaughn said there was slight damage to the side of the car, but no one was hurt, and they continued their journey.

Stocks Higher In Slow Trade

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 2.05 to 908.15. Earlier it was up more than 3½ points.

Brokers said the market was experiencing some mild profit taking which held the market back despite some encouraging news. They said this was normal in the light of the strong rally gains of the past two weeks.

"The market got some good news because Tokyo finally capitulated and decided to float the yen," said Robert Johnson, ananlyst with Paine, Webber, Jackson of Curtis.

"The implication is they will revalue the yen, and that's a good sign economically," he explained. "President Nixon said when our foreign currencies got in line with the dollar, and he was especially referring to the yen, he would remove the 10% import surcharge."

Other analysts noted it also was encouraging that the government reported its index of leading economic indicators rose last month after declining in June.

There were 813 advances and 550 declines out of 1,664 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 53 new yearly highs and 30 new lows.

There were 73 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the Big Board compared with 93 Thursday. The biggst was 199,700 shares of General Tire at 28, up 1⅝.

Rails, steels, and electronics were higher. All other stock categories were mixed.

The Amex price change index claimed .04 to 25.27. Volume was 2.23 million shares compared with 3.22 million shares Thursday. There were 443 advances and 391 declines out of 1,090 issues traded.

Corporate bonds were slightly higher.

Commodity Prices Mixed

Chicago (AP) — The weather, condition of crops and concern over effects of President Nixon's new economic orders tended to produce a disparity in price movement of commodity futures on the Chicago Board of Trade this past week.

The commodity futures-concerned with the soybean and corn crops still in the ground—fell back heavily. Wheat futures, representing crops largely harvested were irregular.

When trade had closed on Friday, soybeans were 6¾ to 10¾ cents a bushel lower, September 3.18¼; corn was 3⅞ to 6¾ cents lower, September 1.18⅝; wheat was 3⅜ to 4¾ cents higher, September 1.48 and oats were ⅛ lower to ¾ higher, September .66⅜.

Soybean oil was 55 to 87 points lower, September 13.47; soybean meal was 70 points lower to 45 higher, September 80.10; and iced broilers were 57 to 83 points lower, September 26.50.

Soviet Intentions Worrying Rumania

©The New York Times

By TAD SZULC

Washington — Rumania is displaying growing concern over what foreign diplomats describe as a Soviet "war of nerves" against the regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu that has been in progress since midsummer.

Reports reaching here from Bucharest portray Rumania as taking new political and diplomatic "precautions" in the light of Moscow's mounting pressure. This pressure appears to reflect Soviet displeasure with Rumania's intimacy with China and her independent economic policies.

Diplomats suggest that these reports from Bucharest, conveying the Rumanian views, may represent a diplomatic drive by Ceausescu to head off any Soviet moves by alerting the world to the possibility of trouble with Moscow.

Since June, when Ceausescu visiting Peking, the Russians and their allies have been applying a form of psychological warfare against Rumania, ranging from a series of Warsaw Pact military maneuvers and secret conferences of high Communist leaders to widespresd criticism in the news media.

Bucharest is said to believe that while Soviet military action is not necessarily imminent, the Rumanians are under the strongest political pressures since the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia by Warsaw Pact armies in August, 1968.

Foreign diplomats and American officials said that the pressures on Rumania were "uneven," increasing or decreasing over successive weeks.

In general, western diplomats considered it unlikely that the Soviet Union would engage in military action against Rumania at a time of growing detente with the west. Including the tentative agreement on Berlin.

But, they said, Moscow's concern with China and the ramifications of active Chinese policies in the Balkans is so great that, in the words of an official here, "it would be unwise to disregard all these pressures."

In Aug., 1968, Ceausescu feared that Moscow might seek to complete its "normalization efforts in eastern Europe with an attack on Rumania. The Rumanians have long practiced independent foreign policies. They had established warm ties with Prague's "liberal communists," and pointedly refused to support the Warsaw Pact against Czechoslovakia.

Consequently, Ceausescu mobilized his military forces and launched a worldwide diplomatic offensive to win support for Rumania. Bucharest is known to believe that a warning to Moscow by former President Lyndon B. Johnson and responses from other governments may have played a role in dissuading the Russians from action against Rumania.

Diplomats here say that the Ceausescu government has again turned to quiet diplomatic efforts to forestall any form of drastic Soviet action, including economic sanctions.

Simultaneously, they noted, Ceausescu has set in motion in the last 10 days a major campaign to rally all segments of Rumanian society, particularly the military, behind his domestic and foreign policies.

The president summoned an unusual joint session of the Communist Party's Central Committee, the state council and the cabinet to obtain a public expression of support.

This occurred on Aug. 19, a day after ambassador Vasily I. Drozdenko of the Soviet Union called on him to deliver what diplomats said were "veiled threats."

The Rumanian press described Ceausescu's meeting with Ambassador Drozdenko as "comradely," which in Communist parlance usually connote failure to reach agreement.

Tropical Storm Doria Slams North Carolina

Morehead City, N.C. (UPI) — Tropical Storm Doria, spinning off a tornado as it came ashore, slammed into the North Carolina coast Friday with 65 mph winds and torrential rains that posed a serious flooding threat as far north as New England.

Vacationers fled beach resorts and cities up and down the seaboard — including New York and Washington — were deluged with rain.

The fourth tropical storm of the season made its landfall about 30 miles west of Cape Lookout at 3 p.m. EDT and struck out on a course paralleling the coast.

"If Doria should turn any further to the east . . . it would reemerge over water and rapidly gain further strength," the National Hurricane Center warned.

"This would require the issuance of hurricane warnings for the New York and New England areas . . . all interests should stand by for urgent emergency action should this be necessary."

Atlantic Beach was hit by 68 mph winds — just 7 below hurricane strength — as the storm came ashore. Hatteras reported wind blasts of 58 mph, and New Bern had 52 mph winds.

Coastal flooding was reported all along the North Carolina Capes.

The tornado spawned by Doria knocked two mobile homes off their foundations at Holly Ridge, a small community five miles inland from Surf City. There were no injuries.

"It came suddenly like a roar and it was completely dark," Mrs. James Cottrell, wife of the Holly Ridge Police chief explained. Everything seemed to be twisting around and around for a minute — that's all it took."

Hurricane watches were discontinued on the Carolina coast after the storm hit, but the Weather Bureau warned that with Doria steering a course parallel to the coast, gale force winds would continue to pound the outer banks and that tides would run 3 to 5 feet above normal.

A late afternoon advisory on the storm placed the center near New Bern, or about 20 miles north of Morehead City. It was moving north or slightly east of north at about 25 m.p.h., and high winds of 65 m.p.h. were clocked east and northeast of the center.

A flash flood watch was sounded for central and eastern Virginia, eastern and central Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania, eastern New York and southern and eastern New England.

More than five inches of rain fell on the eastern shore of Maryland, and flooding was reported on major streets of New York City.

"We just went down to the seawall to watch the ocean washing over, and a big wave just came up and covered the whole car," said Atlantic Beach Police Chief W. W. Moore shortly after the storm. The water quickly drained away as Doria moved on.

The big blue and white striped tent at which "Once Upon a Mattress" was being played by a local company for tourists was blown down as the storm hit Atlantic Beach.

Producer-Director Ted Hardison looked at the wreckage and said "This is a day I won't forget."

ASCS Office Gives Facts About Freeze

Lancaster County residents with questions on operation and interpretation of the 90-day wage-price freeze may obtain information from the Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office, according to the county ASCS committee chairman, Dale Nelson.

County ASCS office, however, will not handle complaints or appeals, he added. Persons with complaints should register them with the most convenient district or subdistrict office of the Internal Revenue Service.

Stocks Higher In Slow Trade

New York (AP) — Stock market prices slipped somewhat but remained on the upside in Friday's slow trading.

The closing Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks gained 2.05 to 908.15. Earlier it was up more than 3½ points.

Brokers said the market was experiencing some mild profit taking which held the market back despite some encouraging news. They said this was normal in the light of the strong rally gains of the past two weeks.

"The market got some good news because Tokyo finally capitulated and decided to float the yen," said Robert Johnson, ananlyst with Paine, Webber, Jackson of Curtis.

"The implication is they will revalue the yen, and that's a good sign economically," he explained. "President Nixon said when our foreign currencies got in line with the dollar, and he was especially referring to the yen, he would remove the 10% import surcharge."

Other analysts noted it also was encouraging that the government reported its index of leading economic indicators rose last month after declining in June.

Big Board volume was 12.5 million shares compared with 13.99 million shares Thursday.

There were 813 advances and 550 declines out of 1,664 issues traded on the Big Board. The market had 53 new yearly highs and 30 new lows.

The Associated Press 60-stock average rose .1 to 381.9, with industrials up 1.0, rails off .1, and utilities off .5.

There were 73 big blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the Big Board compared with 93 Thursday. The biggst was 199,700 shares of General Tire at 28, up 1⅝.

Rails, steels, and electronics were higher. All other stock categories were mixed.

The Amex price change index claimed .04 to 25.27. Volume was 2.23 million shares compared with 3.22 million shares Thursday. There were 443 advances and 391 declines out of 1,090 issues traded.

Corporate bonds were slightly higher.

Commodity Prices Mixed

Chicago (AP) — The weather, condition of crops and concern over effects of President Nixon's new economic orders tended to produce a disparity in price movement of commodity futures on the Chicago Board of Trade this past week.

The commodity futures-concerned with the soybean and corn crops still in the ground—fell back heavily. Wheat futures, representing crops largely harvested were irregular.

Soybean oil, meal and iced broilers were weak at the end of the week's trade .

When trade had closed on Friday, soybeans were 6¾ to 10¾ cents a bushel lower, September 3.18¼; corn was 3⅞ to 6¾ cents lower, September 1.18⅝; wheat was 3⅜ to 4¾ cents higher, September 1.48 and oats were ⅛ lower to ¾ higher, September .66⅜.

Soybean oil was 55 to 87 points lower, September 13.47; soybean meal was 70 points lower to 45 higher, September 80.10; and iced broilers were 57 to 83 points lower, September 26.50.

Soviet Intentions Worrying Rumania

©The New York Times

By TAD SZULC

Washington — Rumania is displaying growing concern over what foreign diplomats describe as a Soviet "war of nerves" against the regime of President Nicolae Ceausescu that has been in progress since midsummer.

Reports reaching here from Bucharest portray Rumania as taking new political and diplomatic "precautions" in the light of Moscow's mounting pressure. This pressure appears to reflect Soviet displeasure with Rumania's intimacy with China and her independent economic policies.

Diplomats suggest that these reports from Bucharest, conveying the Rumanian views, may represent a diplomatic drive by Ceausescu to head off any Soviet moves by alerting the world to the possibility of trouble with Moscow.

Since June, when Ceausescu visiting Peking, the Russians and their allies have been applying a form of psychological warfare against Rumania, ranging from a series of Warsaw Pact military maneuvers and secret conferences of high Communist leaders to widespresd criticism in the news media.

Bucharest is said to believe that while Soviet military action is not necessarily imminent, the Rumanians are under the strongest political pressures since the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia by Warsaw Pact armies in August, 1968.

Foreign diplomats and American officials said that the pressures on Rumania were "uneven," increasing or decreasing over successive weeks.

Some specialists believe that the pressure may have "peaked out" since Ceausescu embarked on his "precautionary" steps this month.

In general, western diplomats considered it unlikely that the Soviet Union would engage in military action against Rumania at a time of growing detente with the west. Including the tentative agreement on Berlin.

But, they said, Moscow's concern with China and the ramifications of active Chinese policies in the Balkans is so great that, in the words of an official here, "it would be unwise to disregard all these pressures."

In Aug., 1968, Ceausescu feared that Moscow might seek to complete its "normalization efforts in eastern Europe with an attack on Rumania. The Rumanians have long practiced independent foreign policies. They had established warm ties with Prague's "liberal communists," and pointedly refused to support the Warsaw Pact against Czechoslovakia.

Consequently, Ceausescu mobilized his military forces and launched a worldwide diplomatic offensive to win support for Rumania. Bucharest is known to believe that a warning to Moscow by former President Lyndon B. Johnson and responses from other governments may have played a role in dissuading the Russians from action against Rumania.

Diplomats here say that the Ceausescu government has again turned to quiet diplomatic efforts to forestall any form of drastic Soviet action, including economic sanctions.

Simultaneously, they noted, Ceausescu has set in motion in the last 10 days a major campaign to rally all segments of Rumanian society, particularly the military, behind his domestic and foreign policies.

The president summoned an unusual joint session of the Communist Party's Central Committee, the state council and the cabinet to obtain a public expression of support.

This occurred on Aug. 19, a day after ambassador Vasily I. Drozdenko of the Soviet Union called on him to deliver what diplomats said were "veiled threats."

The Rumanian press described Ceausescu's meeting with Ambassador Drozdenko as "comradely," which in Communist parlance usually connote failure to reach agreement.

Tropical Storm Doria Slams North Carolina

Morehead City, N.C. (UPI) — Tropical Storm Doria, spinning off a tornado as it came ashore, slammed into the North Carolina coast Friday with 65 mph winds and torrential rains that posed a serious flooding threat as far north as New England.

Vacationers fled beach resorts and cities up and down the seaboard — including New York and Washington — were deluged with rain.

The fourth tropical storm of the season made its landfall about 30 miles west of Cape Lookout at 3 p.m. EDT and struck out on a course paralleling the coast.

"If Doria should turn any further to the east . . . it would reemerge over water and rapidly gain further strength," the National Hurricane Center warned.

"This would require the issuance of hurricane warnings for the New York and New England areas . . . all interests should stand by for urgent emergency action should this be necessary."

Atlantic Beach was hit by 68 mph winds — just 7 below hurricane strength — as the storm came ashore. Hatteras reported wind blasts of 58 mph, and New Bern had 52 mph winds.

Coastal flooding was reported all along the North Carolina Capes.

The tornado spawned by Doria knocked two mobile homes off their foundations at Holly Ridge, a small community five miles inland from Surf City. There were no injuries.

"It came suddenly like a roar and it was completely dark," Mrs. James Cottrell, wife of the Holly Ridge Police chief explained. Everything seemed to be twisting around and around for a minute — that's all it took."

Hurricane watches were discontinued on the Carolina coast after the storm hit, but the Weather Bureau warned that with Doria steering a course parallel to the coast, gale force winds would continue to pound the outer banks and that tides would run 3 to 5 feet above normal.

A late afternoon advisory on the storm placed the center near New Bern, or about 20 miles north of Morehead City. It was moving north or slightly east of north at about 25 m.p.h., and high winds of 65 m.p.h. were clocked east and northeast of the center.

A flash flood watch was sounded for central and eastern Virginia, eastern and central Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey, eastern Pennsylvania, eastern New York and southern and eastern New England.

More than five inches of rain fell on the eastern shore of Maryland, and flooding was reported on major streets of New York City.

"We just went down to the seawall to watch the ocean washing over, and a big wave just came up and covered the whole car," said Atlantic Beach Police Chief W. W. Moore shortly after the storm. The water quickly drained away as Doria moved on.

The big blue and white striped tent at which "Once Upon a Mattress" was being played by a local company for tourists was blown down as the storm hit Atlantic Beach.

Producer-Director Ted Hardison looked at the wreckage and said "This is a day I won't forget."

ASCS Office Gives Facts About Freeze

Lancaster County residents with questions on operation and interpretation of the 90-day wage-price freeze may obtain information from the Lancaster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office, according to the county ASCS committee chairman, Dale Nelson.

County ASCS office, however, will not handle complaints or appeals, he added. Persons with complaints should register them with the most convenient district or subdistrict office of the Internal Revenue Service.

Hundreds Of U.S. Students Stranded By Ticket Fraud

©The New York Times

New York — Hundreds of Americans, most of them college students, are stranded in Europe because charter airlines have refused to honor their return tickets.

Most of the tickets were bought at two New York travel agencies that are now defunct and under investigation for fraud.

Government officials said they feared the number of stranded young people could grow substantially between now and labor day, as more arrive at airports and discover their return tickets are worthless.

In London, where some of the youths are looking for jobs and selling personal possessions to raise money for another ticket, the United States Embassy sent a cable to the State Department in Washington urging a prompt crack down by the Civil Aeronautics Board on illicit charter flight sales in New York and elsewhere.

Big Racket

"At the moment people are selling these kids tickets in discotheques, slot machine arcades and cafes. It is the biggest racket in New York, it seems."

In Washington, the C.A.B. said it was investigating the situation, but said that it had limited jurisdiction in the matter.

There was no way of determining Friday how many persons were currently stranded in London and other European cities, but a C.A.B. official estimated it was probably close to 350 at least.

According to state and federal authorities, most of the worthless return-flight vouchers were sold by the University Students Association and the American Union of Students, both agencies maintained offices here until recently.

The two agencies had paid through intermediaries for several European non-scheduled airlines to carry the youths from New York to Europe, but officials of the airlines claimed they were not paid for the return trip, and so they refused to honor the return-flight vouchers.

The offices of both travel agencies were vacant and employes at other offices in the buildings said they did not know where the officials of the two agencies had gone.

Under Investigation

Barnett Levy, director of the consumer frauds division in the office of State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, said his office had been investigating the American Union for Students for about two weeks, following complaints from about 40 persons who discovered return tickets bought from the company were worthless and flew home after buying another ticket.

Levy said the American Union of Students had sold round-trip New York-London tickets for about $200, requiring the passengers to join fictitious clubs in order to appear to have met C.A.B. rules that limit charter flights to members of bona fide clubs for at least six months.

He said the organization pad paid a Manhattan company called Economy Travel Center Inc. for the one-way passage to London. Economy Travel Center Inc. then paid unidentified British nonscheduled airlines for the one-way trip.

AUS Defunct

Last week, Levy continued, the American Union of Students "became defunct" and was taken over by another firm with an identical name that is headquartered in Dearborn, Mich.

This company, he said, claimed it did not have any funds to pay Economy Travel Center Inc. for the return flights, and hence the charter airlines had refused to honor the return voucher.

"It's a typical example of the kind of deal we've been fighting every summer for eight years, and we feel the only way to do it is through legislation that will require licensing and bonding of travel agents," Levy said.

Gale Retires From FBI

©The New York Times

Washington — James H. Gale, an assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and its chief organized-crime fighter, has retired, according to reliable sources.

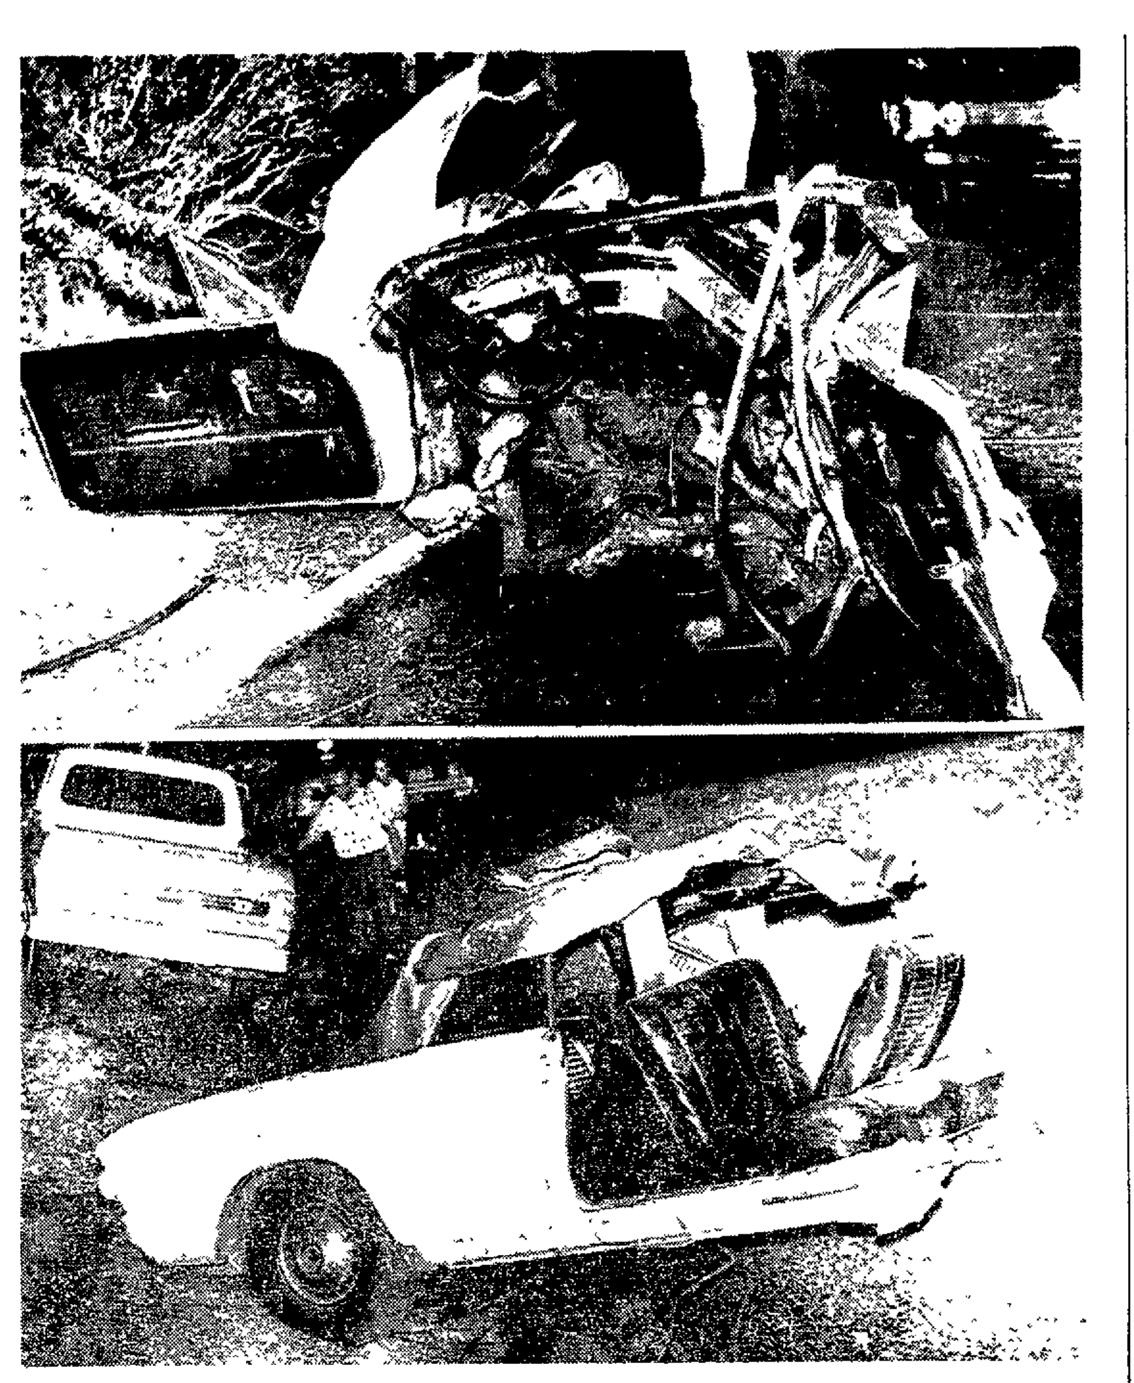
Neither the FBI nor the 49-year-old Gale would comment. Gale is relatively young to retire, particularly in an agency where many of the top people are older.

His retirement comes at a time when some Justice Department officials are complaining privately that J. Edgar Hoover, the bureau's 76-year-old director has become more inflexible than ever. Hoover has recently been the focus of public controversy. This has been spurred by criticism in Congress.

Gale has been with the FBI for more than 30 years. He took over the special investigative division, which deals with organized crime, in 1964. Henry E. Petersen, a deputy assistant attorney general in the criminal division of the Justice Department, described Gale as "an able, gung-ho guy" who has been effective in fighting crime.

Pope Donates $10,000

Hong Kong (UPI) — The Hong Kong Catholic Center announced Friday that Pope Paul has donated $10,000 to victims of Typhoon Rose which hit Hong Kong last week. A spokesman said the money would be distributed through Caritas, the official Roman Catholic welfare agency.



CRASH CUTS AUTO IN TWO

Two sections of a car sliced completely in half when it collided with another automobile near Pottstown, Pa., are separated by more than 100 feet on the Philadelphia-Reading highway. Two men, one in this car and another in the second auto, were killed. A passenger in this car was injured seriously.

Wallace Isn't Cited For Contempt

Montgomery, Ala. (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel Friday refused to issue an order directing Gov. George C. Wallace to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for interfering with federally-ordered school desegregation.

The panel, which had jurisdiction divided among statewide school desegregation case (Lee vs. Macon), said it lacked jurisdiction because the case had been split with jurisdiction divided among federal courts in Montgomery, Birmingham and Mobile.

A black civil rights attorney had requested the contempt show cause order, charging Wallace and Dr. Leroy Brown, the state school superintendent, had interfered with the school desegregation process in Limestone and Calhoun Counties in north Alabama.

The panel, made up of U.S. 5th circuit court Judge Richard Rives and District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. and H. H. Grooms, said if the plaintiffs were entitled to relief "there is no reason why they cannot secure this relief in the Northern District of Alabama (Birmingham).

"This court has no jurisdiction in the matter as it relates to the Calhoun County, the Limestone County and the city of Oxford systems — the jurisdiction being vested exclusively in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama," said the panel.

The motion was filed after Wallace issued executive orders directing the Limestone County Board to reopen a school that had been closed by federal orders and directing the Calhoun Oxford boards to ignore a federal pairing plan.

Clean-Cut Kid Really An Undercover Agent

New Orleans, La. (AP) — Only 18, William Shayle Mauney wears the shy half-grin of the clean-cut kid who's just locked up a date with the homecoming queen. You'd never guess that he's just completed nine months of undercover work among drug users and sellers.

While other high school pupils were wrapped up in athletics, school dances and endless gab sessions, he moved coolly through the world where the main maxim is "never trust a newcomer."

50 Arrests

His efforts for the New Orleans Police Department resulted in more than 50 arrests earlier this week, and more than 30 against whom he built cases have still not been apprehended.

Most of those arrested were charged with sale of LSD, heroin and marijuana. A few others were charged with possession.

His efforts also resulted in his losing the first-chair clarinet seat in his high school band, some "rough times" from teachers and school..ad- teachers and school ad- loss of several friends.

Police Cadet Mauney, who prefers to be called by his middle name, still has more than two years to go before he is a full-fledged policeman. Cadets are generally assigned routine jobs in administrative offices.

Shayle said he went into the undercover work because he could see "what the drug thing had done to some friends."

85% Smoke

Shayle estimated that 85% of the youth of the New Orleans area "at least smoke some weed." He said also that of the hundred or so regular users of marijuana known to him, "all but four or five have gone on to worse stuff."

"I saw some good in a lot of the people I built cases against," he said, "and I hope what I did brings it out."

"Some people were getting suspicious,," he said, so the Police Department arranged to have him arrested to improve his cover.

Several youths were so suspicious that they cornered him in a room and threatened him with a shotgun, the cadet said, but he talked his way out. The "arrest" calmed any suspicions that remained in the minds of those he was investigating.

Grades Fall

Shayle began to miss school, and his grades fell from A's to B's.

"The assistant principal got on me a little when I started to let my hair grow long," Shayle said. He remembers most a lecture he got from one of his teachers.

"She told me I'd lost my ambition, that I was traveling with a bad crowd and that I'd probably wind up running away from home. Then she told me she was kicking me out of her honors course."

Shayle wasn't kicked out of the class, but he did lose his first-clarinet position in the school band.

Shayle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mauney, were aware of the role their son was playing.

"After I was arrested," Shayle said, "my mother caught some stuff from some people, but she didn't say anything."

Viet War Heads List On Chou-Nixon Agenda

Zagreb, Yugoslavia (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai says that if President Nixon seeks accommodation with Communist China from his forthcoming visit to Peking, "the first requirement that must be met is terminating the war in Indochina and withdrawal of all American troops from the area."

The Red Chinese leader put the question of Vietnam at the top of any prospective Nixon-Chou agenda, even ahead of the issue of Red China's claims to sovereignty over Nationalist-held Taiwan.

Chou made his statement in an interview with a Yugoslav correspondent in Peking, published here Friday.

Troops Must Go

The U.S. government "must realize that if it wishes a relaxation of the situation in the Far East," said Chou, American troops must withdraw from Taiwan and the Taiwan Straits, where the U.S. 7th Fleet has been protecting the republican government of Chiang Kai-shek. U.S. troops, he said, also must get out of South Korea, Japan and Thailand, "but above all from Indochina."

In the interview as published by Vjesnik, a major daily in this Croatian capital, Chou dismissed contentions that his summit with President Nixon would make a solution in Vietnam more difficult or would worsen the East-West situation in Europe.

"We must force the United States to accept the demands of the peoples and act accordingly," he added.

Not Super Power

While opposing such policies, Chou said, China "will never act as a superpower, and will prove its stand with support to the demands of middle-size and small countries."

In Asia, China will strive for "liberation" of the Vietnamese and other Indochinese peoples; do everything to prevent an intrusion of Japanese militarism in that part of the world, and would also strive that the Indian subcontinent and Indian Ocean are freed from the control of the two superpowers," Chou said.

"We shall never bargain with our principles, regardless of what kind of imperialism is involved," he stated.

Chou noted that "contacts between the Soviet Union and the United States have been going on since the time of Khrushchev" and that nobody forbids such contacts.

Two Powers Opposed

"What China opposes is that two superpowers dominate the world, dividing it between them," he added.

Chou said that if one speculated about deterioration of the situation in Europe as a result of talks between China and America, then one could speculate that the Indochinese should continue to engage American and other foreign troops with the purpose of preventing tension in Europe.

"If we were to be attacked and occupied by the Soviet Union from the north to the Yellow River; if the United States were to occupy the southern part of China up to the Yangtze; if the Japanese militarists were to occupy eastern China, with India provoking a frontier conflict, breaking into Tibet and occupying the southwest — would relaxation of the situation in Europe ensue as a result?" Chou asked.

He said that the United States, trying to solve its difficulties, conducts policies that cause sharpened relations with Japan, Western Europe, with the European Common Market and in international economic relations in general.

Council Sets 1971-72 Levy At 27.12 Mills

The City Council Friday met in special session to adopt the city budget and set the levy at 27.12 mills.

The vote on the levy was unanimous and without any discussion at the brief meeting.

The mayor and council had added increases to the mayor's proposed budget which called for a 26.97 levy during budget review sessions. The 1970-71 levy was 26.19.

The adopted $64 million budget calls for the expenditure of $16,260,120 from tax funds, which includes $1,706,000 for capital improvements.

Hospital To Start Pastoral Training

Bryan Memorial Hospital's Clinical Pastoral Education Program, which trains chaplain interns to work with patients and families in time of crisis, convenes its fall clinic Wednesday.

Supervised by hospital chaplain John Paolini, the interns work with various medical committees and with patients. According to Kenneth Stevens, director of information at Bryan, the training helps introduce chaplain interns to the hospital's team approach to better health care.

Police Occupy Towers

New Orleans, La. (UPI) — Two observation towers on Canal Street, located at the Rampart Street and Saint Charles Street intersections, were manned for the first time Friday by police officers with binoculars and portable radios. Police Chief Clarence Giarrusso said the towers will allow the police to provide a faster response to any emergency on the city's biggest thoroughfare.

Mrs. Wentz Will Continue Serving March Of Dimes

Mrs. Stanley Wentz of Lincoln has been reappointed Nebraska volunteer advisor for The National Foundation-March of Dimes.

Mrs. Wentz will be involved in informing the public of vaccines against rubella (German measles) and an inoculation that prevents Rh incompatibility disease, both new measures for the prevention of birth defects.

Mrs. Wentz has served the Lancaster County Chapter of the March of Dimes as a board member, is a former president of the Lincoln Junior Women's Club, a former chairman of "Operation Healthy Babies" and a charter member and organizing chairman of the Heritage League.

Hundreds Of U.S. Students Stranded By Ticket Fraud

©The New York Times

New York — Hundreds of Americans, most of them college students, are stranded in Europe because charter airlines have refused to honor their return tickets.

Most of the tickets were bought at two New York travel agencies that are now defunct and under investigation for fraud.

Government officials said they feared the number of stranded young people could grow substantially between now and labor day, as more arrive at airports and discover their return tickets are worthless.

In London, where some of the youths are looking for jobs and selling personal possessions to raise money for another ticket, the United States Embassy sent a cable to the State Department in Washington urging a prompt crack down by the Civil Aeronautics Board on illicit charter flight sales in New York and elsewhere.

Big Racket

"At the moment people are selling these kids tickets in discotheques, slot machine arcades and cafes. It is the biggest racket in New York, it seems."

In Washington, the C.A.B. said it was investigating the situation, but said that it had limited jurisdiction in the matter.

There was no way of determining Friday how many persons were currently stranded in London and other European cities, but a C.A.B. official estimated it was probably close to 350 at least.

According to state and federal authorities, most of the worthless return-flight vouchers were sold by the University Students Association and the American Union of Students, both agencies maintained offices here until recently.

The two agencies had paid through intermediaries for several European non-scheduled airlines to carry the youths from New York to Europe, but officials of the airlines claimed they were not paid for the return trip, and so they refused to honor the return-flight vouchers.

The offices of both travel agencies were vacant and employes at other offices in the buildings said they did not know where the officials of the two agencies had gone.

Under Investigation

Barnett Levy, director of the consumer frauds division in the office of State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz, said his office had been investigating the American Union for Students for about two weeks, following complaints from about 40 persons who discovered return tickets bought from the company were worthless and flew home after buying another ticket.

Levy said the American Union of Students had sold round-trip New York-London tickets for about $200, requiring the passengers to join fictitious clubs in order to appear to have met C.A.B. rules that limit charter flights to members of bona fide clubs for at least six months.

He said the organization pad paid a Manhattan company called Economy Travel Center Inc. for the one-way passage to London. Economy Travel Center Inc. then paid unidentified British nonscheduled airlines for the one-way trip.

AUS Defunct

Last week, Levy continued, the American Union of Students "became defunct" and was taken over by another firm with an identical name that is headquartered in Dearborn, Mich.

This company, he said, claimed it did not have any funds to pay Economy Travel Center Inc. for the return flights, and hence the charter airlines had refused to honor the return voucher.

"It's a typical example of the kind of deal we've been fighting every summer for eight years, and we feel the only way to do it is through legislation that will require licensing and bonding of travel agents," Levy said.

Gale Retires From FBI

©The New York Times

Washington — James H. Gale, an assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and its chief organized-crime fighter, has retired, according to reliable sources.

Neither the FBI nor the 49-year-old Gale would comment. Gale is relatively young to retire, particularly in an agency where many of the top people are older.

His retirement comes at a time when some Justice Department officials are complaining privately that J. Edgar Hoover, the bureau's 76-year-old director has become more inflexible than ever. Hoover has recently been the focus of public controversy. This has been spurred by criticism in Congress.

Gale has been with the FBI for more than 30 years. He took over the special investigative division, which deals with organized crime, in 1964. Henry E. Petersen, a deputy assistant attorney general in the criminal division of the Justice Department, described Gale as "an able, gung-ho guy" who has been effective in fighting crime.

Pope Donates $10,000

Hong Kong (UPI) — The Hong Kong Catholic Center announced Friday that Pope Paul has donated $10,000 to victims of Typhoon Rose which hit Hong Kong last week. A spokesman said the money would be distributed through Caritas, the official Roman Catholic welfare agency.

CRASH CUTS AUTO IN TWO

Two sections of a car sliced completely in half when it collided with another automobile near Pottstown, Pa., are separated by more than 100 feet on the Philadelphia-Reading highway. Two men, one in this car and another in the second auto, were killed. A passenger in this car was injured seriously.

Wallace Isn't Cited For Contempt

Montgomery, Ala. (UPI) — A three-judge federal panel Friday refused to issue an order directing Gov. George C. Wallace to show cause why he should not be held in contempt for interfering with federally-ordered school desegregation.

The panel, which had jurisdiction divided among statewide school desegregation case (Lee vs. Macon), said it lacked jurisdiction because the case had been split with jurisdiction divided among federal courts in Montgomery, Birmingham and Mobile.

A black civil rights attorney had requested the contempt show cause order, charging Wallace and Dr. Leroy Brown, the state school superintendent, had interfered with the school desegregation process in Limestone and Calhoun Counties in north Alabama.

The panel, made up of U.S. 5th circuit court Judge Richard Rives and District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. and H. H. Grooms, said if the plaintiffs were entitled to relief "there is no reason why they cannot secure this relief in the Northern District of Alabama (Birmingham).

"This court has no jurisdiction in the matter as it relates to the Calhoun County, the Limestone County and the city of Oxford systems — the jurisdiction being vested exclusively in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama," said the panel.

The motion was filed after Wallace issued executive orders directing the Limestone County Board to reopen a school that had been closed by federal orders and directing the Calhoun Oxford boards to ignore a federal pairing plan.

Police Occupy Towers

New Orleans, La. (UPI) — Two observation towers on Canal Street, located at the Rampart Street and Saint Charles Street intersections, were manned for the first time Friday by police officers with binoculars and portable radios. Police Chief Clarence Giarrusso said the towers will allow the police to provide a faster response to any emergency on the city's biggest thoroughfare.

Clean-Cut Kid Really An Undercover Agent

New Orleans, La. (AP) — Only 18, William Shayle Mauney wears the shy half-grin of the clean-cut kid who's just locked up a date with the homecoming queen. You'd never guess that he's just completed nine months of undercover work among drug users and sellers.

While other high school pupils were wrapped up in athletics, school dances and endless gab sessions, he moved coolly through the world where the main maxim is "never trust a newcomer."

The experience left him apparently unmarked. He still affects a loose, casual pose, and he still meets questions openly and frankly.

50 Arrests

His efforts for the New Orleans Police Department resulted in more than 50 arrests earlier this week, and more than 30 against whom he built cases have still not been apprehended.

Most of those arrested were charged with sale of LSD, heroin and marijuana. A few others were charged with possession.

His efforts also resulted in his losing the first-chair clarinet seat in his high school band, some "rough times" from teachers and school..adteachers and school adloss of several friends.

Police Cadet Mauney, who prefers to be called by his middle name, still has more than two years to go before he is a full-fledged policeman. Cadets are generally assigned routine jobs in administrative offices.

Shayle said he went into the undercover work because he could see "what the drug thing had done to some friends."

85% Smoke

Shayle estimated that 85% of the youth of the New Orleans area "at least smoke some weed." He said also that of the hundred or so regular users of marijuana known to him, "all but four or five have gone on to worse stuff."

"I saw some good in a lot of the people I built cases against," he said, "and I hope what I did brings it out."

"Some people were getting suspicious,," he said, so the Police Department arranged to have him arrested to improve his cover.

Several youths were so suspicious that they cornered him in a room and threatened him with a shotgun, the cadet said, but he talked his way out. The "arrest" calmed any suspicions that remained in the minds of those he was investigating.

Grades Fall

Shayle began to miss school, and his grades fell from A's to B's.

"The assistant principal got on me a little when I started to let my hair grow long," Shayle said. He remembers most a lecture he got from one of his teachers.

"She told me I'd lost my ambition, that I was traveling with a bad crowd and that I'd probably wind up running away from home. Then she told me she was kicking me out of her honors course."

Shayle wasn't kicked out of the class, but he did lose his first-clarinet position in the school band.

Shayle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mauney, were aware of the role their son was playing.

"After I was arrested," Shayle said, "my mother caught some stuff from some people, but she didn't say anything."

Viet War Heads List On Chou-Nixon Agenda

Zagreb, Yugoslavia (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai says that if President Nixon seeks accommodation with Communist China from his forthcoming visit to Peking, "the first requirement that must be met is terminating the war in Indochina and withdrawal of all American troops from the area."

The Red Chinese leader put the question of Vietnam at the top of any prospective Nixon-Chou agenda, even ahead of the issue of Red China's claims to sovereignty over Nationalist-held Taiwan.

Troops Must Go

The U.S. government "must realize that if it wishes a relaxation of the situation in the Far East," said Chou, American troops must withdraw from Taiwan and the Taiwan Straits, where the U.S. 7th Fleet has been protecting the republican government of Chiang Kai-shek. U.S. troops, he said, also must get out of South Korea, Japan and Thailand, "but above all from Indochina."

In the interview as published by Vjesnik, a major daily in this Croatian capital, Chou dismissed contentions that his summit with President Nixon would make a solution in Vietnam more difficult or would worsen the East-West situation in Europe.

"We must force the United States to accept the demands of the peoples and act accordingly," he added.

Not Super Power

While opposing such policies, Chou said, China "will never act as a superpower, and will prove its stand with support to the demands of middle-size and small countries."

In Asia, China will strive for "liberation" of the Vietnamese and other Indochinese peoples; do everything to prevent an intrusion of Japanese militarism in that part of the world, and would also strive that the Indian subcontinent and Indian Ocean are freed from the control of the two superpowers," Chou said.

"We shall never bargain with our principles, regardless of what kind of imperialism is involved," he stated.

Chou noted that "contacts between the Soviet Union and the United States have been going on since the time of Khrushchev" and that nobody forbids such contacts.

Two Powers Opposed

"What China opposes is that two superpowers dominate the world, dividing it between them," he added.

Chou said that if one speculated about deterioration of the situation in Europe as a result of talks between China and America, then one could speculate that the Indochinese should continue to engage American and other foreign troops with the purpose of preventing tension in Europe.

"If we were to be attacked and occupied by the Soviet Union from the north to the Yellow River; if the United States were to occupy the southern part of China up to the Yangtze; if the Japanese militarists were to occupy eastern China, with India provoking a frontier conflict, breaking into Tibet and occupying the southwest — would relaxation of the situation in Europe ensue as a result?" Chou asked.

He said that the United States, trying to solve its difficulties, conducts policies that cause sharpened relations with Japan, Western Europe, with the European Common Market and in international economic relations in general.

Council Sets 1971-72 Levy At 27.12 Mills

The City Council Friday met in special session to adopt the city budget and set the levy at 27.12 mills.

The vote on the levy was unanimous and without any discussion at the brief meeting.

The mayor and council had added increases to the mayor's proposed budget which called for a 26.97 levy during budget review sessions. The 1970-71 levy was 26.19.

The adopted $64 million budget calls for the expenditure of $16,260,120 from tax funds, which includes $1,706,000 for capital improvements.

Hospital To Start Pastoral Training

Bryan Memorial Hospital's Clinical Pastoral Education Program, which trains chaplain interns to work with patients and families in time of crisis, convenes its fall clinic Wednesday.

Supervised by hospital chaplain John Paolini, the interns work with various medical committees and with patients. According to Kenneth Stevens, director of information at Bryan, the training helps introduce chaplain interns to the hospital's team approach to better health care.

Chaplain interns participating in the program include: Gary Harrington of Concord, Calif., Wayne Bunn of Lincoln, Clark Mundhenke of Milford and Robert McCleery of Lincoln.

FOR GREATEST ECONOMY — start your ad for 10 times, cancel when you obtain results. You pay only the rate earned at the time of cancellation.

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rate for ads from outside State of Nebraska is 55cents per line.

Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 93% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

DEADLINES FOR FAMILY WANT ADS-Call before 6 p.m. Monday through Friday for publication on following day. Call before 5 p.m. on Saturdays for Monday morning publication. Sunday Journal and Star-Call anytime before 1 p.m. on Saturdays for publication Sunday.

ERRORS: Advertisers should check their ad on first insertion and report any errors at once. Dial 473-7451

ADJUSTMENTS: The company is responsible for typographical errors or misclassification only to cancel the first day's charge on that portion of an ad that may be rendered valueless by that error. All ads will be classified properly.

BLIND BOX SERVICE: There is $1.00 additional charge for this confidential service. When using a Blind Box Number, add 4 additional words to your Want Ad copy, figure the charges from the above table and add $1.00 for Blind Box Service Charges.

OFFICE HOURS: Daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; CLOSED SUNDAY.

31-35	7	2.87	10.36	14.70	17.50

FOR GREATEST ECONOMY — start your ad for 10 times, cancel when you obtain results. You pay only the rate earned at the time of cancellation.

These low-cost rates apply to Want Ads from within the State of Nebraska which are placed for consecutive days and are paid for within 10 days after the ad expires or is canceled. Daily rate for ads from outside State of Nebraska is 55cents per line.

Single paper rates either evening Journal or morning Star, are 93% of the combination rates. These ads would appear under "Too Late To Classify" column.

DEADLINES FOR FAMILY WANT ADS-Call before 6 p.m. Monday through Friday for publication on following day. Call before 5 p.m. on Saturdays for Monday morning publication. Sunday Journal and Star-Call anytime before 1 p.m. on Saturdays for publication Sunday.

ERRORS: Advertisers should check their ad on first insertion and report any errors at once. Dial 473-7451

ADJUSTMENTS: The company is responsible for typographical errors or misclassification only to cancel the first day's charge on that portion of an ad that may be rendered valueless by that error. All ads will be classified properly.

OFFICE HOURS: Daily, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; CLOSED SUNDAY.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.

DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

By the end of 1971, an estimated 3.7 million gas lights will be burning across the country.

There are about 690,000 varieties of insects on earth, and about 80 per cent of them live on plants.

☆ ☆ ☆

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How to Work It

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
